U.S. Waits Soviet Plan For Berlin

Russians Reported Ready With 4-Point Proposal For West

WASHINGTON (AP) — Puzzled U.S. officials awaited today clarification from Moscow of widely published reports that the Soviet Union has developed a four-point proposal for negotiation on a settlement of the Berlin crisis.

There was encouragement among high officials here as evidence that Soviet Premier Khrushchev seems to be moving into a negotiating position. But officials found no hint in the report of Soviet concessions that would give hope of an early East-West agreement on Berlin.

Furthermore, State Department informants said they lacked any official word from U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson in Moscow to the effect that the Soviets had actually come up with a definite point-by-point proposition. On the contrary, word from Thompson Friday was that as far as he could judge basic Soviet policy on West Berlin stands unchanged.

The whole situation is due for discussion by State Department officials and diplomatic representatives of Britain, France and West Germany Monday.

Press dispatches from Moscow Thursday night told of what was described as a new four-point plan being advanced by the Soviet Union for a Berlin solution.

The essence of the proposal, as described in these dispatches, was that Russia and the United States, Britain and France would agree on a new status for West Berlin, guaranteeing the freedom of the city and access to it. East Germany would respect this new Soviet-Western agreement in an accord to be reached by Russia and the East German Communist regime. For their part, the Western powers would undertake to respect the sovereignty of East Germany.

The agreements between Russia and the Western powers would be worked out in advance of Khrushchev's proposed Soviet peace treaty with East Germany.

Guards Foil Escape By 3 At Ohio Pen

Rope Ladder Tips Off Planned Break Over Prison Walls

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Tipped off prison guards looked on Friday night as three convicts tried but failed to escape from Ohio Penitentiary.

The three, each with long criminal records and serving 10 - 25 years for armed robbery, were captured within the prison walls as they tried to climb to a cell block roof.

One, Arthur Frey, 31, was taken to the penitentiary hospital suffering from what appeared to be a fractured spine. He fell 25-30 feet from a rope ladder, officials said.

The other two, Noel A. Morgan, 28, and Thomas Cartwright, 37, were placed in solitary confinement after the attempt. Morgan was halfway up the cell block wall when guards closed in.

Warden Ernie Maxwell and State Corrections Chief Maury C. Koblentz said guards had been tipped off that something was up when they found escape material, including the rope ladder, earlier in the evening.

They said guards watched the trio trying to climb up the side of the building and made no attempt to stop them until Frey fell.

Koblentz explained that other precautions had been taken which would have squelched the escape, but he declined to elaborate.

The corrections chief and the warden gave this account:

Shortly before 8 p.m. the prison population was in the auditorium watching a movie. The stashed escape paraphernalia had been found in the auditorium earlier but was left there while security precautions were put into effect.

Precautions included alerting city police and the Ohio Highway Patrol who apparently were staked out around the penitentiary.

During the movie, Frey, Morgan and Cartwright slipped away on the pretense of going to a wash room.

They took the two sections of rope ladder—one 54 feet long and the other 12 feet long with a hook on the end of it.

They threw the hook-end of the rope ladder up the side of the cell block and caught it on the first of three window ledges, hoping to work their way to the roof ledge by ledge.

If they had reached the roof, Koblentz said, they had planned to go along the building top and slide down the outside wall.

Morgan, first man up the ladder, got to the second ledge. Frey followed him, got 25-30 feet up and then plunged to the ground.

A small pen knife and a pair of pliers were confiscated from the trio. They also had extra prison clothing with them.

Koblentz said no outside assistance was indicated. But he said

U.N. Views Moratorium As 'Utopian'

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —Prime Minister Nehru's call for a moratorium on the cold war sets an elusive goal for the diplomats who must deal with East-West differences.

Many delegates felt the Indian leader's suggestion to the General Assembly Friday that the 103 U.N. members cease political bickering and devote a year to harmonious pursuits is admirable in concept but utopian in fact. He called for cooperation in all fields —"political, cultural or whatever."

To comply fully with such a scheme, the world body would have to set aside for a year consideration of such overriding issues as disarmament and the stopping of nuclear weapons tests —tests which Nehru condemned as basically evil.

It would also virtually rule out debate on the many colonial questions foremost in the minds of the U.N.'s 49 Asian and African members. These questions involve attacks of most of the big powers and are closely intertwined with cold war issues.

Various delegates hailed Nehru's call for a united attempt to avoid the terror of nuclear disaster instead of thinking about "burrowing under the earth like rats in a hole."

Many expressed disappointment, however, that the Indian leader did not advance more concrete proposals than a generalized appeal for political and cultural cooperation.

Interpretations of what he did propose varied.

U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson said the idea of a year devoted to cooperation was a good one but hardly new. The United States, he said, had been cooperating with nations for years.

One African delegate quoted a saying "When there is too much salt in the dish it is hard to improve."

"There is too much trouble at the U.N. now for Mr. Nehru's suggestions to have much effect," he said.

India itself has been one of the most controversial members of the United Nations in recent years.

Chimp Orbit Not Delayed By Explosion

Monkey Death Fails To Hold Up Slated Launch Next Week

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —The explosion of an Atlas missile that killed a small monkey will not delay an attempt to launch a chimpanzee into orbit next week, officials report.

The Atlas exploded in flight Friday and a 1½-pound squirrel monkey named Goliath died in the fiery blast. Scientists had hoped to learn his reaction to stresses of space travel during the intended 650-mile high 5,000-mile down range flight.

Goliath is the 29th known rocket-borne animal, Russian and American, to die in man's effort to learn how he might be affected by journeys into space. Several other animal deaths undoubtedly have occurred but have not been made public.

Careful analysis of data radioed from the missile showed the trouble should not be experienced on another Atlas scheduled to lift the chimpanzee into orbit on the last scheduled Project Mercury launching before an American astronaut is whirled into orbit.

The missile, the 100th Atlas launched, was an advanced E. model. This is a more powerful and vastly different rocket than the more thoroughly tested and reliable Atlas D used in the Mercury program.

The D and E Atlases have many similar characteristics. If a part or system common to both missiles had been at fault Friday, the chimpanzee shot probably would have been held up until the trouble was corrected.

A delay of more than a week in the chimp orbit attempt—which will be a three-times-around-the-world effort — probably would make orbiting an American this year impossible. This is the goal of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The launch Friday was not connected with Project Mercury.

Court Stays Execution Of Ohio Slayer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The death row countdown in Ohio Penitentiary for the electrocution of Clarence V. Ferguson came to a halt Friday afternoon.

It was just a few hours before the 8 p.m. execution time that word came from Washington that Justice Potter Stewart of the U.S. Supreme Court had granted the 19-year - old Cleveland slayer a stay.

It climaxed a rush of activity by counsel for the youth convicted of the March 4 holdup-slaying of druggist Benjamin Kaufman, 62, in Cleveland.

Attorney Edward D. Stanley of Columbus had taken the case to Cuyahoga County Friday morning after the 10th District Court of Appeals in Columbus the day before declined to consider the case until other avenues were exhausted.

Stanley moved in Cleveland to withdraw Ferguson's plea of guilty of homicide. Ferguson, after originally pleading innocent, changed his plea to guilty at his trial after the first witness testified.

Scheduled to go to the electric chair Oct. 6, Ferguson had been given a reprieve that day by Gov. Michael V. DiSalle.

DiSalle had no comment on the case Friday when he announced he had been notified of justice Stewart's action.

Ferguson's execution would have been the first at the penitentiary under the direction of Ernie Maxwell who became warden recently.

Veterans Day Marked

President Kennedy Sets Solemn Tone On Holiday

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy goes to Arlington National Cemetery on this Veterans Day to honor the dead there and the millions who served and still live.

The program at the Tomb of the Unknowns, where the President was to speak briefly after laying a wreath, set the tone for ceremonies across the country.

The occasion was solemn and the background of events grim. The nation was mobilizing to defend itself against a possible war.

The hour for the Arlington Ceremony was 11 a.m.—the time of day when the Armistice ended World War I, fought, it was said then, to end all wars. There have been two major conflicts since—World War II and the Korean War.

The schedule for the ceremony was brief—a matter of a few minutes including the time for the President's remarks.

Kennedy came to make his speech both as a President and as a veteran. In World War II he was a PT boat captain, fighting against big ships with little craft in the far corners of the Pacific.

There are about 22-million veterans who served in the U.S. armed forces. About 15 million served in World War II and about 960,000 of these were still in service or came back to serve in the Korean War. The remainder of the veterans served in World War I, the Spanish-American War, and in other, smaller conflicts, or were in the armed forces in peacetime.

Coraopolis Motorist Killed Below Weirton

WEIRTON — Marion Eugene Bowling, 25, of Coraopolis was fatally injured in a traffic mishap Friday night on State Route 2 in nearby Brooke County.

Two Coraopolis youths in the car driven by Bowling received back and internal injuries but were in fair condition at a Weirton hospital. They are David Henderson, 18, and Paul Vargo, 20.

Burt Sharp, 42, of Weirton, driver of the second auto involved in the two - car collision just south of here, was treated at the hospital and released.

Final Count Confirms Board Race

Coin Toss Likely In Wayne Race; New Columbiana Tally

Completing its work late Friday night, including the gigantic task of listing the names of 129 write-in candidates for the Board of Education of the Southern-Franklin Local School District, the County Election Board today certified the results of Tuesday's balloting to the Secretary of State's office.

The official tally confirmed Tuesday's unofficial results for the board of the recently merged district, and also showed a coin toss will be needed to decide the winner of a Wayne Township trustee post and indicated a recount may be asked in the race for a seat on Columbiana Village Council.

The official count also disclosed Mrs. Agnes Dunlop widened her margin of victory to 10 votes over Samuel W. Brown, incumbent, for a seat on the East Liverpool Board of Education.

The official vote showed four-year terms on the Southern-Franklin Local school board will go to Robert Skinner and Miss Ruth McNicol, both of Salineville, and Charles Allison of near Highlandtown while Jack Stewart of Yellow Creek and Mrs. Mary E. (Betty) Rhodes of Salineville won two-year terms.

Skinner polled 578 votes in the write-in campaign for the four-year term while Miss McNicol received 287 and Allison 229.

Stewart polled 175 and Mrs. Rhodes received 132 for the two-year terms.

Stewart is the only member of the interim board, appointed by the County Board of Education to serve until Jan 3, to return to the post.

Skinner, a rural mail carrier, served on the former Southern Local board and denounced County Supt. James L. McBride in an open letter concerning the merger.

Miss McNicol is employed in the clerk of courts office at the Courthouse; Alison is chief clerk of the Buckeye Works of the H. K. Porter Co., and Mrs. Rhodes is a clerk at the Salineville Variety Store.

"It must have set a record for the number of school board candidates," Frank R. O'Hanlon, election board clerk, commented in pointing out 74 persons received write-in votes for the four-year terms and 55 polled votes for the two-year terms.

"A team of three women worked for two days canvassing the ballots," O'Hanlon said. Both abstracts are more than three feet long.

Mrs Dunlop polled 2,047 votes to become the first woman elected to the East Liverpool school

Driver Of Stolen Car Reported As 'Serious'

Roy Cain, 20, of Clairton, Pa., remains in "serious" condition at Ohio Valley Hospital at McKees Rocks with a fractured back and crushed chest suffered when he wrecked a car allegedly stolen Thursday afternoon in Chester.

Cain lost control of the car on a curve on Route 30 about five miles west of Clinton and crashed into a utility pole. Police said Cain was driving a compact owned by the Buckeye Biscuit Co. of Akron. Pennsylvania State Police at Carnegie have filed charges of reckless driving and driving without an operator's permit against Cain.

'Guide' Hearing Held

Public Supports St. Clair Project

Public opinion preponderantly in favor of improvement of outer St. Clair Ave. was recorded Friday afternoon in a formal hearing conducted by city officials as a guide to the State Highway Department and the Federal Bureau of Public Roads.

Twenty residents of the St. Clair Ave. area spoke at the hour-long meeting in City Hall after hearing a brief explanation of plans for a 36-foot wide pavement of 9-inch concrete that is scheduled to be built between Princeton Ave. and Cartwright St. at an estimated cost of $400,000.

ALTHOUGH A FEW had reservations, particularly on the width of the pavement and the traffic and parking restrictions after the improvement is completed, none came out flatly against the project.

A stenographic record was made of all the residents' comments, to be forwarded to the State Highway Department and the federal agency. City Engineer George S. Bloomgren said the sentiments shown in the record will help guide the federal bureau in deciding whether to advance 50 per cent of the cost of the work.

The majority of the speakers favored an improvement without reservation, asserting that St. Clair Ave. in its present condition "is a disgrace" and "a hazard" despite the fact it is one of the city's main traffic arteries.

Boosts Seen In Help For Unemployed

President Appoints Economist In Bid To Check Statistics

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's orders for a study of the unemployment count were first step in a drive to revise and expand the unemployment insurance system.

Congress this year swiftly complied with Kennedy's first legislative proposal — an emergency extension of unemployment insurance benefits for workers who had exhausted theirs.

But an administration bill making permanent changes in the insurance system, broadening coverage, increasing benefits and raising taxes, has been in the House Ways and Means Committee without action since June.

Kennedy appointed Friday a committee headed by Robert Aaron Gordon, University of California economist, to study the methods by which the government arrives at its estimates of unemployment. The committee is to make recommendations for any needed improvements.

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg, who suggested the study, remarked it was "essential that the public have complete confidence in the statistics."

Meany Asks 2 Moves On Civil Rights

Labor Chief Calls For Housing Action And Fair Work Law

NEW YORK (AP) — George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, called today for two steps to help eliminate racial discrimination—a presidential executive order on housing and a national fair employment practices law.

Meany, in a tape-recorded address, told the Conference on Civil Rights of the New York City Central Labor Council that he was aware that civil rights was customarily described as a moral issue.

But the real issue, he said, "is what we are doing, in a practical, hard-headed way, to translate this moral righteousness into the form of material justice for those who are now denied it."

What is needed, he said, is an executive order on housing that is "just as explicit" as the executive order that bars job discrimination on government contracts and in federal government.

But, he said, there is another element—the ability to rent or buy decent, desegregated housing once it is available.

"Even now, there would be no lack of buyers," he said.

Long Friction Ends

Truman And Ike Speak At Rite; 'Hatchet Buried'

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower have buried the hatchet, and Truman was to speak today from a rostrum occupied Friday by Ike.

The two played leading roles in the rededication of the Liberty Memorial, a memorial to peace and the men who have fought for it. It was first dedicated 40 years ago.

Eisenhower, who commanded Allied forces in Europe in World War II, was the principal speaker on the first day of the two-day event.

Truman, who was a captain of artillery in World War I, was to be the speaker on this Veterans Day. He's an old hand at making speeches on Nov. 11, which originally was known as Armistice Day and marked the end of the war in which he fought.

The two former chiefs of state had been at odds since the 1952 political campaign, in which Eisenhower won his first term as president against Truman's bitter opposition.

Friday, on his arrival here, Eisenhower went directly from the airport to the Truman Memorial Library in adjoining Independence, Mo.

He found Truman standing at the door.

"Come in, come in," Truman said with a smile, as the two shook hands.

"It's good to see you again," Eisenhower replied.

It was the first time either had

Pair Linked To Robbery In Portage

Armed Bandits Hit Bank In Kent Only 9 Hours Previous

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — The First State Bank at North Lima, 10 miles south of here, was robbed of an estimated $20,000 by two gunmen friday night about nine hours after a bank in Kent had been robbed of a similar amount.

Police said there was a possibility that the North Lima robbers were the same pair that held up the West Branch of the Portage National Bank at Kent. North Lima is about 50 miles southeast of Kent.

William H. Yoder, executive vice president of the First State Bank, which is open on Friday night, said the two hooded gunmen were armed with a sawed-off shotgun and a submachine gun.

One of the robbers in the Kent holdup also carried a sawed-off shotgun. The robbers apparently entered by jimmying open a rear door.

"We had just closed and the front door was locked," Yoder said.

The gunmen herded three customers and seven employes into the vault and made them lie on the floor. Then they ordered a teller, Mrs. Thelma Bashline, to put money from three cash drawers into a wastebasket.

One of the robbers held the shotgun against Yoder's head and told him to open the money chest in the vault.

'I told him I didn't know the combination," the bank official said. "When they let me come out to get it I set the timer on the vault and told them the chest couldn't be opened for 20 minutes.

"One of the gunmen, who seemed very, very nervous, said 'We've been tricked, let's get out of here.' They herded us into the vault and tried to close the door but couldn't. They apparently left by the rear door.

Mrs. James Villella, an employe of the Portage National Bank, said one of the holdup men there had been in the bank Thursday and got change for a $20 bill.

Belt Proposal At Cleveland Is Abandoned

AKRON — A proposal for building a conveyor belt to carry coal and iron ore from the Cleveland lakefront to nearby steel mills has been abandoned.

H. B. Stewart Jr., chairman of the Akron, Canton & Youngstown Railroad and the man heading the project, said studies dealing with other means of transportation are under way.

Stewart also said the Pennsylvania Railroad is no longer interested in the belt proposal.

Two years ago Stewart and the PRR proposed the $50 million project they said would result in substantial savings in freight rates.

The original proposal in 1949 called for construction of a $210 million two-way conveyor belt to haul coal and ore 130 miles across the Ohio countryside from East Liverpool. The conveyor belt was to have been enclosed in a metal tube above ground, moving at an average speed of seven miles an hour. Legislative opposition developed and the plan was abandoned.

Public Supports St. Clair Project

Public opinion preponderantly in favor of improvement of outer St. Clair Ave. was recorded Friday afternoon in a formal hearing conducted by city officials as a guide to the State Highway Department and the Federal Bureau of Public Roads.

Twenty residents of the St. Clair Ave. area spoke at the hour-long meeting in City Hall after hearing a brief explanation of plans for a 36-foot wide pavement of 9-inch concrete that is scheduled to be built between Princeton Ave. and Cartwright St. at an estimated cost of $400,000.

ALTHOUGH A FEW had reservations, particularly on the width of the pavement and the traffic and parking restrictions after the improvement is completed, none came out flatly against the project.

A stenographic record was made of all the residents' comments, to be forwarded to the State Highway Department and the federal agency. City Engineer George S. Bloomgren said the sentiments shown in the record will help guide the federal bureau in deciding whether to advance 50 per cent of the cost of the work.

The majority of the speakers favored an improvement without reservation, asserting that St. Clair Ave. in its present condition "is a disgrace" and "a hazard" despite the fact it is one of the city's main traffic arteries.

Pair Linked To Robbery In Portage

Armed Bandits Hit Bank In Kent Only 9 Hours Previous

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — The First State Bank at North Lima, 10 miles south of here, was robbed of an estimated $20,000 by two gunmen friday night about nine hours after a bank in Kent had been robbed of a similar amount.

Police said there was a possibility that the North Lima robbers were the same pair that held up the West Branch of the Portage National Bank at Kent. North Lima is about 50 miles southeast of Kent.

William H. Yoder, executive vice president of the First State Bank, which is open on Friday night, said the two hooded gunmen were armed with a sawed-off shotgun and a submachine gun.

One of the robbers in the Kent holdup also carried a sawed-off shotgun. The robbers apparently entered by jimmying open a rear door.

"We had just closed and the front door was locked," Yoder said.

The gunmen herded three customers and seven employes into the vault and made them lie on the floor. Then they ordered a teller, Mrs. Thelma Bashline, to put money from three cash drawers into a wastebasket.

One of the robbers held the shotgun against Yoder's head and told him to open the money chest in the vault.

"I told him I didn't know the combination," the bank official said. "When they let me come out to get it I set the timer on the vault and told them the chest couldn't be opened for 20 minutes.

"One of the gunmen, who seemed very, very nervous, said 'We've been tricked, let's get out of here.' They herded us into the vault and tried to close the door but couldn't. They apparently left by the rear door.

Mrs. James Villella, an employe of the Portage National Bank, said one of the holdup men there had been in the bank Thursday and got change for a $20 bill.

Boosts Seen In Help For Unemployed

President Appoints Economist In Bid To Check Statistics

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's orders for a study of the unemployment count were first step in a drive to revise and expand the unemployment insurance system.

Congress this year swiftly complied with Kennedy's first legislative proposal — an emergency extension of unemployment insurance benefits for workers who had exhausted theirs.

But an administration bill making permanent changes in the insurance system, broadening coverage, increasing benefits and raising taxes, has been in the House Ways and Means Committee without action since June.

Kennedy appointed Friday a committee headed by Robert Aaron Gordon, University of California economist, to study the methods by which the government arrives at its estimates of unemployment. The committee is to make recommendations for any needed improvements.

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg, who suggested the study, remarked it was "essential that the public have complete confidence in the statistics."

Meany Asks 2 Moves On Civil Rights

Labor Chief Calls For Housing Action And Fair Work Law

NEW YORK (AP) — George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, called today for two steps to help eliminate racial discrimination—a presidential executive order on housing and a national fair employment practices law.

Meany, in a tape-recorded address, told the Conference on Civil Rights of the New York City Central Labor Council that he was aware that civil rights was customarily described as a moral issue.

But the real issue, he said, "is what we are doing, in a practical, hard-headed way, to translate this moral righteousness into the form of material justice for those who are now denied it."

What is needed, he said, is an executive order on housing that is "just as explicit" as the executive order that bars job discrimination on government contracts and in federal government.

But, he said, there is another element—the ability to rent or buy decent, desegregated housing once it is available.

"Even now, there would be no lack of buyers," he said.

Belt Proposal At Cleveland Is Abandoned

AKRON — A proposal for building a conveyor belt to carry coal and iron ore from the Cleveland lakefront to nearby steel mills has been abandoned.

H. B. Stewart Jr., chairman of the Akron, Canton & Youngstown Railroad and the man heading the project, said studies dealing with other means of transportation are under way.

Stewart also said the Pennsylvania Railroad is no longer interested in the belt proposal.

Two years ago Stewart and the PRR proposed the $50 million project they said would result in substantial savings in freight rates.

The original proposal in 1949 called for construction of a $210 million two-way conveyor belt to haul coal and ore 130 miles across the Ohio countryside from East Liverpool. The conveyor belt was to have been enclosed in a metal tube above ground, moving at an average speed of seven miles an hour. Legislative opposition developed and the plan was abandoned.

Veterans Day Marked

President Kennedy Sets Solemn Tone On Holiday

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy goes to Arlington National Cemetery on this Veterans Day to honor the dead there and the millions who served and still live.

The program at the Tomb of the Unknowns, where the President was to speak briefly after laying a wreath, set the tone for ceremonies across the country.

The occasion was solemn and the background of events grim. The nation was mobilizing to defend itself against a possible war.

The hour for the Arlington Ceremony was 11 a.m.—the time of day when the Armistice ended World War I, fought, it was said then, to end all wars. There have been two major conflicts since—World War II and the Korean War.

The schedule for the ceremony was brief—a matter of a few minutes including the time for the President's remarks.

Kennedy came to make his speech both as a President and as a veteran. In World War II he was a PT boat captain, fighting against big ships with little craft in the far corners of the Pacific.

There are about 22-million veterans who served in the U.S. armed forces. About 15 million served in World War II and about 960,000 of these were still in service or came back to serve in the Korean War. The remainder of the veterans served in World War I, the Spanish-American War, and in other, smaller conflicts, or were in the armed forces in peacetime.

Coraopolis Motorist Killed Below Weirton

WEIRTON — Marion Eugene Bowling, 25, of Coraopolis was fatally injured in a traffic mishap Friday night on State Route 2 in nearby Brooke County.

Two Coraopolis youths in the car driven by Bowling received back and internal injuries but were in fair condition at a Weirton hospital. They are David Henderson, 18, and Paul Vargo, 20.

Burt Sharp, 42, of Weirton, driver of the second auto involved in the two - car collision just south of here, was treated at the hospital and released.

Driver Of Stolen Car Reported As 'Serious'

Roy Cain, 20, of Clairton, Pa., remains in "serious" condition at Ohio Valley Hospital at McKees Rocks with a fractured back and crushed chest suffered when he wrecked a car allegedly stolen Thursday afternoon in Chester.

Cain lost control of the car on a curve on Route 30 about five miles west of Clinton and crashed into a utility pole. Police said Cain was driving a compact owned by the Buckeye Biscuit Co. of Akron. Pennsylvania State Police at Carnegie have filed charges of reckless driving and driving without an operator's permit against Cain.

Long Friction Ends

Truman And Ike Speak At Rite; 'Hatchet Buried'

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower have buried the hatchet, and Truman was to speak today from a rostrum occupied Friday by Ike.

The two played leading roles in the rededication of the Liberty Memorial, a memorial to peace and the men who have fought for it. It was first dedicated 40 years ago.

Eisenhower, who commanded Allied forces in Europe in World War II, was the principal speaker on the first day of the two-day event.

Truman, who was a captain of artillery in World War I, was to be the speaker on this Veterans Day. He's an old hand at making speeches on Nov. 11, which originally was known as Armistice Day and marked the end of the war in which he fought.

The two former chiefs of state had been at odds since the 1952 political campaign, in which Eisenhower won his first term as president against Truman's bitter opposition.

Friday, on his arrival here, Eisenhower went directly from the airport to the Truman Memorial Library in adjoining Independence, Mo.

He found Truman standing at the door.

"Come in, come in," Truman said with a smile, as the two shook hands.

"It's good to see you again," Eisenhower replied.

It was the first time either had followed in which queries were directed to Bloomgren, Safety-Service Director Robert Owen and William K. DeHaven and Robert J. Schomer, representatives of the Youngstown engineering concern which is working on preliminary plans.

Public Backs Project For St. Clair Ave.

—:—

THE SPEAKERS, in the order in which they appeared, were:

John T. Hall of Elysian Way, president of the Hall China Co.; George Steele, 3292 St. Clair Ave., a member of the City Planning Commission; Jud English, assistant manager of the Columbiana County Motor Club; Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff of Midway Ln.; W. Edward Adkins of Midway Ln., also speaking for a neighbor, Louis C. Hassall.

William B. Cooper, 478 Orchard Grove Ave., insurance agency operator and former president of the Chamber of Commerce; Ralph Musuraca of St. Clair Ave.; Atty. Francis H. Lang, chairman of the Chamber's highway committee; C. V. Hughes of Forsyth Pl., business manager of The Review.

Harry Hill of Harding Ave.; E. L. Wheatley, 2515 St. Clair Ave., president of the International Brotherhood of Operative Potters; Robert W. Sample, 606 McKinnon Ave., a councilman-elect; Don Eckert of Thompson Ave., merchant and chairman of the City Planning Commission.

WILLIAM BAUMGARNER of Midway Ln., operator of a business on St. Clair; Don Smith, 2613 St. Clair Ave., president of the Smith & Phillips Co.; James Patterson of Bloomfield, operator of a St. Clair Ave. service station; J. Norman Nicely of Park Way, president of the Hays Oil Co. and co-chairman of the Chamber's civic improvement committee.

Keith Sevey of Maple Dr., Calcutta, operator of a pharmacy on St. Clair Ave.; John McCaughtry of Chester Ave.; Gordon E. Starkey, 545 Henry Ave., president of the Potters Bank & Trust Co.; Mrs. Sam Reichblum, 2702 St. Clair Ave., and H. R. Howard of Hill Blvd., plastering contractor.

Hall declared St. Clair Ave. is "rough, narrow and unsafe." Because of inadequate storm water drainage, pedestrians must dodge "waterspouts thrown up by cars," he said. Steele asserted the "street has been in very bad condition for a long time, particularly in Maplewood." Most motorists avoid it, if possible, because of the extremely rough pavement, he added.

ENGLISH SAID the improvement is needed "for safety in transportation of our school children and rapid movement of emergency vehicles" as well as the average motorist. Judge Chertoff called the street "deplorable" and "a hazard to driving."

Adkins said he and Hassell feel the present width of the street "is adequate." He recalled a previous proposal to resurface the street which was killed when property-owners fought a plan to assess them part of the cost. "Any attempt to saddle the propertyowners with a share of the cost would be grossly unfair," he added.

Cooper asserted he has lived on North Side 50 years "and to my knowledge the street has been virtually impassable for 30 of those years." He declared that "from every standpoint, it's a deplorable street." Musuraca questioned the need for a 36-foot street, although he said he favors an improvement. A pavement of 22 or 24 feet with proper drainage "would be adequate," he said.

THE CHAMBER highway committee "has felt for some time that St. Clair is most inadequate from the standpoint of modern-day traffic," Atty. Lang said. With a 36-foot pavement, there would be space for two traffic lanes and parking on both sides, he pointed out. The present road, 18 feet wide at some points, "is wholly inadequate," he said.

Hughes said he is "heartily in favor of the improvement." Merchandising and mercantile surveys conducted by the newspaper have shown some persons say they do not come into East Liverpool to shop because they want to avoid traveling St. Clair, he said. "They direct their activities to the north, where they say they can find adequate highways and are not in danger of wrecking their cars," he said. "Certainly with the completion of the new highway, retail business should pick up considerably."

Hill called the improvement "badly-needed", but he said some St. Clair Ave. residents feel an assessment for part of the cost "would be a hardship, despite the federal aid."

WHEATLEY DECLARED he is in favor of "improving any street in East Liverpool." But he asserted he hopes the project will not be used as an excuse to reimpose a municipal income tax to raise the city's share.

"If the income tax is put up again to finance this, I will go out and work against it personally," he said.

Sample declared he favors the improvement. "The street always has been bad," he said. "Years ago they blamed it on the milk wagons!"

Baumgarner said he is interested in the effect on his business during construction. He said he favors the improvement. Smith said he feels "both as a citizen and a businessman that the street should be improved." He added that "it's so much of a necessity that I'm not concerned about what my share of the cost would be."

PATTERSON SAID he feels a "24-foot width with adequate drainage" would be wide enough. He declared that he doesn't "feel that taxpayers can afford" a 36-foot pavement.

Nicely referred to St. Clair as "a disgrace" and said the project "is a necessity." The Chamber committee also favors the improvement, he added. Sevy said he agrees the improvement is needed. But he said the city should make certain the federal government does not impose rules on parking and speed limits for the new stretch because of its financial contribution.

McCaughtry said two recent surveys show the population in St. Clair Township will grow by 3,000 to 4,000 by 1970. "If we don't provide a decent highway we can expect some shopping centers out there," he said. Starkey said he is in favor of the project and endorsed the remarks made by Atty. Lang.

Mrs. Reichblum said she and her husband favor the project. Howard said he is "wholeheartedly in favor" of a wide, thoroughly-drained street.

IN THE question - and - answer period, DeHaven and Schomer said the federal government will not dictate parking and traffic regulations. Those will be worked out by City Council with the State Highway Department and included in an ordinance giving the city's sanction to the work, they said.

In response to another query, the engineers said the 36-foot pavement eventually may be extended to join with Routes 170 and 267 at Calcutta. They said the city now owns a 60-foot right-of-way along the path of the improvement, so it will not be necessary to disrupt existing lawns or other segments of residential property.

They said the road is engineered to handle traffic requirements expected in the next 20 years. Traffic will be maintained during construction, they promised.

IN RESPONSE to a question from Hill about special assessments, Bloomgren replied that the city government will not be able to assume all of its 50 per cent of the cost.

"I think we all know the facts of life well enough to recognize that there will have to be a special assessment," Bloomgren said. "The proportion that will be assessed will have to be determined by Council — not the present Council, but the one that will take office at the first of the year."

That ended the discussion and the meeting adjourned after Bloomgren announced the stenographic record would be forwarded to the Highway Department and the Bureau of Public Roads. Sentiments expressed in the hearing will not be a final determining factor but will affect the bureau's decision "to a degree," board since the early 1930's.

Brown, city postmaster, seeking a second term on the board received 2,037 in the final tally.

The official tally also upheld the 135-vote margin by which the city's income tax ordinance was repealed. The official vote was 3,299 to repeal the tax and 3,164 to retain it.

The election board will have to flip a coin to decide the winner of a race for one township trustee post in Wayne Township where a recount also may be held.

The final tally showed Dayton Day and Earl Glendenning each polled 60 votes to finish in a tie behind Donald Burton Jr., who received 95 votes.

Joseph A. Rowley polled 59 votes to finish only one vote behind Day and Glendenning while Walter Watson finished last with 51.

A recount appears likely to determine whether a Democrat will win a seat on the Columbiana Village Council, O'Hanlon said.

Harry Cesch, Republican, received 724 votes to apparently capture the sixth seat while Willard Zellers, Democrat, polled 723.

The canvass showed a total of 30,283 votes cast in the election. The official vote in East Liverpool was 6,620 while 2,376 voted in Wellsville, O'Hanlon said. Here's the official city count:

called on the other since Eisenhower's inauguration as Truman's successor in January 1953. Since then they had kept their distance except for a brief handshake at the funeral of Gen. George C. Marshall two years ago and a brief encounter at the funeral of Chief Justice Fred Vinson in 1953.

After exchanging greetings at the door of the library, they went to Truman's office, where they conferred in private for about 15 minutes. Then Truman escorted Eisenhower on the start of a tour through the library. He later excused himself and let the library director, Dr. Philip Brooks, conduct the remainder of the tour.

Truman said the meeting was arranged after Eisenhower had expressed to Joyce C. Hall, chairman of the rededication, a desire to see the Truman Library. A similar memorial in Eisenhower's name is located in Abilene, Kan., Ike's boyhood home, 150 miles west of Kansas City.

"but a disproportionate number of Negroes are in the lowest income groups."

He said inferior educational opportunities and inferior physical environment in the home were partly to blame for this.

"But," he added "we cannot avoid the basic fact that in general, true job opportunity has been denied to a great many Negroes regardless of their education or their qualifications."

A share of the blame, he said, lies "with stubborn, misguided, union members."

The practical approach, he said, "is a national fair employment practices law, applicable to unions and employers alike."

Woman On Fire Call In Car Rams Truck

A Georgetown R. D. 1 woman, rushing in a car to Hookstown for firemen because her chicken coop was on fire, hit the rear of a telephone company truck Friday about 3 p. m. on the Hill Rd., a half-mile north of Hookstown.

Pennsylvania State Police said Mrs. Sandra Ruth Cook came to the crest of a hill, saw the truck and slammed on her brakes, hitting the back end of the truck.

Melvin Earl Aley of Beaver Falls said his truck was parked on the edge of the road.

Police said the driver and a couple others returned with Mrs. Cook to fight the fire. There was about $200 damage to the 1961 truck and $300 damage to Mrs. Cook's 1954 car.

Numbers Book Case Extended 2 Weeks

LISBON — Judge Joel H. Sharp has given Atty. William Moore Jr. two more weeks to file his demurrer in the numbers slip case against the Lisbon Salesbook Co. and four of its officers, indicted by the September Grand Jury.

The extra time was granted at a private hearing Tuesday afternoon in Judge Sharp's chambers with Prosecutor G. William Brokaw, Joseph Baronzzi, assistant prosecutor, Asst. Attorney General John W. Gleason and Atty. Moore, representing the defendants.

Moore will file his demurrer on grounds that the law is unconstitutional. A former motion to quash the indictments was overruled by Judge Sharp on Oct. 28.

1959 Auto Damaged Extensively In Fire

A 1959 convertible owned by Arthur Broadbent, 805 Wood St., was damaged extensively by fire Friday night at 11:14 in Alley E at the rear of Goddard Bakers, in Chester.

Chester firemen said the fire was out of control when they arrived. A passerby turned in the alarm.

Broadbent had parked the car in the alley while working in the bakery.

A city truck loaded with leaves caught fire shortly before 9 a. m. today. Lester Broadbent, a city street department employe, was making the collections when a passerby called and told him they were burning.

Broadbent drove the truck to City Hall and turned in the alarm. Firemen extinguished the blaze with a booster line.

Public Backs Project For St. Clair Ave.

followed in which queries were directed to Bloomgren, Safety-Service Director Robert Owen and William K. DeHaven and Robert J. Schomer, representatives of the Youngstown engineering concern which is working on preliminary plans.

—:—

THE SPEAKERS, in the order in which they appeared, were:

John T. Hall of Elysian Way, president of the Hall China Co.; George Steele, 3292 St. Clair Ave., a member of the City Planning Commission; Jud English, assistant manager of the Columbiana County Motor Club; Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff of Midway Ln.; W. Edward Adkins of Midway Ln., also speaking for a neighbor, Louis C. Hassall.

William B. Cooper, 478 Orchard Grove Ave., insurance agency operator and former president of the Chamber of Commerce; Ralph Musuraca of St. Clair Ave.; Atty. Francis H. Lang, chairman of the Chamber's highway committee; C. V. Hughes of Forsyth Pl., business manager of The Review.

Harry Hill of Harding Ave.; E. L. Wheatley, 2515 St. Clair Ave., president of the International Brotherhood of Operative Potters; Robert W. Sample, 606 McKinnon Ave., a councilman-elect; Don Eckert of Thompson Ave., merchant and chairman of the City Planning Commission.

WILLIAM BAUMGARNER of Midway Ln., operator of a business on St. Clair; Don Smith, 2613 St. Clair Ave., president of the Smith & Phillips Co.; James Patterson of Bloomfield, operator of a St. Clair Ave. service station; J. Norman Nicely of Park Way, president of the Hays Oil Co. and co-chairman of the Chamber's civic improvement committee.

Keith Sevey of Maple Dr., Calcutta, operator of a pharmacy on St. Clair Ave.; John McCaughtry of Chester Ave.; Gordon E. Starkey, 545 Henry Ave., president of the Potters Bank & Trust Co.; Mrs. Sam Reichblum, 2702 St. Clair Ave., and H. R. Howard of Hill Blvd., plastering contractor.

Hall declared St. Clair Ave. is "rough, narrow and unsafe." Because of inadequate storm water drainage, pedestrians must dodge "waterspouts thrown up by cars," he said. Steele asserted the "street has been in very bad condition for a long time, particularly in Maplewood." Most motorists avoid it, if possible, because of the extremely rough pavement, he added.

ENGLISH SAID the improvement is needed "for safety in transportation of our school children and rapid movement of emergency vehicles" as well as the average motorist. Judge Chertoff called the street "deplorable" and "a hazard to driving."

Adkins said he and Hassell feel the present width of the street "is adequate." He recalled a previous proposal to resurface the street which was killed when property-owners fought a plan to assess them part of the cost. "Any attempt to saddle the propertyowners with a share of the cost would be grossly unfair," he added.

Cooper asserted he has lived on North Side 50 years "and to my knowledge the street has been virtually impassable for 30 of those years." He declared that "from every standpoint, it's a deplorable street." Musuraca questioned the need for a 36-foot street, although he said he favors an improvement. A pavement of 22 or 24 feet with proper drainage "would be adequate," he said.

THE CHAMBER highway committee "has felt for some time that St. Clair is most inadequate from the standpoint of modern-day traffic," Atty. Lang said. With a 36-foot pavement, there would be space for two traffic lanes and parking on both sides, he pointed out. The present road, 18 feet wide at some points, "is wholly inadequate," he said.

Hughes said he is "heartily in favor of the improvement." Merchandising and mercantile surveys conducted by the newspaper have shown some persons say they do not come into East Liverpool to shop because they want to avoid traveling St. Clair, he said. "They direct their activities to the north, where they say they can find adequate highways and are not in danger of wrecking their cars," he said. "Certainly with the completion of the new highway, retail business should pick up considerably."

Hill called the improvement "badly-needed", but he said some St. Clair Ave. residents feel an assessment for part of the cost "would be a hardship, despite the federal aid."

WHEATLEY DECLARED he is in favor of "improving any street in East Liverpool." But he asserted he hopes the project will not be used as an excuse to reimpose a municipal income tax to raise the city's share.

"If the income tax is put up again to finance this, I will go out and work against it personally," he said.

Sample declared he favors the improvement. "The street always has been bad," he said. "Years ago they blamed it on the milk wagons!"

Eckert pointed out St. Clair "is one of our most heavily-traveled streets and sometimes it becomes greatly congested." He said he feels the problem of local costs "can be met when it arises."

Baumgarner said he is interested in the effect on his business during construction. He said he favors the improvement. Smith said he feels "both as a citizen and a businessman that the street should be improved." He added that "it's so much of a necessity that I'm not concerned about what my share of the cost would be."

PATTERSON SAID he feels a "24-foot width with adequate drainage" would be wide enough. He declared that he doesn't "feel that taxpayers can afford" a 36-foot pavement.

Nicely referred to St. Clair as "a disgrace" and said the project "is a necessity." The Chamber committee also favors the improvement, he added. Sevy said he agrees the improvement is needed. But he said the city should make certain the federal government does not impose rules on parking and speed limits for the new stretch because of its financial contribution.

McCaughtry said two recent surveys show the population in St. Clair Township will grow by 3,000 to 4,000 by 1970. "If we don't provide a decent highway we can expect some shopping centers out there," he said. Starkey said he is in favor of the project and endorsed the remarks made by Atty. Lang.

Mrs. Reichblum said she and her husband favor the project. Howard said he is "wholeheartedly in favor" of a wide, thoroughly-drained street.

IN THE question - and - answer period, DeHaven and Schomer said the federal government will not dictate parking and traffic regulations. Those will be worked out by City Council with the State Highway Department and included in an ordinance giving the city's sanction to the work, they said.

In response to another query, the engineers said the 36-foot pavement eventually may be extended to join with Routes 170 and 267 at Calcutta. They said the city now owns a 60-foot right-of-way along the path of the improvement, so it will not be necessary to disrupt existing lawns or other segments of residential property.

They said the road is engineered to handle traffic requirements expected in the next 20 years. Traffic will be maintained during construction, they promised.

IN RESPONSE to a question from Hill about special assessments, Bloomgren replied that the city government will not be able to assume all of its 50 per cent of the cost.

"I think we all know the facts of life well enough to recognize that there will have to be a special assessment," Bloomgren said. "The proportion that will be assessed will have to be determined by Council — not the present Council, but the one that will take office at the first of the year."

That ended the discussion and the meeting adjourned after Bloomgren announced the stenographic record would be forwarded to the Highway Department and the Bureau of Public Roads. Sentiments expressed in the hearing will not be a final determining factor but will affect the bureau's decision "to a degree," board since the early 1930's.

Brown, city postmaster, seeking a second term on the board received 2,037 in the final tally.

The official tally also upheld the 135-vote margin by which the city's income tax ordinance was repealed. The official vote was 3,299 to repeal the tax and 3,164 to retain it.

The election board will have to flip a coin to decide the winner of a race for one township trustee post in Wayne Township where a recount also may be held.

The final tally showed Dayton Day and Earl Glendenning each polled 60 votes to finish in a tie behind Donald Burton Jr., who received 95 votes.

Joseph A. Rowley polled 59 votes to finish only one vote behind Day and Glendenning while Walter Watson finished last with 51.

A recount appears likely to determine whether a Democrat will win a seat on the Columbiana Village Council, O'Hanlon said.

Harry Cesch, Republican, received 724 votes to apparently capture the sixth seat while Willard Zellers, Democrat, polled 723.

The canvass showed a total of 30,283 votes cast in the election. The official vote in East Liverpool was 6,620 while 2,376 voted in Wellsville, O'Hanlon said. Here's the official city count:

called on the other since Eisenhower's inauguration as Truman's successor in January 1953. Since then they had kept their distance except for a brief handshake at the funeral of Gen. George C. Marshall two years ago and a brief encounter at the funeral of Chief Justice Fred Vinson in 1953.

After exchanging greetings at the door of the library, they went to Truman's office, where they conferred in private for about 15 minutes. Then Truman escorted Eisenhower on the start of a tour through the library. He later excused himself and let the library director, Dr. Philip Brooks, conduct the remainder of the tour.

Truman said the meeting was arranged after Eisenhower had expressed to Joyce C. Hall, chairman of the rededication, a desire to see the Truman Library. A similar memorial in Eisenhower's name is located in Abilene, Kan., Ike's boyhood home, 150 miles west of Kansas City.

their 20s entered the bank about 10:55 a.m. Friday. One of them asked to talk to a bank official about a loan, then pulled out a sawed-off shotgun and announced the robbery. The other man carried a small pistol.

The pair escaped with two pillow cases containing money, fleeing in a stolen car that was found abandoned at the Stow-Kent Shopping Center two miles west of Kent on Ohio 5. Authorities said the robbers apparently changed cars at the shopping center.

"but a disproportionate number of Negroes are in the lowest income groups."

He said inferior educational opportunities and inferior physical environment in the home were partly to blame for this.

"But," he added "we cannot avoid the basic fact that in general, true job opportunity has been denied to a great many Negroes regardless of their education or their qualifications."

A share of the blame, he said, lies "with stubborn, misguided, union members."

The practical approach, he said, "is a national fair employment practices law, applicable to unions and employers alike."

Woman On Fire Call In Car Rams Truck

A Georgetown R. D. 1 woman, rushing in a car to Hookstown for firemen because her chicken coop was on fire, hit the rear of a telephone company truck Friday about 3 p. m. on the Hill Rd., a half-mile north of Hookstown.

Pennsylvania State Police said Mrs. Sandra Ruth Cook came to the crest of a hill, saw the truck and slammed on her brakes, hitting the back end of the truck.

Melvin Earl Aley of Beaver Falls said his truck was parked on the edge of the road.

Police said the driver and a couple others returned with Mrs. Cook to fight the fire. There was about $200 damage to the 1961 truck and $300 damage to Mrs. Cook's 1954 car.

Numbers Book Case Extended 2 Weeks

LISBON — Judge Joel H. Sharp has given Atty. William Moore Jr. two more weeks to file his demurrer in the numbers slip case against the Lisbon Salesbook Co. and four of its officers, indicted by the September Grand Jury.

The extra time was granted at a private hearing Tuesday afternoon in Judge Sharp's chambers with Prosecutor G. William Brokaw, Joseph Baronzzi, assistant prosecutor, Asst. Attorney General John W. Gleason and Atty. Moore, representing the defendants.

Moore will file his demurrer on grounds that the law is unconstitutional. A former motion to quash the indictments was overruled by Judge Sharp on Oct. 28.

1959 Auto Damaged Extensively In Fire

A 1959 convertible owned by Arthur Broadbent, 805 Wood St., was damaged extensively by fire Friday night at 11:14 in Alley E at the rear of Goddard Bakers, in Chester.

Chester firemen said the fire was out of control when they arrived. A passerby turned in the alarm.

Broadbent had parked the car in the alley while working in the bakery.

A city truck loaded with leaves caught fire shortly before 9 a. m. today. Lester Broadbent, a city street department employe, was making the collections when a passerby called and told him they were burning.

Broadbent drove the truck to City Hall and turned in the alarm. Firemen extinguished the blaze with a booster line.

Indictments Against 2 Countians Dropped

Indictments against Steve Millward, 26, of 806 Daisy Ln. for child neglect, and against Rosella Hofmann, 47, of Wellsville for incest were dismissed Friday at Lisbon by Common Pleas Judge Joel H. Sharp.

The indictment against Millward was withdrawn by the prosecutor's office after it was established that one of two children connected with the neglect case was not Millward's, according to blood tests.

The indictment against Mrs. Hoffmann was dismissed on grounds no blood relation was involved.

Debate Awaited

Ohio Assembly Pressed For More College Funds

By ART PARKS

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Is Ohio financially de-emphasizing education in the Space Age contrary to the public clamor?

The answer probably will be the subject of some of the most searching debate in the unusual recessed session of the General Assembly which opens next Tuesday.

Many people on both sides of the political fence insist the Republican-led legislature is blindly following a political commitment to a no-new-taxes policy and that educational quality — particularly at the college level — is suffering as a result.

Republican lawmakers insist, on the other hand, there is a limit to the taxes the average man can bear and that limit has been reached.

The GOP also points out that the legislature increased its two-year ante for education at all levels by $75.3 million to a total of $602.8 million.

That means that slightly more than 50 cents of every general revenue dollar the state treasury will take in during the next two years will go for education. General fund income is expected to total slightly less than $1.2 billion in the two-year budget period which ends June 30, 1963.

The $75.3 million increase is a sizable one, but many Ohioans both in and out of the legislature insist it is not enough.

Democratic Gov. Michael V. DiSalle suggested to the lawmakers early this year that the increase, at a minimum, ought to be $98.3 million. He said the appropriation for public schools should be at least $496.5 million, an increase of $68.6 million above the 1959-61 allowance. After months of study, the legislature granted a $55.8 million increase — $39.1 million to take care of school enrollment increases and $16.7 to make modest improvements in teacher salaries and the like.

The real pain in the field of education, however, is being felt by the six state-supported universities planning now for the onslaught of the postwar baby crop a few years hence. Universities must do their planning — both for buildings and faculty enlargement — three or four years in advance.

The Inter - University Council, formal organization of the state-supported institutions of higher learning, professes to see no glimmer of encouragement that the legislature intends to loosen its purse-strings soon enough to permit the universities to meet a new flood of students with adequate facilities.

Gov. DiSalle told the legislature early this year that $129.2 million was the minimum appropriation for the state-supported universities in the next two years—an increase of $29.7 million over the previous biennium. By the time this recommendation went through the legislative mill, it had been ground down $10.1 million to $119.1 million.

But there's a hidden factor in those figures which means they do not tell the entire story.

The appropriation totals include student fees at the universities. The fees automatically are reappropriated to the institution to which they were paid, but the totals do not truly reflect state support with tax dollars.

The Inter - University Council points out that all state universities have kept their financial heads above water by increasing student fees drastically in recent years. Now, the council says, the fees are unduly high in comparison with those in neighboring states.

Actually, on the basis of appropriations already made, only $91.7 million of the $119.1 set aside for universities is tax money.

Recently the Inter - University Council addressed a letter to the governor and legislative leaders of both parties. It was signed by all the presidents of the state universities and the chairmen of their boards, including the former Republican governor and senator, John W. Bricker, who heads the Ohio State University board.

The letter stressed that the problem of state universities is not a partisan issue.

"We respectfully request," the letter read, "that we may again be given an opportunity (at the recessed session) to present the needs of state-supported higher education in Ohio. The problems are substantial and the needs are critical. . . . The support of higher education is a matter of far-reaching concern to all citizens of Ohio. . . .

"We have opposed federal government grants to the operating costs of higher education because we believe these costs should be met in the traditional manner through student charges, philanthropy and state and local government. If federal government financial assistance and control are to be avoided, however, state financial assistance must be sufficient to meet the requirements.

". . . We appreciate the fact that the current problem is one of balancing state expenditures with available state revenues. In the long run, we must express the point of view that such an approach to the problem of higher education in Ohio will not be adequate. By 1963-65 additional revenues may be needed in Ohio, even as they have been needed in many of our neighboring states this biennium, in order to provide the required support for urgent state programs."

Turning to the subject of money for new construction on the six campuses, the letter pointed out that a twice-defeated capital improvements bill "represents the minimum conceivable funds required to meet urgent immediate needs. . . . These amounts will provide nothing with which to prepare for future enrollment demand. Anything less may result in serious shortages and even interruptions in our current operation.

"We appreciate the gravity of the present situation. The shortage of available funds for the support of all state programs means an inadequate level of support for higher education in this state.

"In 1959, the last year for which we have data, Ohio stood 42nd among 50 states in the per capita support from tax funds to state-sponsored higher education. Our institutions now receive appropriations from tax funds which are substantially lower per full-time student than those of comparable state universities in neighboring states.

Man Cleared Of Charges In Auto Theft

A charge of operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent, filed against a Chester man, was dismissed Thursday in Municipal Court because of "mistaken identity."

Judge Samuel M. Chertoff dismissed the charge against Robert Lawrence Vaughn, 1030 Neptune St., who had been held for the Grand Jury, on the motion of Asst. Solicitor Richard J. Clark. Vaughn's $1,000 bond also was released.

In asking dismissal of the charge filed by Lt. William E. McDaniel, the assistant solicitor explained that Vaughn mistook the car owned by Suzanne Merchant, 317 Jackson St., for that of a companion which was the same make and model.

The Chester man also had been given permission in the past by Stanley Simcox to use his sister's auto, Clark told the court.

Clark's motion came on the heels of a motion by Vaughn's counsel, Atty. William Conklin, to withdraw a previous plea of guilty which was granted by the judge. A not guilty plea then was entered.

The "mistaken identity" case started early Monday when police nabbed Vaughn in the car on E. 3rd St. after Simcox had reported to city police the car had been taken from a tavern parking lot on Route 30.

Lt. McDaniel recalled seeing a car answering the description and radioed Hancock County authorities and the Columbiana County sheriff's office. Chester Patrolman Clarence Lennens radioed a few minutes later that he was following the car as it headed toward East Liverpool from Chester.

When Vaughn was arraigned Monday morning in Municipal Court before Acting Judge Paul Tobin, he entered the guilty plea, signed a waiver of a preliminary hearing and was held for the Grand Jury.

In other hearings, Thomas A. Moore, 61, of Salem was fined $2 and costs for crossing the yellow line in a hazardous zone.

Leo D. Rickner, 20, of Fredricktown, Pa., forfeited $20 appearance bond on charge of crossing a yellow line.

Debate Awaited

Ohio Assembly Pressed For More College Funds

By ART PARKS

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Is Ohio financially de-emphasizing education in the Space Age contrary to the public clamor?

The answer probably will be the subject of some of the most searching debate in the unusual recessed session of the General Assembly which opens next Tuesday.

Many people on both sides of the political fence insist the Republican-led legislature is blindly following a political commitment to a no-new-taxes policy and that educational quality — particularly at the college level — is suffering as a result.

Republican lawmakers insist, on the other hand, there is a limit to the taxes the average man can bear and that limit has been reached.

The GOP also points out that the legislature increased its two-year ante for education at all levels by $75.3 million to a total of $602.8 million.

That means that slightly more than 50 cents of every general revenue dollar the state treasury will take in during the next two years will go for education. General fund income is expected to total slightly less than $1.2 billion in the two-year budget period which ends June 30, 1963.

The $75.3 million increase is a sizable one, but many Ohioans both in and out of the legislature insist it is not enough.

Democratic Gov. Michael V. DiSalle suggested to the lawmakers early this year that the increase, at a minimum, ought to be $98.3 million. He said the appropriation for public schools should be at least $496.5 million, an increase of $68.6 million above the 1959-61 allowance. After months of study, the legislature granted a $55.8 million increase — $39.1 million to take care of school enrollment increases and $16.7 to make modest improvements in teacher salaries and the like.

The real pain in the field of education, however, is being felt by the six state-supported universities planning now for the onslaught of the postwar baby crop a few years hence. Universities must do their planning — both for buildings and faculty enlargement — three or four years in advance.

The Inter - University Council, formal organization of the state-supported institutions of higher learning, professes to see no glimmer of encouragement that the legislature intends to loosen its purse-strings soon enough to permit the universities to meet a new flood of students with adequate facilities.

Gov. DiSalle told the legislature early this year that $129.2 million was the minimum appropriation for the state-supported universities in the next two years—an increase of $29.7 million over the previous biennium. By the time this recommendation went through the legislative mill, it had been ground down $10.1 million to $119.1 million.

But there's a hidden factor in those figures which means they do not tell the entire story.

The appropriation totals include student fees at the universities. The fees automatically are reappropriated to the institution to which they were paid, but the totals do not truly reflect state support with tax dollars.

The Inter - University Council points out that all state universities have kept their financial heads above water by increasing student fees drastically in recent years. Now, the council says, the fees are unduly high in comparison with those in neighboring states.

Actually, on the basis of appropriations already made, only $91.7 million of the $119.1 set aside for universities is tax money.

Recently the Inter - University Council addressed a letter to the governor and legislative leaders of both parties. It was signed by all the presidents of the state universities and the chairmen of their boards, including the former Republican governor and senator, John W. Bricker, who heads the Ohio State University board.

The letter stressed that the problem of state universities is not a partisan issue.

"We respectfully request," the letter read, "that we may again be given an opportunity (at the recessed session) to present the needs of state-supported higher education in Ohio. The problems are substantial and the needs are critical. . . . The support of higher education is a matter of far-reaching concern to all citizens of Ohio. . . .

"We have opposed federal government grants to the operating costs of higher education because we believe these costs should be met in the traditional manner through student charges, philanthropy and state and local government. If federal government financial assistance and control are to be avoided, however, state financial assistance must be sufficient to meet the requirements.

". . . We appreciate the fact that the current problem is one of balancing state expenditures with available state revenues. In the long run, we must express the point of view that such an approach to the problem of higher education in Ohio will not be adequate. By 1963-65 additional revenues may be needed in Ohio, even as they have been needed in many of our neighboring states this biennium, in order to provide the required support for urgent state programs."

Turning to the subject of money for new construction on the six campuses, the letter pointed out that a twice-defeated capital improvements bill "represents the minimum conceivable funds required to meet urgent immediate needs. . . . These amounts will provide nothing with which to prepare for future enrollment demand. Anything less may result in serious shortages and even interruptions in our current operation.

"We appreciate the gravity of the present situation. The shortage of available funds for the support of all state programs means an inadequate level of support for higher education in this state.

"In 1959, the last year for which we have data, Ohio stood 42nd among 50 states in the per capita support from tax funds to state-sponsored higher education. Our institutions now receive appropriations from tax funds which are substantially lower per full-time student than those of comparable state universities in neighboring states.

Man Cleared Of Charges In Auto Theft

A charge of operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent, filed against a Chester man, was dismissed Thursday in Municipal Court because of "mistaken identity."

Judge Samuel M. Chertoff dismissed the charge against Robert Lawrence Vaughn, 1030 Neptune St., who had been held for the Grand Jury, on the motion of Asst. Solicitor Richard J. Clark. Vaughn's $1,000 bond also was released.

In asking dismissal of the charge filed by Lt. William E. McDaniel, the assistant solicitor explained that Vaughn mistook the car owned by Suzanne Merchant, 317 Jackson St., for that of a companion which was the same make and model.

The Chester man also had been given permission in the past by Stanley Simcox to use his sister's auto, Clark told the court.

Clark's motion came on the heels of a motion by Vaughn's counsel, Atty. William Conklin, to withdraw a previous plea of guilty which was granted by the judge. A not guilty plea then was entered.

The "mistaken identity" case started early Monday when police nabbed Vaughn in the car on E. 3rd St. after Simcox had reported to city police the car had been taken from a tavern parking lot on Route 30.

Lt. McDaniel recalled seeing a car answering the description and radioed Hancock County authorities and the Columbiana County sheriff's office. Chester Patrolman Clarence Lennens radioed a few minutes later that he was following the car as it headed toward East Liverpool from Chester.

When Vaughn was arraigned Monday morning in Municipal Court before Acting Judge Paul Tobin, he entered the guilty plea, signed a waiver of a preliminary hearing and was held for the Grand Jury.

Some Died In Vain . . .

One day all the soldier dead of our nation will be honored at the same time. Armistice Day gave way to Veterans Day. Memorial Day, if it were not for the lingering bitterness of the Civil War, would be an ideal day in an iedal season for a holiday commemorating all men and women who served their country.

Abraham Lincoln hoped the dead at Gettysburg had not died in vain.

We hope the men who rest in ceemteries in France, Korea, the Pacific Islands and here at home did not die in vain.

If there must be more deaths, we shall hope they, too will not be in vain.

But we know now that our soldier dead were sometimes wasted. We know that some did die in vain because the purpose of their dying had not been established.

They knew this — some of them — when they died. That made them twice heroic, because they gave their lives for errors. They died for their country, not for the logic of its acts.

In recent years, people everywhere, knowing how often military sacrifice has been in vain, have intensified their conviction at war, itself, is in vain. It is the ultimate mistake that climaxes the failure of politics and the absence of statesmanship.

On Veterans Day 1961, on the day that commemorated the Armistice ending World War 1, who can say all those who have died in battle that none died in vain?

Demonstration In A Donkey's Den

Lest the effrontery of the event be missed, it should be made widely known that the White House Regional Conference on Kennedy administration proposals in Cleveland next Tuesday and Wednesday will have opposition on the other side of the street.

Cleveland was picked for the White House show because it is a friendly, warm and cozy background for the Kennedy people and Ohio Democrats who will gather 'round to sing fervent amens to Kennedy administration proposals. Leading the Kennedy contingent will be Secretary of Labor Goldberg. Leading the Ohio Democratic faithful will be Gov. DiSalle.

But scheduled for the same hotel at the same time and destined to rub fur and elbows with the Kennedy Democrats and their friends is an Ohio Chamber of Commerce meeting to whoop it up for the private enterprise system. While the "boys across the hall" are discussing what the government can do for more and more presumably grateful citizens who will vote right, the Chamber of Commerce meeting will be talking about what people who make jobs and pay wages can do to keep politicians and the jockeys of creeping socialism from riding the free enterprise system into the ground.

There will be no exchange of views, needless to say.

The Chamber of Commerce meeting will not be in the same league with the White House Regional Conference. Some 2,000 union officials have been invited to the conference, to say nothing of hundreds of Democratic politicians.

But free enterprise will be there. It will serve notice that its voice can't be drowned out by the clamor for more, bigger and costlier government.

We Can All Dig Down

Robert C. Weaver, administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency in the Kennedy administration, startled a Washington news conference with a proposal so preposterous it was hard to believe.

He suggested that the federal government might subsidize big-city commuters. That's what he said — subsidize big-city commuters.

The government might have to dip into the pockets of citizens on the plains of Kansas, the bayous of Louisiana, the plateaus of Colorado and the rock piles of New England to help pay transportation costs for the gray-flannel-suit-and-dispatch-case set in the New York area.

It might have to nip the savings of Ohio farmers to underwrite the high cost of piling up skyscrapers in Chicago, with office space to burn and no nearby places for the denizens of the space to live.

Having already put enough public money down the drain in "loans" to eastern commuter railroads to buy them outright — in the vain hope of concealing the exorbitant cost of transporting people to and from cities allowed to grow too large by lack of planning and decent concern for human welfare — the federal government might have to get rid of some more money by paying commuter fares.

Then while the housing and home finance administrator had his listeners groggy, he hit them with the other hand. The great, good federal government, he said, might have to build parking lots at the end of commuter lines, so people who work in cities and don't live there will have a place to leave their ranch wagons.

It's something to brood about while gassing up the car on the next trip to the plant or office, or while digging down for bus fare or the car pool. It's something to be glum about while paying for a place to park. If things get read bad, the federal government will foot the bill — not yours, Mac, but the bill for big-city commuters.

Candidates For The Commonplace

It was just another day in the news. Nothing out of the ordinary.

At Cape Canaveral they sent up a rocket—one of the Atlas brand. It exploded after it had been on the rise 35 seconds. Nothing startling about this; rockets explode all the time. Matter of fact, the range officer blew this one up intentionally because it was wobbling.

There was a monkey in the nose cone of the rocket. He blew up too, which is not unusual. Monkeys take their chances when they ride in rockets.

At Edwards Air Force base in California, a flyer named Bob White flew an experimental Air Force plane 4,070 miles an hour, faster than anyone ever flew before, but no one was excited. White and other hot pilots routinely have been flying this thing faster than anyone ever flew it before. So far it hasn't disintegrated, and when it does no one will be astonished because it almost burns up every time they take it out for another attempt on their previous record. This is its only known use to date—breaking its own record.

At Cleveland, a former president of the United States teed off on the current president of the United States for being obsessed about shooting a man to the moon when there are so many other more important things to do.

And every knowledgeable group of human beings on earth was checking the sky closely for unseeable but potent radioactive poisoning from missiles exploded in the upper atmosphere by nuclear blast experts inside the Soviet Union.

Remember when they used to advise us to keep our feet on the ground and our eye on the horizon? What did they mean?

The Once Over

Motels are busting out all over. It seems in some areas there are more motels than customers. On a weekend trip over some roads you will find more motels on way back than on your way out. A motel is the old-time rest camp with a college education and luxury touch.

Those cabins used to be the refuge of the weary tourist at the end of an imperfect day. They were the citadel of the iron bedstead, the straw mat and year-around cobweb.

Today they have class, distinction, air conditioning, TV sets in every room, restaurants and swimming pools. Once the problem was to find a night's lodging that suggested comfort. Today the problem is how many good looking places to pass before making a decision.

A motel is the overtaxed tippers' best friend. He can arrive by auto and get to his room solvent and without a garage charge. He can drive up with more than one suitcase and not be bringing on a financial problem.

There is a democratic air about motels. You can wear a tuxedo and white tie with Bermuda shorts and sneakers. They provide lodgings with prestige and tight roofs.

But the prices are going up. Day of the $2.50 per day tourists' rest is long gone, together with the broken window panes, the rattling blinds and the crickets in the ancient bureau. Rooms run from $10 to twice as much and more.

There are luxury motels in which a guest would not be surprised to find the Windsors and a couple of Vanderbilts. They're real deluxers. And they're getting more and more elaborate.

Some of the new ones in big cities have ballrooms. Who among patrons of the early tourist camps ever dreamed of making one of their first questions "Shall we dance?"

THROUGH MILK STRIKE settlement on election night, Mayor Wagner of (N.Y.) may have carried out pledge to fight foes until the cows came home.

Edward Cavanaugh, Gotham fire commissioner, ran Wagner campaign and, while it was okay to refuse extension ladders to opponents, was it necessary to ban use of nets under their windows.

"There comes a time when youths have to be treated like defendants and not like babies. If you are shot by a 16-year-old it is the same as being shot by a 61-year-old person," says a New York magistrate in holding kid gangsters who carried zipguns, knives, razors and ballbats in juvenile outbreaks. The time for soft treatment, we think, has long passed. Too many kid toughies have been led to think all the courts can do to them is to ask for their autographs.

Mayor Wagner is only man to win three terms except Fiorello LaGuardia. But Bob did it without reading the "funnies."

New Haven mayor, Dick Lee, famed throughout country for sensational modernization of a city, fell below perilous vote in winning another term. It wasn't that he lost popularity, but because thousands of voters couldn't find their way to the polls in new setup in which whole streets have disappeared completely.

Celluloid, the first of all plastics, was invented shortly after the Civil War by John Wesley Hyatt, a printer of Albany, N. Y.

How Soon The Hotfoot?

Hoffa Plans A Challenge

By Victor Riesel

Jimmy Hoffa, whose lieutenants now refer to him as a "giant striding" among us pygmies, has invited himself to a Pearl Harbor on or about Dec. 7. Instead of the environs of Waikiki Beach, he has chosen the sands of Miami Beach. There, next month, he will try a Hoffa-type make-or-break bid for power if not glory.

Victor Riesel

The word is that Hoffa publicly will challenge the nation's most influential labor leaders to choose between himself and two men—one the President of the United States, the other George Meany, the president of the union of unions, the AFL-CIO.

This Hoffa will do with a simple maneuver. He will ask the presidents of all unions to come to an open rally somewhere in Miami Beach. He wants them to stand up and be counted. Their presence at this public confessional of loyalty will be taken as a sign of their willingness to make him — and not Meany, or even the President—their leader.

AT THE MOMENT is it not known whether Hoffa should hire a phone booth or the civic auditorium. Those who know him best say you can count on a penthouse suite.

Hoffa plans this display of devotion at a meeting he will call while the Fourth Constitutional Convention of the AFL-CIO is in session. It opens in Bal Harbour on Dec. 7 and will run to Dec. 14.

It is at this convention that those who believe Hoffa and the Teamsters should be taken back into the "House of Labor" will introduce resolutions asking him to lead his men back in.

Hoffa would like to troop his colors, instead of merely showing them somewhere in a nearby hotel. He and his chief of staff, Harold Gibbons, plan to fly to Miami Beach that week to arrange for their own public meeting of national labor presidents. In Hoffa's circles the talk is that they expect 40 or 50 such national leaders.

SUCH A BLOCK would represent millions of members. If they will be willing to rally to Hoffa publicly in such numbers — and the pressure is on many of them —Hoffa would indeed have hit hard at the AFL-CIO leadership.

It would be difficult to keep him out. He would then march in like a battalion of Walter Mittys in the dreamiest of moments.

What makes such a maneuver doubly daring is the acceptance by John F. Kennedy of George Meany's invitation to address the national labor convention. The President will talk at the opening of the bi-annual gathering on Dec. 7, the 20th anniversary of the grimness at Pearl Harbor.

The President told Meany in the White House last Wednesday that he would try indeed to be there during the first session. But certainly he will speak during the week.

The president of the AFL-CIO found his good friend, the President of the United States in a very jovial mood that morning after election day. It is pure guesswork on my part but it would not be like John Kennedy to let the moment go by without thanking Meany for labor's contribution to the Democratic victories in New York and New Jersey.

There is not the slightest insinuation here that it would take the combined prestige of Mr. Meany and Mr. Kennedy to overshadow Jim Hoffa. Neither, I believe, knew of the man's intention to challenge that combined prestige.

JIMMY H. knew, of course, that the President would be invited and most likely would accept. What follows from this is the fact that the Teamsters' chief appears to believe himself bigger than the symbol of government as well as the leadership of the rest of the labor movement.

If Hoffa can demonstrate drawing power against such opponents, he had better get himself a saddle. He'll be a man on horseback. Therefore there is more to this story than a feud. The rest of the nation is involved. Who then will support Hoffa?

Mike Quill's Transport Workers Union has duly filed three copies of a resolution urging the convention to invite Hoffa in. There undoubtedly will be support from the same group which spoke for him at last month's AFL-CIO high command session. But Hoffa's men are saying that Walter Reuther's Auto Workers and David McDonald's Steelworkers will back him.

THERE IS no doubt that Hoffa has offered to support Reuther for the presidency of all labor and to let Reuther have all political and ideological powers if the Detroiter will join forces with the Teamsters against Meany. Reuther has rejected bids from Hoffa's people.

But that doesn't keep the Teamsters from boasting they'll move in and that they'll prove their strength at their own public gathering next month.

If it turns out that Hoffa does not fill a short row of phone booths he will have Pearl Harbored himself.

A Grasp On Confusion

By Truman Twill

Of all the warm and wonderful things that have been said about James Thurber, I like best the one attributed to the late Wolcott Gibbs, a fellow worker on The New Yorker:

"Thurber had a firm grasp on confusion."

It never was my privilege to know Thurber, and I expect I'd have been disappointed anyway. He would have resisted my attempts to strike up an acquaintance, because he would have known what I was trying to do.

Another fellow worker on The New Yorker, E. B. White, wrote of Thurber:

"His thoughts have always been a tangle of baseball scores, Civil War tactical problems, Henry James, personal maladjustment, terrier puppies, literary tide rips, ancient myths and modern apprehensions. Through this jungle stalk the unpredictable ghosts of his relatives in Columbus, Ohio."

I'd have been trying to probe this mental hodge-podge to find something called "the real Thurber." I'd have been trying to find out what the man behind all this was like, stripped of the legend, fame and adoration. I'd have been looking for the key to unlock a secret I keep writing about in this column:

How to make sense of it all.

Everybody who knows anything about Thurber knows that he was blinded in one eye as a child and in recent years had been totally blind in the other eye. His life was never a downhill drag. Much of the time it was a catch-as-catch-can bout with misfortune, adversity and disappointment.

It is entirely fitting that he will be remembered best for one short story that wrapped up a wonderful idea—"The Secret Life of Walter Mitty," which luckily was brought to attention again in the current issue of Reader's Digest. And why was Mitty's secret life a wonderful idea?

Because it objectified in one brilliant sketch by a man with a firm grasp on confusion how Walter Mitty lived half in a world that was and half in a world that wasn't. Among psychiatrists there is a "Walter Mitty syndrome," to explain the way the human mind wavers between the reality of existence and dreams that relieve reality's relentless presence.

Thurber will be missed, as all people who help others to feel better are missed when their span ends. There will be some well-meant attempts to make him appear more than life-size, though his claim on the gratitide of his contemporaries was the fact he made being life-size seem utterly attractive.

I think The Plain Dealer said it most satisfactorily in its editorial on this remarkable man.

"In the writing business," its editorial concluded, "most of us have secret lives ourselves, same as Mitty. Quite often we pretend we are James Thurber. It's a nice dream and a whale of a compliment."

Amen.

Election Post-Mortem

By David Lawrence

Opposition Vote Rises In Off-Year Ballot

When President Franklin D. Roosevelt was asked at a press conference one day in 1938 about an off-year election in which the Democrats lost seats in Congress, he insisted that the issues were "local" and that it was not logical to try to draw from the results any inference of a national trend.

David Lawrence

President Kennedy at his Wednesday press conference was also well aware of the tendency to draw conclusions from election results across the country and frankly said that, if the Democrats had lost in the races for governor of New Jersey and for mayor of New York city, there would have been plenty of comments by Republicans interpreting this as a vote of disapproval of the administration and its policies.

But, leaving aside the naturally partisan viewpoints expressed by politicians on the day after an election, the fact remains that, when the statisticians in each party headquarters start examining the figures in detail, they will be telling the leaders that the 1961 election shows some discouraging factors for the Democrats and some very encouraging ones for the Republicans.

For an analysis of the statistics in congressional elections in the last three decades reveals that the party in power, with rare exceptions, loses ground in off-year elections.

The trend downward, however, during the 1954 and 1958 off-year elections of the two Eisenhower terms was so marked that it has never been satisfactorily explained. In some congressional districts the Republican drop-off in voting often amounted to as much as 50 per cent while the Democrats, due to intensive organization or labor-union support, would rarely drop as much as 20 per cent.

Republican statisticians have been trying for years to figure out reasons for this. The results in 1961 suddenly show a reversal of the tide. Thus, in New Jersey in the governorship race, the Republicans made a gain of about 155,000 voters over their vote for governor four years ago while the Democrats gained only 3,000 votes compared to 1957.

If it had not been for the predictions made by some of the Republican leaders in New Jersey that their candidate would surely win, and if instead they had spoken of a close race, the public would not have been surprised at the result when Mr. Mitchell lost.

ACTUALLY, the moment President Kennedy decided to go to New Jersey to make a speech for the Democratic nominee, it should have been a tip-off to the press and to the public that private polls indicated the probable success of the Democratic candidate for governor. It is doubtful whether Mr. Kennedy would have risked intervention in the New Jersey campaign unless he were reasonably sure of the victory.

What is bound to cause dismay among Democrats in various cities in the states of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Connecticut is the substantial rise in the Republican vote.

The gains were enough to bring several local victories. Even in places where the Republicans lost, they managed to come closer to victory than in recent years.

What, it may be asked, is the basic reason for this upsurge of Republican strength? Can it be attributed to any dissatisfaction with national policies, and can the Democratic vote be regarded as a vote of approval of the Kennedy administration?

The answer that has to be given is that in every case the issues were local and there was not the slightest connection with national policies. This doesn't mean that attempts to drag in the national situation were lacking, for the Democrats in New Jersey did try to make it a vote of confidence in the national administration.

WHAT REALLY MAY BE inferred from a study of the results of local elections is that discontent with an existing mayor or governor piles up a negative vote in a subsequent election. The party in power has uniformly lost ground in off-year elections, and this was true even in the New Deal era. Mr. Roosevelt at the top of the ticket came through with a bigger majority for a second term than for the first, but thereafter between presidential elections the Democratic administration lost seats in both houses of Congress.

The party out of power usually benefits from mistakes made and from accumulated grievances. But there are signs sometimes that, when such emotions bring the voter to the polls in off-year elections, the total vote of the opposition is likely to be larger.

The Republicans have always claimed a large reservoir of strength. This has been regarded by them as a potential balance of power in elections, but it has never been determined conclusively by anybody whether the stay-at-homes are conservatives or radicals or just indifferent citizens.

You can be thankful when the high school is completed some adults will have the opportunity to complete their education. This was a prior discussed topic. You the public ask them and see how many can produce a diploma.

I want to express my appreciation for those responsible for bringing Kent State University to East Liverpool.

This was another step in the right direction to make East Liverpool a better town in which to live. I am proud to live in a community where there are such forward-looking citizens.

The center provides opportunity for many young people to go to college who otherwise could not afford to do so. It also provides opportunity for further education for those who are tied down with responsibility at home and are not free to go on campus.

The status of the students enrolled in the extension center and the quality of instruction are the same for both extension and on-campus students. In fact many of the instructors teach the same subjects in East Liverpool and Kent — meaning that if one were to go on campus, he would not only have the same high quality instruction but also the same instructor.

The East Liverpool center is probably the youngest of the Kent State University centers — just beginning its third year. It still has a long way to go, but grow it will. As the center grows, the offerings of subjects will grow.

I, for one, am hoping it will grow to the extent that some other Kent centers have grown, and that it will be possible for one to obtain a complete course of study and receive a degree in the East Liverpool center. Not only citizens of East Liverpool but people from all over the tri-state area have an asset of which they should be proud and appreciative.

Some Died In Vain . . .

One day all the soldier dead of our nation will be honored at the same time. Armistice Day gave way to Veterans Day. Memorial Day, if it were not for the lingering bitterness of the Civil War, would be an ideal day in an iedal season for a holiday commemorating all men and women who served their country.

Abraham Lincoln hoped the dead at Gettysburg had not died in vain.

We hope the men who rest in ceemteries in France, Korea, the Pacific Islands and here at home did not die in vain.

If there must be more deaths, we shall hope they, too will not be in vain.

But we know now that our soldier dead were sometimes wasted. We know that some did die in vain because the purpose of their dying had not been established.

They knew this — some of them — when they died. That made them twice heroic, because they gave their lives for errors. They died for their country, not for the logic of its acts.

In recent years, people everywhere, knowing how often military sacrifice has been in vain, have intensified their conviction at war, itself, is in vain. It is the ultimate mistake that climaxes the failure of politics and the absence of statesmanship.

On Veterans Day 1961, on the day that commemorated the Armistice ending World War 1, who can say all those who have died in battle that none died in vain?

Demonstration In A Donkey's Den

Lest the effrontery of the event be missed, it should be made widely known that the White House Regional Conference on Kennedy administration proposals in Cleveland next Tuesday and Wednesday will have opposition on the other side of the street.

Cleveland was picked for the White House show because it is a friendly, warm and cozy background for the Kennedy people and Ohio Democrats who will gather 'round to sing fervent amens to Kennedy administration proposals. Leading the Kennedy contingent will be Secretary of Labor Goldberg. Leading the Ohio Democratic faithful will be Gov. DiSalle.

But scheduled for the same hotel at the same time and destined to rub fur and elbows with the Kennedy Democrats and their friends is an Ohio Chamber of Commerce meeting to whoop it up for the private enterprise system. While the "boys across the hall" are discussing what the government can do for more and more presumably grateful citizens who will vote right, the Chamber of Commerce meeting will be talking about what people who make jobs and pay wages can do to keep politicians and the jockeys of creeping socialism from riding the free enterprise system into the ground.

There will be no exchange of views, needless to say.

The Chamber of Commerce meeting will not be in the same league with the White House Regional Conference. Some 2,000 union officials have been invited to the conference, to say nothing of hundreds of Democratic politicians.

But free enterprise will be there. It will serve notice that its voice can't be drowned out by the clamor for more, bigger and costlier government.

We Can All Dig Down

Robert C. Weaver, administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency in the Kennedy administration, startled a Washington news conference with a proposal so preposterous it was hard to believe.

He suggested that the federal government might subsidize big-city commuters. That's what he said — subsidize big-city commuters.

The government might have to dip into the pockets of citizens on the plains of Kansas, the bayous of Louisiana, the plateaus of Colorado and the rock piles of New England to help pay transportation costs for the gray-flannel-suit-and-dispatch-case set in the New York area.

It might have to nip the savings of Ohio farmers to underwrite the high cost of piling up skyscrapers in Chicago, with office space to burn and no nearby places for the denizens of the space to live.

Having already put enough public money down the drain in "loans" to eastern commuter railroads to buy them outright — in the vain hope of concealing the exorbitant cost of transporting people to and from cities allowed to grow too large by lack of planning and decent concern for human welfare — the federal government might have to get rid of some more money by paying commuter fares.

Then while the housing and home finance administrator had his listeners groggy, he hit them with the other hand. The great, good federal government, he said, might have to build parking lots at the end of commuter lines, so people who work in cities and don't live there will have a place to leave their ranch wagons.

It's something to brood about while gassing up the car on the next trip to the plant or office, or while digging down for bus fare or the car pool. It's something to be glum about while paying for a place to park. If things get read bad, the federal government will foot the bill — not yours, Mac, but the bill for big-city commuters.

Candidates For The Commonplace

It was just another day in the news. Nothing out of the ordinary.

At Cape Canaveral they sent up a rocket—one of the Atlas brand. It exploded after it had been on the rise 35 seconds. Nothing startling about this; rockets explode all the time. Matter of fact, the range officer blew this one up intentionally because it was wobbling.

There was a monkey in the nose cone of the rocket. He blew up too, which is not unusual. Monkeys take their chances when they ride in rockets.

At Edwards Air Force base in California, a flyer named Bob White flew an experimental Air Force plane 4,070 miles an hour, faster than anyone ever flew before, but no one was excited. White and other hot pilots routinely have been flying this thing faster than anyone ever flew it before. So far it hasn't disintegrated, and when it does no one will be astonished because it almost burns up every time they take it out for another attempt on their previous record. This is its only known use to date—breaking its own record.

At Cleveland, a former president of the United States teed off on the current president of the United States for being obsessed about shooting a man to the moon when there are so many other more important things to do.

And every knowledgeable group of human beings on earth was checking the sky closely for unseeable but potent radioactive poisoning from missiles exploded in the upper atmosphere by nuclear blast experts inside the Soviet Union.

Remember when they used to advise us to keep our feet on the ground and our eye on the horizon? What did they mean?

The Once Over

Motels are busting out all over. It seems in some areas there are more motels than customers. On a weekend trip over some roads you will find more motels on way back than on your way out. A motel is the old-time rest camp with a college education and luxury touch.

Those cabins used to be the refuge of the weary tourist at the end of an imperfect day. They were the citadel of the iron bedstead, the straw mat and year-around cobweb.

Today they have class, distinction, air conditioning, TV sets in every room, restaurants and swimming pools. Once the problem was to find a night's lodging that suggested comfort. Today the problem is how many good looking places to pass before making a decision.

A motel is the overtaxed tippers' best friend. He can arrive by auto and get to his room solvent and without a garage charge. He can drive up with more than one suitcase and not be bringing on a financial problem.

There is a democratic air about motels. You can wear a tuxedo and white tie with Bermuda shorts and sneakers. They provide lodgings with prestige and tight roofs.

But the prices are going up. Day of the $2.50 per day tourists' rest is long gone, together with the broken window panes, the rattling blinds and the crickets in the ancient bureau. Rooms run from $10 to twice as much and more.

There are luxury motels in which a guest would not be surprised to find the Windsors and a couple of Vanderbilts. They're real deluxers. And they're getting more and more elaborate.

Some of the new ones in big cities have ballrooms. Who among patrons of the early tourist camps ever dreamed of making one of their first questions "Shall we dance?"

THROUGH MILK STRIKE settlement on election night, Mayor Wagner of (N.Y.) may have carried out pledge to fight foes until the cows came home.

Edward Cavanaugh, Gotham fire commissioner, ran Wagner campaign and, while it was okay to refuse extension ladders to opponents, was it necessary to ban use of nets under their windows.

"There comes a time when youths have to be treated like defendants and not like babies. If you are shot by a 16-year-old it is the same as being shot by a 61-year-old person," says a New York magistrate in holding kid gangsters who carried zipguns, knives, razors and ballbats in juvenile outbreaks. The time for soft treatment, we think, has long passed. Too many kid toughies have been led to think all the courts can do to them is to ask for their autographs.

Mayor Wagner is only man to win three terms except Fiorello LaGuardia. But Bob did it without reading the "funnies."

New Haven mayor, Dick Lee, famed throughout country for sensational modernization of a city, fell below perilous vote in winning another term. It wasn't that he lost popularity, but because thousands of voters couldn't find their way to the polls in new setup in which whole streets have disappeared completely.

How Soon The Hotfoot?

Hoffa Plans A Challenge

By Victor Riesel

Jimmy Hoffa, whose lieutenants now refer to him as a "giant striding" among us pygmies, has invited himself to a Pearl Harbor on or about Dec. 7. Instead of the environs of Waikiki Beach, he has chosen the sands of Miami Beach. There, next month, he will try a Hoffa-type make-or-break bid for power if not glory.

Victor Riesel

The word is that Hoffa publicly will challenge the nation's most influential labor leaders to choose between himself and two men—one the President of the United States, the other George Meany, the president of the union of unions, the AFL-CIO.

This Hoffa will do with a simple maneuver. He will ask the presidents of all unions to come to an open rally somewhere in Miami Beach. He wants them to stand up and be counted. Their presence at this public confessional of loyalty will be taken as a sign of their willingness to make him — and not Meany, or even the President—their leader.

AT THE MOMENT is it not known whether Hoffa should hire a phone booth or the civic auditorium. Those who know him best say you can count on a penthouse suite.

Hoffa plans this display of devotion at a meeting he will call while the Fourth Constitutional Convention of the AFL-CIO is in session. It opens in Bal Harbour on Dec. 7 and will run to Dec. 14.

It is at this convention that those who believe Hoffa and the Teamsters should be taken back into the "House of Labor" will introduce resolutions asking him to lead his men back in.

Hoffa would like to troop his colors, instead of merely showing them somewhere in a nearby hotel. He and his chief of staff, Harold Gibbons, plan to fly to Miami Beach that week to arrange for their own public meeting of national labor presidents. In Hoffa's circles the talk is that they expect 40 or 50 such national leaders.

SUCH A BLOCK would represent millions of members. If they will be willing to rally to Hoffa publicly in such numbers — and the pressure is on many of them —Hoffa would indeed have hit hard at the AFL-CIO leadership.

It would be difficult to keep him out. He would then march in like a battalion of Walter Mittys in the dreamiest of moments.

What makes such a maneuver doubly daring is the acceptance by John F. Kennedy of George Meany's invitation to address the national labor convention. The President will talk at the opening of the bi-annual gathering on Dec. 7, the 20th anniversary of the grimness at Pearl Harbor.

The President told Meany in the White House last Wednesday that he would try indeed to be there during the first session. But certainly he will speak during the week.

The president of the AFL-CIO found his good friend, the President of the United States in a very jovial mood that morning after election day. It is pure guesswork on my part but it would not be like John Kennedy to let the moment go by without thanking Meany for labor's contribution to the Democratic victories in New York and New Jersey.

There is not the slightest insinuation here that it would take the combined prestige of Mr. Meany and Mr. Kennedy to overshadow Jim Hoffa. Neither, I believe, knew of the man's intention to challenge that combined prestige.

JIMMY H. knew, of course, that the President would be invited and most likely would accept. What follows from this is the fact that the Teamsters' chief appears to believe himself bigger than the symbol of government as well as the leadership of the rest of the labor movement.

If Hoffa can demonstrate drawing power against such opponents, he had better get himself a saddle. He'll be a man on horseback. Therefore there is more to this story than a feud. The rest of the nation is involved. Who then will support Hoffa?

Mike Quill's Transport Workers Union has duly filed three copies of a resolution urging the convention to invite Hoffa in. There undoubtedly will be support from the same group which spoke for him at last month's AFL-CIO high command session. But Hoffa's men are saying that Walter Reuther's Auto Workers and David McDonald's Steelworkers will back him.

THERE IS no doubt that Hoffa has offered to support Reuther for the presidency of all labor and to let Reuther have all political and ideological powers if the Detroiter will join forces with the Teamsters against Meany. Reuther has rejected bids from Hoffa's people.

But that doesn't keep the Teamsters from boasting they'll move in and that they'll prove their strength at their own public gathering next month.

If it turns out that Hoffa does not fill a short row of phone booths he will have Pearl Harbored himself.

A Grasp On Confusion

By Truman Twill

Of all the warm and wonderful things that have been said about James Thurber, I like best the one attributed to the late Wolcott Gibbs, a fellow worker on The New Yorker:

"Thurber had a firm grasp on confusion."

It never was my privilege to know Thurber, and I expect I'd have been disappointed anyway. He would have resisted my attempts to strike up an acquaintance, because he would have known what I was trying to do.

Another fellow worker on The New Yorker, E. B. White, wrote of Thurber:

"His thoughts have always been a tangle of baseball scores, Civil War tactical problems, Henry James, personal maladjustment, terrier puppies, literary tide rips, ancient myths and modern apprehensions. Through this jungle stalk the unpredictable ghosts of his relatives in Columbus, Ohio."

I'd have been trying to probe this mental hodge-podge to find something called "the real Thurber." I'd have been trying to find out what the man behind all this was like, stripped of the legend, fame and adoration. I'd have been looking for the key to unlock a secret I keep writing about in this column:

How to make sense of it all.

Everybody who knows anything about Thurber knows that he was blinded in one eye as a child and in recent years had been totally blind in the other eye. His life was never a downhill drag. Much of the time it was a catch-as-catch-can bout with misfortune, adversity and disappointment.

It is entirely fitting that he will be remembered best for one short story that wrapped up a wonderful idea—"The Secret Life of Walter Mitty," which luckily was brought to attention again in the current issue of Reader's Digest. And why was Mitty's secret life a wonderful idea?

Because it objectified in one brilliant sketch by a man with a firm grasp on confusion how Walter Mitty lived half in a world that was and half in a world that wasn't. Among psychiatrists there is a "Walter Mitty syndrome," to explain the way the human mind wavers between the reality of existence and dreams that relieve reality's relentless presence.

Thurber will be missed, as all people who help others to feel better are missed when their span ends. There will be some well-meant attempts to make him appear more than life-size, though his claim on the gratitide of his contemporaries was the fact he made being life-size seem utterly attractive.

I think The Plain Dealer said it most satisfactorily in its editorial on this remarkable man.

"In the writing business," its editorial concluded, "most of us have secret lives ourselves, same as Mitty. Quite often we pretend we are James Thurber. It's a nice dream and a whale of a compliment."

Amen.

Ruling Asked On Deduction For Meeting

CLEVELAND (AP)—Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Wis., has asked the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) for a ruling on the tax deductibility of contributions to support regional White House conferences, specifically the one to be held here Tuesday and Wednesday.

Byrnes, a member of the House Tax - Writing Ways and Means Committee, wrote IRS Commissioner Mortimer M. Caplin Friday, "I cannot understand the basis on which a contribution to a politically motivated endeavor of his kind can qualify as a tax - deductible item."

In an accompanying statement, Brynes said Ohio State Sen. Ray T. Miller Jr., a Democrat and chairman of the Cleveland conference, had solicited $500 contributions in a letter which said they would be "tax deductible, inasmuch as this program can come under the 'education' designation."

Brynes told Chaplin that if the IRS rules such contributions are not deductible, "you may desire to give some publicity to that fact."

The White House Conference here also drew fire from the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, which said its purpose is to place "maximum emphasis not on conditions to promote further investments and jobs, but on vastly increased welfare and relief programs."

To "counter-balance" the White House Conference, the chamber said, it will conduct a private enterprise clinic - forum here Tuesday.

Herschel Atkinson, chamber executive vice president, explained, "we want to furnish a sounding board for those Ohioans who believe that the proper role of the federal governments is to give maximum encouragement to promotion of our private competitive economy and through this means to the creation of millions of needed new jobs in private enterprise."

School, Parents Hit Compromise On 'Ducktail Cut'

PERRY, Ga. (AP) — School officials and the parents of a senior boy suspended for wearing an unconventional haircut have reached a compromise: He'll keep his hair long but comb it differently. He will be permitted to return to school Monday.

The teen-ager, Stanley Sorrells, was suspended Tuesday from Perry High School because he wore his hair in a ducktail style, combing the sides back to a point, and the rest of it up.

Principal Eric Staples contended the hair style was associated with juvenile delinquency and the Houston County School Board agreed.

But the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Sorrells, rebelled. They said they didn't particularly like the ducktail, "but it's his head, his hair, it's sort of a teen-age fad, and we think he's within his rights to wear it that way."

Sorrells said he and his son would still go to Superior Court next Wednesday for a hearing on Sorrells' suit challenging the school's right to prohibit unconventional haircuts.

GM Sparks Market Rise By Dividend

By JACK LEFLER

AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A single spark ignited a blaze of enthusiasm in business and financial circles during the week.

The incendiary action was General Motors Corp.'s declaration of its first extra dividend in six years.

The giant automaker's decision to raise its 1960 dividend to $2.50 a share from $2 was interpreted as an expression of confidence that 1962 would be a big year for the car industry.

That would reflect an opinion that business in general would be good.

GM's announcement sent a rising stock market into one of its biggest gains of the year Wednesday. Trading volume exceeded six million share for the first time in months.

It was estimated that the extra dividend added $140 million to the purchasing power of GM's 850,000 stockholders.

Other, smaller dividend increases have been made recently by such companies as Standard Oil (New Jersey), Boeing, Brunswick and U.S. Gypsum.

Before the November upturn in dividend action, payments were running two per cent ahead of last year. In the first nine months of this year, dividend payments made to owners of common stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange totaled $7,440,907,000, the 19th consecutive year in which a record was set for the period.

In the railroad industry, where merger efforts are rife, an attempt was revived to put together the biggest system of all — a combination of the Pennsylvania and New York Central lines.

Directors of the two railroads decided to negotiate a merger as rapidly as possible. A similar effort failed in 1959.

If a merger is effected, it would result in a system with 20,000 miles of tracks in the East, Midwest and South, assets of $5.5 billion and annual revenues of $1.7 billion.

Automobile production during the week exceeded the year-ago level for the third straight week. Output of passenger cars was an estimated 152,000, compared with 138,793 in the like week of 1960 and about the same as the previous week this year. The industry expects to build about 600,000 cars his month, best for any month of the year.

New car sales in the final third of October set a record of 191,700 for the period. This was nearly two per cent better than last year.

With the Big Three carmakers having signed new labor contracts, the steel industry expected an increase in orders which were delayed while strikes were on against General Motors and Ford.

But it was too early for production figures to reflect it. Output during the week totaled 2,044,000 tons, a slip from the 2,057,000 turned out the previous week.

The Commerce Department reported that new construction in October totaled $5.3 billion, a gain of five per cent over a year ago. Private construction outlays amounted to $3.7 billion, up six per cent from a year earlier.

Sales on the New York Stock Exchange this week totaled 19,282,600 shares compared with 17,949,230 the week before. Bond sales on the exchange totaled $31,355,000 (par value) this week, compared with $30,237,000 the previous week.

Briefly around the business scene: The shoe industry reports a record sale of 125 million pairs of sneakers this year. . . . Golfer Sam Snead has joined in a new company to build a chain of 18-hole, par-3 golf courses around the country. . . . Tennessee Gas Transmission Co. plans a $56-million expansion of its pipeline system between southern Texas and New England.

Delaware, on Dec. 7, 1787, was the first of America's original 13 Colonies to enter the Union by ratifying the Constitution.

GIVES TREE FACE-LIFTING. Everett Andrews plans to add still another section to this 10-foot-high totem pole he erected in the yard of his home, 2102 Clark Ave., Wellsville. An adept whittler, Andrews carved the figures on sections of a poplar tree felled by a neighbor. Decorated with colorful paint, the pole draws stares from passing motorists. Andrews points out, it is appropriate for Wellsville, which claims to be the "Gateway to the West."

Executive Killed In Plane Mishap

PETERSBURG, Va. (AP) — William De L'Horbe Jr., 50-year-old executive for two Dayton, Ohio amusement ride manufacturers, perished Friday when his small plane, en route from Miami to New York, crashed and burned in dense woods near here.

Witnesses told police the single-engine Cessna 195 exploded in flight.

De L'Horbe was president of Tuf-Tite National Industries, which make plastic boats for amusement rides and sales manager of National Amusement Device Co., which makes roller coasters and amusement park trains.

Driving Permits Of 3 Suspended For Year

Driving permits of three Columbiana County men were suspended for a year Friday in Common Pleas Court under the state's 12-point demerit system.

Hal Hamblet, 33, of 170 Haywood St., East Liverpool, had two convictions for driving while intoxicated — Jan. 19 and Oct. 5.

Robert L. Mumpire, 42, of Columbiana, was convicted of leaving the scene of an accident on April 13 and driving while intoxicated on Oct. 7.

John Edward Morgan, 74, of Lisbon R.D. 4, was convicted March 11, 1960, and last Sept. 21 of reckless operation and Nov. 23, 1960 for driving while intoxicated.

Auto Sale Effort Ends With Tears For 2 Men

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Norman Grunsfeld, 23, was left in tears Friday when he tried to sell his mother-in-law's car.

No one knew who put it in the car.

Ruling Asked On Deduction For Meeting

CLEVELAND (AP)—Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Wis., has asked the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) for a ruling on the tax deductibility of contributions to support regional White House conferences, specifically the one to be held here Tuesday and Wednesday.

Byrnes, a member of the House Tax - Writing Ways and Means Committee, wrote IRS Commissioner Mortimer M. Caplin Friday, "I cannot understand the basis on which a contribution to a politically motivated endeavor of his kind can qualify as a tax - deductible item."

In an accompanying statement, Brynes said Ohio State Sen. Ray T. Miller Jr., a Democrat and chairman of the Cleveland conference, had solicited $500 contributions in a letter which said they would be "tax deductible, inasmuch as this program can come under the 'education' designation."

Brynes told Chaplin that if the IRS rules such contributions are not deductible, "you may desire to give some publicity to that fact."

The White House Conference here also drew fire from the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, which said its purpose is to place "maximum emphasis not on conditions to promote further investments and jobs, but on vastly increased welfare and relief programs."

To "counter-balance" the White House Conference, the chamber said, it will conduct a private enterprise clinic - forum here Tuesday.

Herschel Atkinson, chamber executive vice president, explained, "we want to furnish a sounding board for those Ohioans who believe that the proper role of the federal governments is to give maximum encouragement to promotion of our private competitive economy and through this means to the creation of millions of needed new jobs in private enterprise."

Crop Plan Slated At Farm Meeting

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Policy Development Committee of the Ohio Farm Bureau will ask approval of a proposed cropland adjustment program at the Bureau's 43rd annual meeting here Monday through Wednesday.

The program, Bureau officials said at a news conference Friday, is designed as a balancing mechanism which could close the 5 per cent gap of production over consumption.

Points in the proposal include:

Voluntary land retirement and free choice of crops on remaining acreage.

Technical programs to train rural persons for non-agricultural jobs.

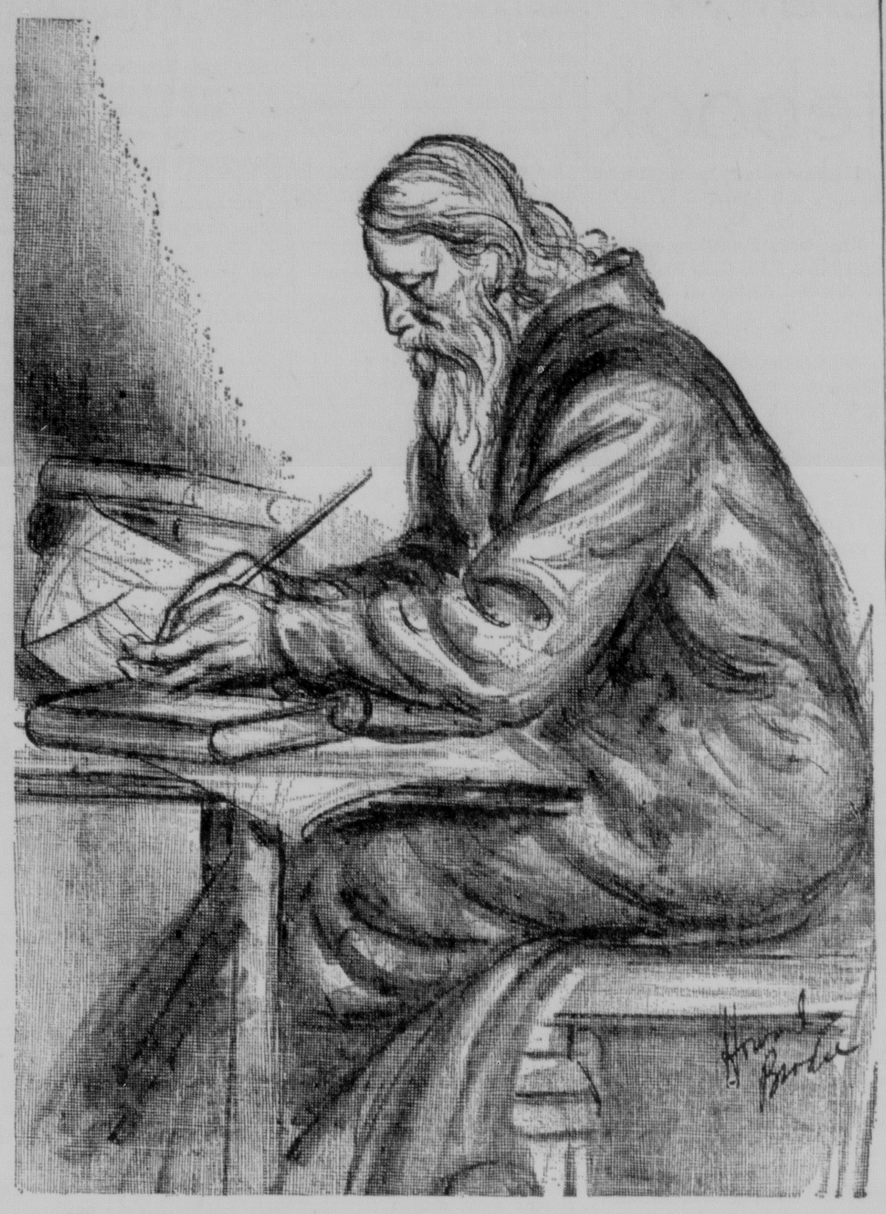
The Power Of Faith

by Howard Brodie



Rabindranath Tagore's "confidence of love" built a bridge of understanding between East and West. The great Indian poet believed St. Paul's words, "We are members one of another," and traveled the Orient, England and America to inspire men with a consciousness of their oneness in God.

He brought back an understanding of the "West's strength of reality (and) practical good" to India, and in 1913 the Nobel Prize. Tagore established a university devoted to universal understanding. He believed that the lives of the founders of religions "had the deeper implication of a Being who is Infinite in Man, the Friend, the Lover, whose service must be realized through serving all mankind."

Confident Living

By Norman Vincent Peale

Physical Facts Changed By Attitudes

For a man who does a lot of public speaking about the things he believes in, it is indeed a red letter day when someone comes to him and says, "I heard you talk on a certain idea and I thought it made sense. I acted on it and got some real results." Recently a man accosted me in just this fashion. Of course I immediately asked what the idea was that had clicked so well for him. It seems he had heard me make the following statement: "Attitudes toward facts are more important than facts."

HE SAID HIS first reaction to that remark was one of sharp impatience. As a businessman he had long since learned that one thing you can't afford to be without is constant attentiveness to facts.

He knew that success or failure often hinges on how well you know the facts. Yet here stood this theorist, an alleged thinker, blandly maintaining attitudes are more important! Just the kind of nonsense you might expect from a philosopher or preacher! How impractical can you get? If that fellow would just get out and try doing something in the business world, he would find out pretty quick—facts are facts!

However, the statement somehow held the man's attention. Something in the development of the proposition must have impressed him. When I had finished my talk, he walked away still pondering what had been said. And half way home he exclaimed, "By golly, maybe there is something to that. I must admit that it's been my attitude toward a difficult fact that has resulted in failure or success."

FACTS ARE facts, all right — there is no disputing that. The trouble is, by too much such emphasis, you can subtly convince yourself that there is little or nothing you can do about the hard circumstances you have to face. Facts are facts, but the big thing is what we do about these facts.

If, for example, a person's attitude in the face of difficulty, is positive and creative, he accepts a tough fact as a challenge. He goes to work to overcome it and his efforts gradually change the circumstances. The unfavorable facts of the original problem are then replaced by the favorable facts of the creative solution.

Of course there are some facts which we cannot change. But our attitudes still determine how such unchangeable facts affect us.

An especially dramatic instance of this became known to me the last time I went to the heart specialists's office for a checkup. The doctor said he wanted to show me something in which he thought I would have interest. He produced three X-ray plates and explained these showed the hearts of three different people, two men and one woman.

HE SAID, "All three are hearts that have been physiologically damaged. These three persons are all over 65 years of age, and with hearts like these all three of them — according to statistics — ought to have died at least five years ago."

"They must be invalids," I commented.

"No," said the doctor, "they are all living active lives. And the only thing I know about them that could explain it is that all three have a serene faith in God and a real love for their fellow men."

So here were three cases where physiological facts of a very somber character had apparently been out-influenced by some superior life-giving force in the quality of these people's attitudes.

Crop Plan Slated At Farm Meeting

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Policy Development Committee of the Ohio Farm Bureau will ask approval of a proposed cropland adjustment program at the Bureau's 43rd annual meeting here Monday through Wednesday.

The program, Bureau officials said at a news conference Friday, is designed as a balancing mechanism which could close the 5 per cent gap of production over consumption.

Points in the proposal include:

Voluntary land retirement and free choice of crops on remaining acreage.

Technical programs to train rural persons for non-agricultural jobs.

Voluntary retirement of whole farms on a bid basis.

The program, as well as about 200 other tentative policies, will be presented to delegates Monday. Discussion and adoption is planned for the closing session wednesday.

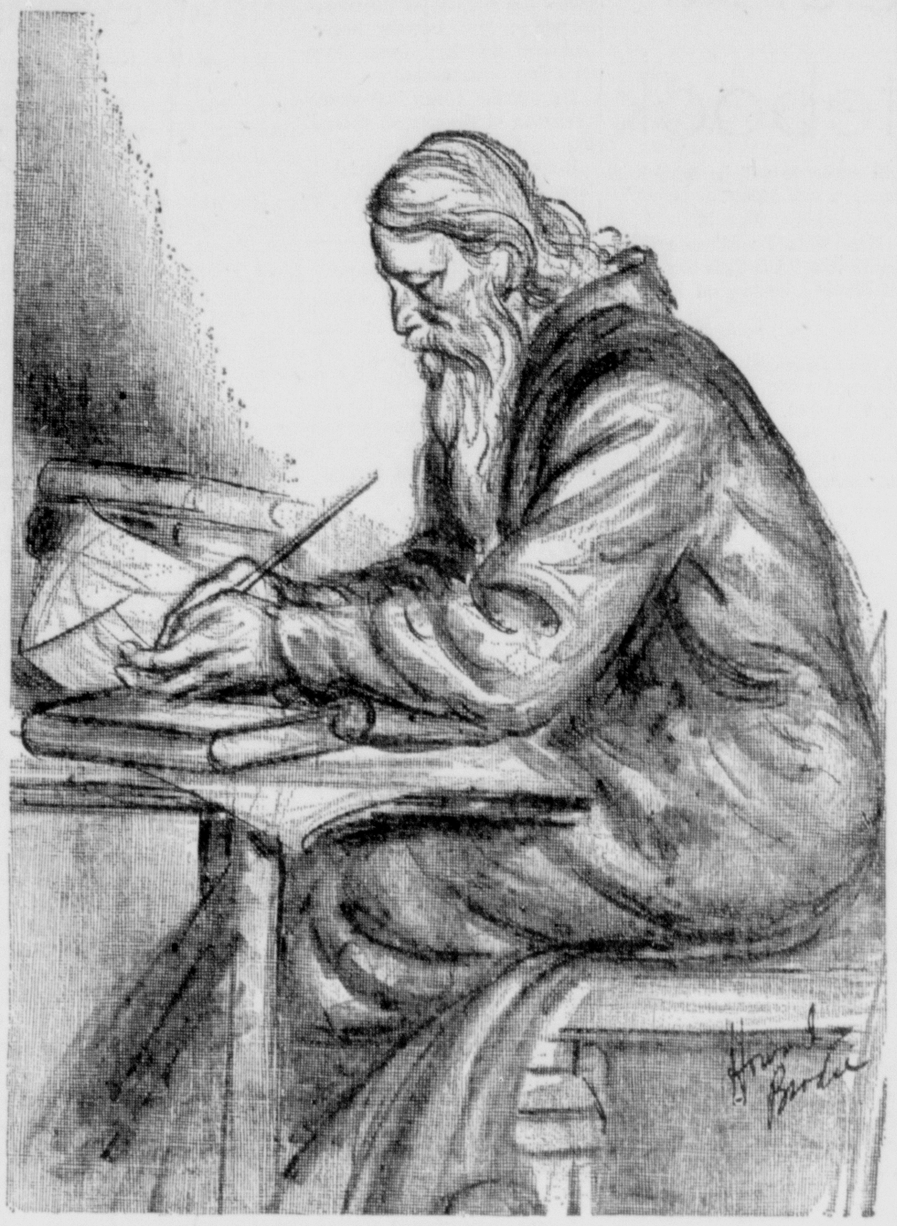
The Power Of Faith

by Howard Brodie



Rabindranath Tagore's "confidence of love" built a bridge of understanding between East and West. The great Indian poet believed St. Paul's words, "We are members one of another," and traveled the Orient, England and America to inspire men with a consciousness of their oneness in God.

He brought back an understanding of the "West's strength of reality (and) practical good" to India, and in 1913 the Nobel Prize. Tagore established a university devoted to universal understanding. He believed that the lives of the founders of religions "had the deeper implication of a Being who is Infinite in Man, the Friend, the Lover, whose service must be realized through serving all mankind."

Confident Living

By Norman Vincent Peale

Physical Facts Changed By Attitudes

For a man who does a lot of public speaking about the things he believes in, it is indeed a red letter day when someone comes to him and says, "I heard you talk on a certain idea and I thought it made sense. I acted on it and got some real results." Recently a man accosted me in just this fashion. Of course I immediately asked what the idea was that had clicked so well for him. It seems he had heard me make the following statement: "Attitudes toward facts are more important than facts."

HE SAID HIS first reaction to that remark was one of sharp impatience. As a businessman he had long since learned that one thing you can't afford to be without is constant attentiveness to facts.

He knew that success or failure often hinges on how well you know the facts. Yet here stood this theorist, an alleged thinker, blandly maintaining attitudes are more important! Just the kind of nonsense you might expect from a philosopher or preacher! How impractical can you get? If that fellow would just get out and try doing something in the business world, he would find out pretty quick—facts are facts!

However, the statement somehow held the man's attention. Something in the development of the proposition must have impressed him. When I had finished my talk, he walked away still pondering what had been said. And half way home he exclaimed, "By golly, maybe there is something to that. I must admit that it's been my attitude toward a difficult fact that has resulted in failure or success."

FACTS ARE facts, all right — there is no disputing that. The trouble is, by too much such emphasis, you can subtly convince yourself that there is little or nothing you can do about the hard circumstances you have to face. Facts are facts, but the big thing is what we do about these facts.

If, for example, a person's attitude in the face of difficulty, is positive and creative, he accepts a tough fact as a challenge. He goes to work to overcome it and his efforts gradually change the circumstances. The unfavorable facts of the original problem are then replaced by the favorable facts of the creative solution.

Of course there are some facts which we cannot change. But our attitudes still determine how such unchangeable facts affect us.

An especially dramatic instance of this became known to me the last time I went to the heart specialists's office for a checkup. The doctor said he wanted to show me something in which he thought I would have interest. He produced three X-ray plates and explained these showed the hearts of three different people, two men and one woman.

HE SAID, "All three are hearts that have been physiologically damaged. These three persons are all over 65 years of age, and with hearts like these all three of them — according to statistics — ought to have died at least five years ago."

"They must be invalids," I commented.

"No," said the doctor, "they are all living active lives. And the only thing I know about them that could explain it is that all three have a serene faith in God and a real love for their fellow men."

So here were three cases where physiological facts of a very somber character had apparently been out-influenced by some superior life-giving force in the quality of these people's attitudes.

Bride Sets Rites Despite Charges Against Husband

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — The bridegroom may be under indictment and face deportation, but Peggy Dontas says she plans to go through with a church wedding Sunday at St. Demetrius Hellenic Orthodox Church.

And if the U.S. Immigration Authorities insist on deporting her husband again, says Peggy, she will go to Greece with him.

Peggy, who is a student at Youngstown University, married Vasilios Rampos, 21, in a civil ceremony Sept. 25, but the Greek Orthodox Church does not recognize civil ceremonies, and the couple has been living apart.

Rampos, who allegedly has jumped ship three times to get into this country, was caught and deported in April 1959. But U.S. Attorney Merle M. McCurdy at Cleveland said Rampos jumped ship to enter this country again in October of that year.

Immigration authorities found him last month in Warren, where he worked as a cook. Rampos was freed on $3,000 bond pending disposition of the case, and Thursday a federal grand jury indicted him for illegal entry.

Preparations for a wedding and a big reception at Mahoning Country Club were going ahead today at the home of Peggy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Dontas.

Woman Declares Women Drivers Better At Wheel

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Mrs. B. V. Todd says the term "woman driver" is an old-fashioned cliche used by the uninformed.

She's the director of the women's division of the Automotive Safety Foundation in Washington and heads a safe-driving campaign now being carried on by 22 women's organizations.

"Anybody who says men are better drivers than women simply doesn't know what he's talking about," said Mrs. Todd, of Lake Arthur, La.

"Women are better drivers," she said, "because they are more concerned with better driving; they take refresher courses in driving; they are more up-to-date than their husbands."

She spoke before a regional meeting of the American Bar Association.

Bride Sets Rites Despite Charges Against Husband

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — The bridegroom may be under indictment and face deportation, but Peggy Dontas says she plans to go through with a church wedding Sunday at St. Demetrius Hellenic Orthodox Church.

And if the U.S. Immigration Authorities insist on deporting her husband again, says Peggy, she will go to Greece with him.

Peggy, who is a student at Youngstown University, married Vasilios Rampos, 21, in a civil ceremony Sept. 25, but the Greek Orthodox Church does not recognize civil ceremonies, and the couple has been living apart.

Rampos, who allegedly has jumped ship three times to get into this country, was caught and deported in April 1959. But U.S. Attorney Merle M. McCurdy at Cleveland said Rampos jumped ship to enter this country again in October of that year.

Immigration authorities found him last month in Warren, where he worked as a cook. Rampos was freed on $3,000 bond pending disposition of the case, and Thursday a federal grand jury indicted him for illegal entry.

Preparations for a wedding and a big reception at Mahoning Country Club were going ahead today at the home of Peggy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Dontas.

ELHS Drops Sixth Start In Final Home Game Before Only 1,200

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

A speedy Cleveland Glenville squad ran around, through and passed over the East Liverpool Potters in recording a 32-14 decision Friday night at Patterson Field.

Only 1,200 fans showed up on a chilly football night to see the Potters perform at home for the last time this season.

What the small gathering saw wasn't much, as the fundamentally poor Potters fell for the sixth time in nine games. Friday night's crowd was one of the smallest in recent years.

Known as a track and field power in Ohio, Glenville runners flashed their heels to the Potters throughout the 48-minute contest.

The Cleveland eleven completed its 1961 schedule by winning its second game in nine outings. Two of the seven defeats though resulted when Glenville was forced to forfeit two contests after having won them.

THE VISITORS scored five touchdowns and had two others called back. They didn't waste any time hitting for a first-period touchdown, added two more in the second quarter and a pair in the fourth.

Big Phil Sandidge, who hits close to the 200-pound, rambled for two touchdowns from his fullback spot and halfback Frank George accounted for a pair. The fifth was recorded by halfback flash Charley White, a real quick runner.

White had a touchdown run of 57 yards called back when a teammate was detected offside and a 58-yard TD run by George was nullified when Glenville was penalized for holding.

—:—

PENALTIES were East Liverpool's biggest asset Friday night. Glenville was called for 10 infractions totaling 95 yards.

East Liverpool averted a shutout with two fourth-period touchdowns. Before the Potters scored with 11:57 remaining in the game, they had advanced only to the Glenville 24.

A Chuck Baker-to-Jim Richardson pass over the middle from five yards out, netted East Liverpool its first touchdown. It came on the first play of the fourth quarter after a drive of 34 yards.

Allen Douglas was stopped short on his attempt for the conversion. East Liverpool gained control when Gene Wolfe recovered a Glenville fumble on Cleveland's 34-yard-line.

The Potters struck again with 1:37 left when sophomore "Bolton" Bob Bowyer shot over from five yards around the right side. Bob Mercer tacked on the conversion with a short sprint.

OUTSIDE of the scoring drives the Potters didn't move well. They were held to a net of 109 yards rushing, while passing brought them 43 yards more.

East Liverpool again displayed poor tackling, which often let Glenville runners free for long gains.

The Cleveland squad marched off 219 yards on the ground and picked up another 181 yards in the air on the fine throwing arm of quarterback Ray Bryant.

This does not include all the yardage that was erased by penalties.

Bryant, in accounting for the 181 yards passing, threw for two touchdowns. One went to George for 35 yards in the second period and another covered 46 yards to Sandidge in the fourth quarter.

GLENVILLE drove 71 yards for its first touchdown, with George hitting the left side for 10 yards and the tally with 1:54 remaining in the first period.

Four minutes later it was White breaking loose for a 27 - yard touchdown sprint after the visitors had swept some 40 yards in four plays.

Glenville pushed across another touchdown before the half ended when Bryant hit George on a pass play covering 35 yards.

No scoring occurred in the third quarter, but Richardson's touchdown on the pass from Baker made it 18-6 on the first play of the fourth period.

With 7:51 remaining and a fourth and 25 situation facing Glenville from its own 46, Bryant and Sandidge hooked up for a touchdown pass.

Four minutes later, Sandidge capped Glenville's scoring from three yards out.

East Liverpool will close its 1961 campaign next Friday at Alliance. The Aviators, ranked third this week in the AP poll, fell, 30-6, to second - ranked Niles last night.

Coach Vows Further Protests If Justified

BOSTON (AP) — Slapped with a $200 fine and a warning by the National Basketball Association, Boston Coach Red Auerbach today says he'll continue to protest to the officials if he feels justified.

NBA President Maurice Podoloff announced the fine for "gross misconduct" at the Boston-Detroit game in Philadelphia Thursday night. He said Auerbach would be suspended for three games the next time he is ejected from a contest.

Rookie referee Joe Gushue's technical foul call against the champion Celtics had touched off the incident.

United Upsets Carrollton In Season's Finale, 14-8

CARROLLTON—United wrote a happy ending to a 6-4 season here Friday night, when the underdog Eagles upset Carrollton, 14-8.

Coach Ray Russell's Eagles were forced to come from behind to pull the surprise.

Carrollton marked up eight points in the third quarter to take an 8-0 lead. The touchdown came on a three-yard plunge by Dick Tinlin, who also added the two-point conversion.

The fighting United eleven bounced back early in the fourth quarter when end Bruce Hoyt took a pass from Larry Marks on a play covering 80 yards and a touchdown. However, a run for the two-point conversion, which would have tied the game, failed.

This didn't stop the Eagles or Glenn Willis who shared some of the honors. Willis broke out of his tackle spot to block a Carrollton punt and United gained possession on the Carrollton 35.

United moved to the six-yard line, from where Marks, one of the district's leading scorers, smashed over from six yards out with only four minutes remaining. Gene Metzgar ran for the conversion.

EAST PALESTINE — Columbiana, a leading contender for district honors right up until the last, captured its sixth straight game by topping rival East Palestine, 14-6, in a hard - fought struggle here Friday night.

Beaten only by Tri-County members, Poland and Minerva, Columbiana won its last six games of the season to finish with a 7-2 mark.

East Palestine, which closed its season with a 4-6 record, scored first Friday night. Ron Doll smashed over from the one to give the Bulldogs a 6-0 lead.

In the third quarter, Columbiana took over at midfield and moved to the East Palestine 10. With a fourth down situation facing the Clippers, Dave Bailey flipped a touchdown pass to end Dave Garrod who fell into the end zone.

A run for the conversion failed and the two County squads were locked in a 6-6 tie until later in the fourth quarter when Dave Bailey plunged over from the two. Murphy added the points. The big gainer in Columbiana's tie-breaking touchdown was a 25-yard sprint by Jim Ward.

Jim Brown Seeks No. 2 Ground Gaining Title

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Washington Redskins have treated Jim Brown roughly on several occasions, but the Cleveland Browns' fullback will try to gain 86 yards in Washington Sunday to make him the second best ground gainer in National Football League history.

Brown, the league leader in rushing this season with 720 yards, has gained a total of 5,775 yards since joining the professional ranks in 1957. He will be shooting for Steve Van Buren's mark of 5,860 yards Sunday.

Joe Perry, the Baltimore Colts' 12-year veteran, holds the NFL record of 7,648 yards and still is going strong.

The Redskins last month held Brown to 24 yards on 17 carries. Two years ago, when Jim was en route to a NFL ground gaining record of 1,527 yards in a season, the Washington defense held him to a mere 42 yards.

Halfback Bobby Mitchell, who is with a medical detachment at Ft. Meade, Md., hopes to join the Browns for a workout at D.C. Stadium in Washington this afternoon. He returned to Cleveland on a weekend pass to play against the Pittsburgh Steelers last Sunday.

The Browns are counting more heavily on Mitchell Sunday because his replacement, rookie Tom Watkins, is out of action with a dislocated shoulder suffered against the Steelers.

The Redskins will be seeking their first victory since October 1960. They have lost their last 16 games.

Ours, Thompson Join For Two TD Tosses; Tigers Finish 5-5

By CHUCK CRONIN
Review Sports Writer

Rebounding in impressive style from last week's upset loss, Wellsville High co-ordinated a multiple offensive attack with a stout defense to flatten previously-unbeaten Warren St. Mary's, 33-14, Friday night.

The Tigers evened their season chart at 5-5 as seven seniors turned in spirited performances in their last appearances for the Orange and Black.

It was a free-scoring duel on a crisp, clear night, but only 1,100 were on hand to see the Tigers in their finale, plus the first successful field goal by the school in four years.

Senior tackle Alvin Jackson booted it from 23 yards out and the ball covered the additional 10 yards through the uprights for 33 yards over all.

Roger Ours, Tiger quarterback, planted the ball on the 23, eight yards behind the line of scrimmage, and the left-footed Jackson took two giant strides and sent it zooming through the goal posts and onto a car parked outside the protecting fence at Nicholson Stadium.

IT WAS the first successful field goal for Wellsville since Chub Carter turned the trick in 1957 at Bellaire St. John's.

Jackson's boot at 2:44 of the first quarter moved the Tigers in front, 3-0, but by halftime they were behind 14-3 as St. Mary's gave evidence of why it had won eight consecutive games after a tie with Girard in the opener.

But in the second half the Tigers lifted their attack to the skies for two touchdowns to blend with fullback John Euill's bruising runs to win in a walk-away.

Coach Ken Woods had plenty of praise for his departing seniors, plus the work of sub tackle Earl (Wizzer) Wisor who gave the forward wall a big lift with his aggressive brand of football.

"We really played as a team tonight, instead of giving individual performances like we have been on occasions," Woods declared.

The Tigers rolled up their highest score of the season in dashing St Mary's hopes of laying claim to the state Class A title.

QUARTERBACK Roger Ours, in his finest night of the year, completed nine of 13 passes, including two touchdown throws to halfback Alvin Thompson.

Euill was almost unstoppable in the second half and finished a fine senior year by accounting for 126 yards in 22 attempts.

Once he ripped off 31 yards, shaking off would-be tacklers left and right. His "bowl-em-over" style of running was used for a 11-yard touchdown run in the third period.

St. Mary's, an ambitious, hard-hitting ball club, packed all its scoring in the first half to run up a two touchdown lead and eventually shake Wellsville out of its sluggish mood.

Following Jackson's field goal, the Mohawks tallied on quarterback Bud O'Hara's pass to end Bob Stanko covering 33 yards. Stanko hauled in the pass after getting behind defender Frank Luckino at the 15. John Munno rammed over the conversion on a run as the Trumbull Countians went ahead 8-3.

ST. MARY'S struck again with 2:36 left in the second quarter when the fleet O'Hara wheeled around left end for 17 yards, putting the visitors ahead 14-3. Munno was brought down short of the goal line by end Tim Barborak on the conversion attempt.

As the second half opened with Wellsville receiving, Euill gave the crowd an indication of things to come by breaking loose for 31 yards on the Tigers' first play from scrimmage.

He was nailed at the St. Mary's 36. Seven plays moved the ball to the 14. From there, Ours peddled back and led Alvin Thompson perfectly with a pass in the right corner of the end zone for a touchdown. Thompson's conversion run was good, shaving Warren's lead to 14-11.

Minutes later, Wisor, 186-pound junior, crashed through to block a St. Mary's punt. The Tigers recovered at the Warren 34 and moved the remaining yardage in five guick plays to go ahead on Euill's 11-yard touchdown run with 2:00 left in the third period. Ours hit Thompson with a pass for the conversion to put Wellsville in front, 19-14.

AFTER that, St. Mary's was no longer a threat and Euill kept the Tigers moving consistently with fine running.

Ours hit Thompson with a pass from 11 yards out with 7 minutes left in the game for another touchdown and the senior quarterback tallied with seconds left to end the scoring.

Thompson, 157-pound junior, accounted for two touchdowns and two conversions to increase his point total for the season to 42 to lead the squad in that department.

Playing steady second half ball were the seven departing seniors, Euill, Ours, Jackson, Mike Thompson, Mike Rubino, end Jack Culp and Luckino.

St. Mary's halfback John Munno finished the season with 934 yards gained, getting 32 in a dozen carries against the Tigers. He entered the contest just 98 short of the 1,000 mark.

Quarterback O'Hara suffered a broken collar bone in the late stages of the game. He is in "fairly good" condition today in City Hospital.

Tigers Post Slender Win Over Parma

CLEVELAND (AP) — Massillon's defending state high school football champions edged Parma 21-20 Friday night, with a placement by Wilbur Paisley, the Tigers' place-kicking specialist, providing the margin of victory.

The Tigers, ranked first on The Associated Press poll, turned two Parma fumbles into touchdowns in the third period to overcome a 20-8 halftime deficit and remain in the unbeaten ranks. It was their 13th straight victory—10 of them this season.

Parma, which entered the game with a 5-4 record, is the first team to score 20 points against Massillon this season. The strong Tiger defense had yielded an average of only 4.2 points per game until Friday night's contest.

In other games involving the Top 10 teams, second ranked Niles gained stature by trouncing third ranked Alliance 30-6; Hamilton Garfield, No. 7 last week, edged fifth-ranked Middletown 26 - 22; Ketering Fairmont, No. 8, rolled over Xenia Central 28-0; ninth-ranked Martins Ferry defeated Bridgeport 36-6, and tenth-ranked Toledo Macomber downed Toledo Scott 6-0.

Cincinnati Roger Bacon, No. 4, and Bellevue, No. 6, did not play.

Speedy Glenville Backs Run Over Potters For 32-14 Win

Tigers Rebound, Knock St. Mary's From Unbeaten Ranks

ELHS Drops Sixth Start In Final Home Game Before Only 1,200

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

A speedy Cleveland Glenville squad ran around, through and passed over the East Liverpool Potters in recording a 32-14 decision Friday night at Patterson Field.

Only 1,200 fans showed up on a chilly football night to see the Potters perform at home for the last time this season.

What the small gathering saw wasn't much, as the fundamentally poor Potters fell for the sixth time in nine games. Friday night's crowd was one of the smallest in recent years.

Known as a track and field power in Ohio, Glenville runners flashed their heels to the Potters throughout the 48-minute contest.

The Cleveland eleven completed its 1961 schedule by winning its second game in nine outings. Two of the seven defeats though resulted when Glenville was forced to forfeit two contests after having won them.

THE VISITORS scored five touchdowns and had two others called back. They didn't waste any time hitting for a first-period touchdown, added two more in the second quarter and a pair in the fourth.

Big Phil Sandidge, who hits close to the 200-pound, rambled for two touchdowns from his fullback spot and halfback Frank George accounted for a pair. The fifth was recorded by halfback flash Charley White, a real quick runner.

White had a touchdown run of 57 yards called back when a teammate was detected offside and a 58-yard TD run by George was nullified when Glenville was penalized for holding.

—:—

PENALTIES were East Liverpool's biggest asset Friday night. Glenville was called for 10 infractions totaling 95 yards.

East Liverpool averted a shutout with two fourth-period touchdowns. Before the Potters scored with 11:57 remaining in the game, they had advanced only to the Glenville 24.

A Chuck Baker-to-Jim Richardson pass over the middle from five yards out, netted East Liverpool its first touchdown. It came on the first play of the fourth quarter after a drive of 34 yards.

Allen Douglas was stopped short on his attempt for the conversion. East Liverpool gained control when Gene Wolfe recovered a Glenville fumble on Cleveland's 34-yard-line.

The Potters struck again with 1:37 left when sophomore "Bolton" Bob Bowyer shot over from five yards around the right side. Bob Mercer tacked on the conversion with a short sprint.

OUTSIDE of the scoring drives the Potters didn't move well. They were held to a net of 109 yards rushing, while passing brought them 43 yards more.

East Liverpool again displayed poor tackling, which often let Glenville runners free for long gains.

The Cleveland squad marched off 219 yards on the ground and picked up another 181 yards in the air on the fine throwing arm of quarterback Ray Bryant.

This does not include all the yardage that was erased by penalties.

Bryant, in accounting for the 181 yards passing, threw for two touchdowns. One went to George for 35 yards in the second period and another covered 46 yards to Sandidge in the fourth quarter.

GLENVILLE drove 71 yards for its first touchdown, with George hitting the left side for 10 yards and the tally with 1:54 remaining in the first period.

Four minutes later it was White breaking loose for a 27 - yard touchdown sprint after the visitors had swept some 40 yards in four plays.

Glenville pushed across another touchdown before the half ended when Bryant hit George on a pass play covering 35 yards.

No scoring occurred in the third quarter, but Richardson's touchdown on the pass from Baker made it 18-6 on the first play of the fourth period.

With 7:51 remaining and a fourth and 25 situation facing Glenville from its own 46, Bryant and Sandidge hooked up for a touchdown pass.

Four minutes later, Sandidge capped Glenville's scoring from three yards out.

East Liverpool will close its 1961 campaign next Friday at Alliance. The Aviators, ranked third this week in the AP poll, fell, 30-6, to second - ranked Niles last night.

Coach Vows Further Protests If Justified

BOSTON (AP) — Slapped with a $200 fine and a warning by the National Basketball Association, Boston Coach Red Auerbach today says he'll continue to protest to the officials if he feels justified.

NBA President Maurice Podoloff announced the fine for "gross misconduct" at the Boston-Detroit game in Philadelphia Thursday night. He said Auerbach would be suspended for three games the next time he is ejected from a contest.

Rookie referee Joe Gushue's technical foul call against the champion Celtics had touched off the incident.

Jim Brown Seeks No. 2 Ground Gaining Title

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Washington Redskins have treated Jim Brown roughly on several occasions, but the Cleveland Browns' fullback will try to gain 86 yards in Washington Sunday to make him the second best ground gainer in National Football League history.

Brown, the league leader in rushing this season with 720 yards, has gained a total of 5,775 yards since joining the professional ranks in 1957. He will be shooting for Steve Van Buren's mark of 5,860 yards Sunday.

Joe Perry, the Baltimore Colts' 12-year veteran, holds the NFL record of 7,648 yards and still is going strong.

The Redskins last month held Brown to 24 yards on 17 carries. Two years ago, when Jim was en route to a NFL ground gaining record of 1,527 yards in a season, the Washington defense held him to a mere 32 yards.

The Browns are counting more heavily on Mitchell Sunday because his replacement, rookie Tom Watkins, is out of action with a dislocated shoulder suffered against the Steelers.

IT WAS the first successful field goal for Wellsville since Chub Carter turned the trick in 1957 at Bellaire St. John's.

Jackson's boot at 2:44 of the first quarter moved the Tigers in front, 3-0, but by halftime they were behind 14-3 as St. Mary's gave evidence of why it had won eight consecutive games after a tie with Girard in the opener.

But in the second half the Tigers lifted their attack to the skies for two touchdowns to blend with fullback John Euill's bruising runs to win in a walk-away.

Coach Ken Woods had plenty of praise for his departing seniors, plus the work of sub tackle Earl (Wizzer) Wisor who gave the forward wall a big lift with his aggressive brand of football.

"We really played as a team tonight, instead of giving individual performances like we have been on occasions," Woods declared.

The Tigers rolled up their highest score of the season in dashing St Mary's hopes of laying claim to the state Class A title.

QUARTERBACK Roger Ours, in his finest night of the year, completed nine of 13 passes, including two touchdown throws to halfback Alvin Thompson.

Euill was almost unstoppable in the second half and finished a fine senior year by accounting for 126 yards in 22 attempts.

Once he ripped off 31 yards, shaking off would-be tacklers left and right. His "bowl-em-over" style of running was used for a 11-yard touchdown run in the third period.

St. Mary's, an ambitious, hard-hitting ball club, packed all its scoring in the first half to run up a two touchdown lead and eventually shake Wellsville out of its sluggish mood.

Following Jackson's field goal, the Mohawks tallied on quarterback Bud O'Hara's pass to end Bob Stanko covering 33 yards. Stanko hauled in the pass after getting behind defender Frank Luckino at the 15. John Munno rammed over the conversion on a run as the Trumbull Countians went ahead 8-3.

ST. MARY'S struck again with 2:36 left in the second quarter when the fleet O'Hara wheeled around left end for 17 yards, putting the visitors ahead 14-3. Munno was brought down short of the goal line by end Tim Barborak on the conversion attempt.

As the second half opened with Wellsville receiving, Euill gave the crowd an indication of things to come by breaking loose for 31 yards on the Tigers' first play from scrimmage.

He was nailed at the St. Mary's 36. Seven plays moved the ball to the 14. From there, Ours peddled back and led Alvin Thompson perfectly with a pass in the right corner of the end zone for a touchdown. Thompson's conversion run was good, shaving Warren's lead to 14-11.

Minutes later, Wisor, 186-pound junior, crashed through to block a St. Mary's punt. The Tigers recovered at the Warren 34 and moved the remaining yardage in five guick plays to go ahead on Euill's 11-yard touchdown run with 2:00 left in the third period. Ours hit Thompson with a pass for the conversion to put Wellsville in front, 19-14.

AFTER that, St. Mary's was no longer a threat and Euill kept the Tigers moving consistently with fine running.

Ours hit Thompson with a pass from 11 yards out with 7 minutes left in the game for another touchdown and the senior quarterback tallied with seconds left to end the scoring.

Thompson, 157-pound junior, accounted for two touchdowns and two conversions to increase his point total for the season to 42 to lead the squad in that department.

Playing steady second half ball were the seven departing seniors, Euill, Ours, Jackson, Mike Thompson, Mike Rubino, end Jack Culp and Luckino.

St. Mary's halfback John Munno finished the season with 934 yards gained, getting 32 in a dozen carries against the Tigers. He entered the contest just 98 short of the 1,000 mark.

Quarterback O'Hara suffered a broken collar bone in the late stages of the game. He is in "fairly good" condition today in City Hospital.

Tigers Post Slender Win Over Parma

CLEVELAND (AP) — Massillon's defending state high school football champions edged Parma 21-20 Friday night, with a placement by Wilbur Paisley, the Tigers' place-kicking specialist, providing the margin of victory.

The Tigers, ranked first on The Associated Press poll, turned two Parma fumbles into touchdowns in the third period to overcome a 20-8 halftime deficit and remain in the unbeaten ranks. It was their 13th straight victory—10 of them this season.

Parma, which entered the game with a 5-4 record, is the first team to score 20 points against Massillon this season. The strong Tiger defense had yielded an average of only 4.2 points per game until Friday night's contest.

In other games involving the Top 10 teams, second ranked Niles gained stature by trouncing third ranked Alliance 30-6; Hamilton Garfield, No. 7 last week, edged fifth-ranked Middletown 26 - 22; Ketering Fairmont, No. 8, rolled over Xenia Central 28-0; ninth-ranked Martins Ferry defeated Bridgeport 36-6, and tenth-ranked Toledo Macomber downed Toledo Scott 6-0.

Cincinnati Roger Bacon, No. 4, and Bellevue, No. 6, did not play.

Stanton Tops Malvern, 14-6; Captures District Title

Mills, Wickham Score; McBride Flashes 8-1 Mark In 1st Year

Stanton Local of Irondale added the finishing touches to one of the school's best seasons in history by edging strong Malvern, 14-6, Friday night at Irondale.

A 20-8 reversal to rival Springfield in mid-season marred an otherwise perfect slate for McBride in his first year at the Stanton helm.

Quarterback Bob Mills and halfback Stan Wickham — both strong candidates for All - Ohio Class A honors — accounted for Stanton Local's touchdowns.

The Irons seized a fumble at the Malvern 10-yard stripe in the second quarter and forged ahead a few plays later on Mills' six-yard run. A run for the conversion fell short.

Wickham provided the Irons with another scoring opportunity in the third period when he intercepted a pass at the Malvern 25 and raced it back to the 11.

The 150-pound senior then went the remaining yardage for the touchdown to put the Irons in front, 14-0, with Bob Mills passing to end Larry Mills for the conversion.

Malvern penetrated the Irons' tough defense in the third period for a touchdown on Willard Clark's 29-yard run. The conversion try by Malvern, a run, was unsuccessful.

Wickham ended the year as the district's second highest scorer with 82 points on a dozen touchdowns and five conversions of the two-point variety.

Mills also completed a fine season of scoring, the touchdown, giving him 54 points.

The invaders showed a 12-8 edge in first downs.

Bob Burskey scored New Cumberland's first six-pointer on a 16-yard run in the opening quarter and Allen Katzenmeyer's placement was good for a 7-0 lead.

Day Of Reckoning Set For NFL Grid Teams

By ROBERT MOORE

Sunday may well be the day of reckoning in both divisions of the National Football League. Then again, it may merely set the stage for one of the wildest races down the home stretch the league has seen in years.

Barring a complete reversal of form, the defending champion Philadelphia Eagles could all but wrap up the Eastern Conference championship by whipping the Giants in New York. The Eagles have won seven, lost one. New York has a 6-2 record.

Of course, if the Giants conquer the Eagles, the two teams would be tied.

In the Western Conference, the front-running Green Bay Packers, now 6-2, tackle the Bears in Chicago. The Bears, generally regarded as the most improved club in both conferences, have a record of five victories and three losses.

Green Bay, like the Eagles, would become division favorite with a decision over the Bears. Chicago, would climb into a deadlock for first place if the Bears master the Packers.

Stanton Tops Malvern, 14-6; Captures District Title

Mills, Wickham Score; McBride Flashes 8-1 Mark In 1st Year

Stanton Local of Irondale added the finishing touches to one of the school's best seasons in history by edging strong Malvern, 14-6, Friday night at Irondale.

With the victory came Stanton's first district title. Coach Don McBride's gridders ended their campaign with an 8-1-0 record — best of the area's 17 scholastic squads.

A 20-8 reversal to rival Springfield in mid-season marred an otherwise perfect slate for McBride in his first year at the Stanton helm.

Quarterback Bob Mills and halfback Stan Wickham — both strong candidates for All - Ohio Class A honors — accounted for Stanton Local's touchdowns.

The Irons seized a fumble at the Malvern 10-yard stripe in the second quarter and forged ahead a few plays later on Mills' six-yard run. A run for the conversion fell short.

Wickham provided the Irons with another scoring opportunity in the third period when he intercepted a pass at the Malvern 25 and raced it back to the 11.

The 150-pound senior then went the remaining yardage for the touchdown to put the Irons in front, 14-0, with Bob Mills passing to end Larry Mills for the conversion.

Malvern penetrated the Irons' tough defense in the third period for a touchdown on Willard Clark's 29-yard run. The conversion try by Malvern, a run, was unsuccessful.

Wickham ended the year as the district's second highest scorer with 82 points on a dozen touchdowns and five conversions of the two-point variety.

Mills also completed a fine season of scoring, the touchdown, giving him 54 points.

Malvern, a league leader in Carroll County, ended the season with seven victories in nine games.

The invaders showed a 12-8 edge in first downs.

Raiders End Season With 7-2-1 Record

NEW CUMBERLAND — Stubborn Chester, hit by injuries, trailed by only 7-0 going into the final period, but allowed New Cumberland two fourth quarter touchdowns in losing 19-0 here Friday night.

Both Hancock County schools dropped the curtain on the 1961 season, New Cumberland finishing a highly productive one with a 7-2-1 mark. Chester was on the losing end this campaign with a 3-6 record.

Alan Pettit, a sophomore, tallied the two fourth-period touchdowns. One came on a 52-yard run and the other on a four-yard jaunt following a 64-yard drive.

Bob Burskey scored New Cumberland's first six-pointer on a 16-yard run in the opening quarter and Allen Katzenmeyer's placement was good for a 7-0 lead.

Chester failed to make any real threat. New Cumberland picked up 221 yards rushing to Chester's 112 and had a 6-5 edge in first downs.

Kelso Seen Favorite In International Race

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — Kelso, the American champion and hailed as the best racehorse in a generation, ruled the odds-on choice today to win the 10th running of the Washington D.C. International, a $100,000 invitation race that brings together eight starters from six countries.

Day Of Reckoning Set For NFL Grid Teams

By ROBERT MOORE

Sunday may well be the day of reckoning in both divisions of the National Football League. Then again, it may merely set the stage for one of the wildest races down the home stretch the league has seen in years.

Barring a complete reversal of form, the defending champion Philadelphia Eagles could all but wrap up the Eastern Conference championship by whipping the Giants in New York. The Eagles have won seven, lost one. New York has a 6-2 record.

Of course, if the Giants conquer the Eagles, the two teams would be tied.

In the Western Conference, the front-running Green Bay Packers, now 6-2, tackle the Bears in Chicago. The Bears, generally regarded as the most improved club in both conferences, have a record of five victories and three losses.

Green Bay, like the Eagles, would become division favorite with a decision over the Bears. Chicago, would climb into a deadlock for first place if the Bears master the Packers.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

2 IN MEMORIAM

IN loving memory of our dear mother, Bernice Weingartner, who passed away 1 year ago, Nov. 12, 1960.
Gone from our home, oh, how we miss her, Loving her dearly, her memory we'll keep; Not till life ends shall we forget her. Sacred to us is the place which she sleeps. May she rest in peace.
Children

IN memory of Mrs. Margaret McDowell, who passed away two years ago, today. Sadly missed by her daughter, Mrs. Juanita Anderson and ones who loved her.

IN loving memory of our baby son, Kenneth Floyd Ours II, who left us one year ago, November 12, 1960. No stain was on his little heart. Sin had not entered there and innocence slept sweetly on that pale white brow so fair. He was too pure for this cold earth, too beautiful to stay and so God's Holy Angel bore our darling son away.
SADLY MISSED BY MOMMY AND DADDY.

2 IN MEMORIAM

IN loving memory of our dear mother, Bernice Weingartner, who passed away 1 year ago, Nov. 12, 1960.
Gone from our home, oh, how we miss her, Loving her dearly, her memory we'll keep; Not till life ends shall we forget her. Sacred to us is the place which she sleeps. May she rest in peace.
Children

IN memory of Mrs. Margaret McDowell, who passed away two years ago, today. Sadly missed by her daughter, Mrs. Juanita Anderson and ones who loved her.

IN loving memory of our baby son, Kenneth Floyd Ours II, who left us one year ago, November 12, 1960. No stain was on his little heart. Sin had not entered there and innocence slept sweetly on that pale white brow so fair. He was too pure for this cold earth, too beautiful to stay and so God's Holy Angel bore our darling son away.
SADLY MISSED BY MOMMY AND DADDY.

Fire Losses Run High In Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Insurance claims from the devastating Bel-Air and Topanga Canyon fires range from $185 to $700,000 averaging about $50,000.

"They're running very high," one official said Friday.

Adjusters from many parts of the West have poured into the stricken area to sift the ruins of Southern California's worst fire and to help homeowners collect an estimated $24 million for insured losses. Some 450 homes were destroyed, all but nine in the Bel-Air section.

The General Adjustment Bureau, representing 320 stock property insurance companies, says 32 adjusters flew in to join a local staff of 82. They began examining the fire scene less than 24 hours after the blaze began—and two days before it was controlled.

Phil Simkins, the bureau's regional director, could not say how much Hollywood notables, or other certain individuals, were claiming. But he said some payments began Tuesday.

"We urge the insured not to operate under shock, not to complete their listings under duress," said Simkins.

Simkins estimates 30 per cent of the amounts claimed will be for homes, nearly 70 per cent for personal belongings. "You must remember that fine art can build some of these personal claims up pretty fast," says Simkins.

Some homes in the area, he says, contained collections of original paintings and statuary.

Most policies will also pay holders for additional living expenses —the motel rooms and restaurant meals taken while a family's home is rebuilt.

Simkins said Bel-Air victims usually were insured to full value.

To recover valuables buried in debris but not destroyed, a shaker device similar to a gold-mining mechanism sifts ruins where a homeowner recalls leaving such items.

Simkins estimated adjusters should finish their work within three weeks.

DiSalle Airs Finances With Legislature Unit

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — No conclusions on appropriations were reached after a two-hour, closed-door discussion between Gov. Michael V. DiSalle, his finance director and 10 members of the legislature Friday.

With the special session on appropriations opening Tuesday the situation remains "a question of either cutting the budget further or trying to find some additional revenues," Senate Majority Leader C. Stanley Mechem, R-Athens, commented.

DiSalle summoned the lawmakers in advance of the session to give them what he termed up-to-date financial information based on a gloomy report by Finance Director James H. Maloon.

Maloon warned that the state might run out of cash temporarily early next year because of increased spending, new tax exemptions and an expected lag in sales tax revenues after abandonment of prepaid tax stamps Jan. 1.

3 Appraisers Named To Conservancy Area

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP) — A Columbus realtor, the mayor of Waverly and a Portsmouth farmer - conservancy specialist comprise a three-man board of appraisers named Friday for the recently created Scioto Conservancy District.

The conservancy district court met here and appointed Charles F. Johnson, William J. Fleck and James S. Peebles.

They will eventually employ appraisers and supervise their work in connection with land acquisition and damage payments for flood protection measures planned in the five-county (Franklin, Scioto, Pike, Pickaway and Ross) district. Meanwhile, they will keep in touch with engineers who are developing a master plan for flood control.

Ex-Hearst Aide Dies

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Walter J. Merrill, 76, who retired several years ago as national advertising director for Hearst newspapers, died Friday. He joined the Hearst group in 1927.

Raymond Rolley, clerk, discussed the transportation of pupils. Mrs. Jean Tipton, school nurse, Mrs. Ruth Cooper, attendance officer, and Mrs. Marge Dysert, president of the County PTA Council, also were present.

Mrs. Tipton urged the school heads to bring immunization records of pupils up to date.

Plans were discussed to landscape the school area in the spring and to slag some areas before winter weather.

Mrs. Wilma Ralston reported the group's sale of Christmas novelties ends next week. Wayne Hamilton displayed a bookcase he built for the school library. Several members donated paint and materials. Five more bookcases will be built. Hamilton was authorized to use the workshop and tools of the school for the project.

OSU Grants Contracts For Building 2 Dorms

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Trustees of Ohio State University awarded contracts totaling over $1 million to Columbus, Dayton and Lancaster firms for the construction of two four-story dormitories.

The board also approved plans for a dining facility to serve students housed in the projected residences at its meeting Friday. The dorms, to be built at the northeast edge of the campus, will house about 430 students.

Vice President Gordon B. Carson said the possibility of building a fallout shelter into the proposed dining hall is being discussed. He said the facility could be constructed underground "to conserve surface space and with some help from the federal government the bomb shelter could be built."

Trio Kidnaps Bank Aides, Gets $62,693

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Police concede that three gunmen who robbed the world's largest privately owned bank of $62,693 Friday made a clean getaway.

Efforts to identify the bandits, who also kidnaped two Bank of America officials and their families, were fruitless. Police studied rogues' gallery photographs and sketches by the victims to no avail.

The three, one disguised as a red-haired woman, cleaned out the Union and Webster branch of the Bank of America.

At 7 p.m. Thursday the trio began the robbery by going to the Larkspark home of the branch manager, Joseph Finocchio, 55, 15 miles north of San Francisco's Golden Gate.

"Move in," the "woman" snapped when Finocchio opened the door.

One gunman stayed with Finocchio's wife and daughter. The other two forced Finocchio to drive them in his car to Millbrae, 15 miles south of San Francisco, to the home of Henry Lupori, 53, assistant manager of the branch.

"They made me go to the door and tell Mr. Lupori I had to discuss some bank matters with him," Finocchio said later. "When he let me in, they came in too."

One gunman then forced Lupori and his son into the Lupori car. The other gunman took Lupori's wife and other son in Finocchio's car.

When all were back at the Finocchio home, the gunmen made coffee and served it to everybody.

After dawn the gunmen began tying all their victims except Lupori with drapery cords.

Two gunmen forced him into Finocchio's car and they drove to the bank, arriving at 7 a.m.

Lupori was forced to open the bank and the vault. Two tellers, Susan Romweber and Carol Hickenbotam, were forced to help scoop up the cash.

Twice during the robbery one of the men called back to the Finocchio home to find out if all was well.

X-15 Model Plane Hits Span During Tow Trip

CLEVELAND (AP) — The X15 may fly at 4,070 miles an hour, but it will never make the short haul from Detroit to Cleveland.

The Air Force had planned to bring an exact model of the rocket plane to the Mall here next Tuesday for display purpose. But the plane will not appear here — it developed wing trouble.

While being towed under a bridge with a police escort, the plane was damaged, the recruiting office here was told Friday. Wing tips and part of the tail assembly were damaged.

Repairs are being made at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Dayton. The X15 is due in Washington and will therefore bypass Cleveland.

The average family today spends about $25 a year more for prescriptions than it did in 1929. Largely because of wonder drugs in these prescriptions, you can expect ten more years of life than you could in 1929—about $2.50 per family for each extra year of life expectancy. Today's prescription is the biggest bargain in history.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. What repair can I effect when a door bolt refuses to align with the opening in the striker plate?

A. Simply taper the top and bottom edges of the bolt with a file. This is better than enlarging the hole in the plate, and will alleviate any future misalignment troubles caused by the settling of either the door or the door-frame.

Q. How can I clean water-spotted mohair upholstery?

A. Go over the entire surface with a cloth wrung from cold water. After this has dried, go over it again with equal parts of alcohol and ether.

Q. How can I cope with white spots left on furniture by alcohol?

A. Apply some petroleum jelly, and rub vigorously with a wad of cotton. Fresh spots usually disappear after one application, but old spots may require several treatments.

Q. How can I remedy the slipping and sliding of some of my small rugs on my polished floors?

A. Apply some ordinary rubber cement to the underside of the rug. Sometimes, just coating the underside of the rug at its corners will do the job.

Ceramists Await Pittsburgh Event

A panel discussion will mark a meeting of the Pittsburgh Section of the American Ceramic Society Tuesday night at 8:15 at Mellon Institute in Pittsburgh.

The topic will be "The High Strength of Glass Fibers and Pristine Glass." Participating will be: Dr. L. G. Ghering and Dr. R. E. Mould, both of American Glass Research, Inc., at Butler; Dr. A. H. Lasday, a Pittsburgh technical consultant, and Dr. F. M. Ernsberger, assistant director of research at the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co.

The section will elect officers for 1962, voting on a unopposed slate nominated in October. It is: J. B. Allardice, chairman; J. T. Markham, chairman-elect; E. D. Miller, vice chairman, and Keith Kappmeyer, secretary. All are of Pittsburgh.

Dinner at Stouffer's Restaurant at 6:15 will precede the technical session.

Publisher Calls Bomb Shelter Plans 'Risky'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The publisher of Scientific American magazine says the government-sponsored fallout shelter program is a "hoax and illusion" and psychologically dangerous because it "brings the third world war closer."

The publisher, Gerard Piel told a meeting of the Commonwealth Club of Northern California Friday the program "gives the sanction of action to the delusion that a thermonuclear war can be fought and survived. It encourages statesmen to take larger risks. It disengages the citizen from vigilance over the rationality and responsibility of his elected officials."

Fire Losses Run High In Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Insurance claims from the devastating Bel-Air and Topanga Canyon fires range from $185 to $700,000 averaging about $50,000.

"They're running very high," one official said Friday.

Adjusters from many parts of the West have poured into the stricken area to sift the ruins of Southern California's worst fire and to help homeowners collect an estimated $24 million for insured losses. Some 450 homes were destroyed, all but nine in the Bel-Air section.

The General Adjustment Bureau, representing 320 stock property insurance companies, says 32 adjusters flew in to join a local staff of 82. They began examining the fire scene less than 24 hours after the blaze began—and two days before it was controlled.

Phil Simkins, the bureau's regional director, could not say how much Hollywood notables, or other certain individuals, were claiming. But he said some payments began Tuesday.

"We urge the insured not to operate under shock, not to complete their listings under duress," said Simkins.

Simkins estimates 30 per cent of the amounts claimed will be for homes, nearly 70 per cent for personal belongings. "You must remember that fine art can build some of these personal claims up pretty fast," says Simkins.

Some homes in the area, he says, contained collections of original paintings and statuary.

Most policies will also pay holders for additional living expenses —the motel rooms and restaurant meals taken while a family's home is rebuilt.

Simkins said Bel-Air victims usually were insured to full value.

To recover valuables buried in debris but not destroyed, a shaker device similar to a gold-mining mechanism sifts ruins where a homeowner recalls leaving such items.

Simkins estimated adjusters should finish their work within three weeks.

DiSalle Airs Finances With Legislature Unit

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — No conclusions on appropriations were reached after a two-hour, closed-door discussion between Gov. Michael V. DiSalle, his finance director and 10 members of the legislature Friday.

With the special session on appropriations opening Tuesday the situation remains "a question of either cutting the budget further or trying to find some additional revenues," Senate Majority Leader C. Stanley Mechem, R-Athens, commented.

DiSalle summoned the lawmakers in advance of the session to give them what he termed up-to-date financial information based on a gloomy report by Finance Director James H. Maloon.

Maloon warned that the state might run out of cash temporarily early next year because of increased spending, new tax exemptions and an expected lag in sales tax revenues after abandonment of prepaid tax stamps Jan. 1.

3 Appraisers Named To Conservancy Area

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP) — A Columbus realtor, the mayor of Waverly and a Portsmouth farmer - conservancy specialist comprise a three-man board of appraisers named Friday for the recently created Scioto Conservancy District.

The conservancy district court met here and appointed Charles F. Johnson, William J. Fleck and James S. Peebles.

They will eventually employ appraisers and supervise their work in connection with land acquisition and damage payments for flood protection measures planned in the five-county (Franklin, Scioto, Pike, Pickaway and Ross) district. Meanwhile, they will keep in touch with engineers who are developing a master plan for flood control.

Ex-Hearst Aide Dies

Wellsville's School Officials Speak Before Hillcrest PTA

Officials in the Wellsville school system spoke at a meeting of the Hillcrest-Fairview Parent - Teacher Association Thursday night.

Earl Bake, president, introduced members of the Board of Education, including William Ferrall, newly-elected.

Raymond Rolley, clerk, discussed the transportation of pupils. Mrs. Jean Tipton, school nurse, Mrs. Ruth Cooper, attendance officer, and Mrs. Marge Dysert, president of the County PTA Council, also were present.

Mrs. Tipton urged the school heads to bring immunization records of pupils up to date.

Mrs. Loretta Hawksworth conducted business and purchase of a $5 health bond was authorized.

Plans were discussed to landscape the school area in the spring and to slag some areas before winter weather.

Mrs. Wilma Ralston reported the group's sale of Christmas novelties ends next week. Wayne Hamilton displayed a bookcase he built for the school library. Several members donated paint and materials. Five more bookcases will be built. Hamilton was authorized to use the workshop and tools of the school for the project.

Mrs. Eileen Lanam read a letter of thanks from the Child Counseling Center of East Liverpool for its donation. The center also invited the school to use its services whenever needed.

Mrs. Ann Jones reported a treasury balance of $211.26

The Rev. William A Hewitt of the Central Methodist Church led devotions. The sixth grade of Kyle Baker won the attendance banner for the third successive time.

Refreshments were served by the fifth grade homeroom mothers with Mrs. Oda Mae Howell chairman. Sixth graders held a bake sale. There will be no meeting in December.

OSU Grants Contracts For Building 2 Dorms

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Trustees of Ohio State University awarded contracts totaling over $1 million to Columbus, Dayton and Lancaster firms for the construction of two four-story dormitories.

The board also approved plans for a dining facility to serve students housed in the projected residences at its meeting Friday. The dorms, to be built at the northeast edge of the campus, will house about 430 students.

Vice President Gordon B. Carson said the possibility of building a fallout shelter into the proposed dining hall is being discussed. He said the facility could be constructed underground "to conserve surface space and with some help from the federal government the bomb shelter could be built."

Ex-Hearst Aide Dies

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Walter J. Merrill, 76, who retired several years ago as national advertising director for Hearst newspapers, died Friday. He joined the Hearst group in 1927.

Trio Kidnaps Bank Aides, Gets $62,693

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Police concede that three gunmen who robbed the world's largest privately owned bank of $62,693 Friday made a clean getaway.

Efforts to identify the bandits, who also kidnaped two Bank of America officials and their families, were fruitless. Police studied rogues' gallery photographs and sketches by the victims to no avail.

The three, one disguised as a red-haired woman, cleaned out the Union and Webster branch of the Bank of America.

At 7 p.m. Thursday the trio began the robbery by going to the Larkspark home of the branch manager, Joseph Finocchio, 55, 15 miles north of San Francisco's Golden Gate.

"Move in," the "woman" snapped when Finocchio opened the door.

One gunman stayed with Finocchio's wife and daughter. The other two forced Finocchio to drive them in his car to Millbrae, 15 miles south of San Francisco, to the home of Henry Lupori, 53, assistant manager of the branch.

"They made me go to the door and tell Mr. Lupori I had to discuss some bank matters with him," Finocchio said later. "When he let me in, they came in too."

One gunman then forced Lupori and his son into the Lupori car. The other gunman took Lupori's wife and other son in Finocchio's car.

When all were back at the Finocchio home, the gunmen made coffee and served it to everybody.

After dawn the gunmen began tying all their victims except Lupori with drapery cords.

Two gunmen forced him into Finocchio's car and they drove to the bank, arriving at 7 a.m.

Lupori was forced to open the bank and the vault. Two tellers, Susan Romweber and Carol Hickenbotam, were forced to help scoop up the cash.

Twice during the robbery one of the men called back to the Finocchio home to find out if all was well.

X-15 Model Plane Hits Span During Tow Trip

CLEVELAND (AP) — The X15 may fly at 4,070 miles an hour, but it will never make the short haul from Detroit to Cleveland.

The Air Force had planned to bring an exact model of the rocket plane to the Mall here next Tuesday for display purpose. But the plane will not appear here — it developed wing trouble.

While being towed under a bridge with a police escort, the plane was damaged, the recruiting office here was told Friday. Wing tips and part of the tail assembly were damaged.

Repairs are being made at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Dayton. The X15 is due in Washington and will therefore bypass Cleveland.

The average family today spends about $25 a year more for prescriptions than it did in 1929. Largely because of wonder drugs in these prescriptions, you can expect ten more years of life than you could in 1929—about $2.50 per family for each extra year of life expectancy. Today's prescription is the biggest bargain in history.

FU. 5-2980 EAST LIVERPOOL

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. What repair can I effect when a door bolt refuses to align with the opening in the striker plate?

A. Simply taper the top and bottom edges of the bolt with a file. This is better than enlarging the hole in the plate, and will alleviate any future misalignment troubles caused by the settling of either the door or the door-frame.

Q. How can I clean water-spotted mohair upholstery?

A. Go over the entire surface with a cloth wrung from cold water. After this has dried, go over it again with equal parts of alcohol and ether.

Q. How can I cope with white spots left on furniture by alcohol?

A. Apply some petroleum jelly, and rub vigorously with a wad of cotton. Fresh spots usually disappear after one application, but old spots may require several treatments.

Q. How can I remedy the slipping and sliding of some of my small rugs on my polished floors?

A. Apply some ordinary rubber cement to the underside of the rug. Sometimes, just coating the underside of the rug at its corners will do the job.

Ceramists Await Pittsburgh Event

A panel discussion will mark a meeting of the Pittsburgh Section of the American Ceramic Society Tuesday night at 8:15 at Mellon Institute in Pittsburgh.

The topic will be "The High Strength of Glass Fibers and Pristine Glass." Participating will be: Dr. L. G. Ghering and Dr. R. E. Mould, both of American Glass Research, Inc., at Butler; Dr. A. H. Lasday, a Pittsburgh technical consultant, and Dr. F. M. Ernsberger, assistant director of research at the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co.

The section will elect officers for 1962, voting on a unopposed slate nominated in October. It is: J. B. Allardice, chairman; J. T. Markham, chairman-elect; E. D. Miller, vice chairman, and Keith Kappmeyer, secretary. All are of Pittsburgh.

Dinner at Stouffer's Restaurant at 6:15 will precede the technical session.

Publisher Calls Bomb Shelter Plans 'Risky'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The publisher of Scientific American magazine says the government-sponsored fallout shelter program is a "hoax and illusion" and psychologically dangerous because it "brings the third world war closer."

The publisher, Gerard Piel told a meeting of the Commonwealth Club of Northern California Friday the program "gives the sanction of action to the delusion that a thermonuclear war can be fought and survived. It encourages statesmen to take larger risks. It disengages the citizen from vigilance over the rationality and responsibility of his elected officials."

Jersey Figure Dies

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Frank Fiore, chairman since 1956 of the Board of Directors of the Atlantic City (N.J.) Racing Association and a founder of the Atlantic City Convention Bureau, died Friday after suffering a heart attack. Fiore, who was 66, was a delegate to the last three national Republican conventions.

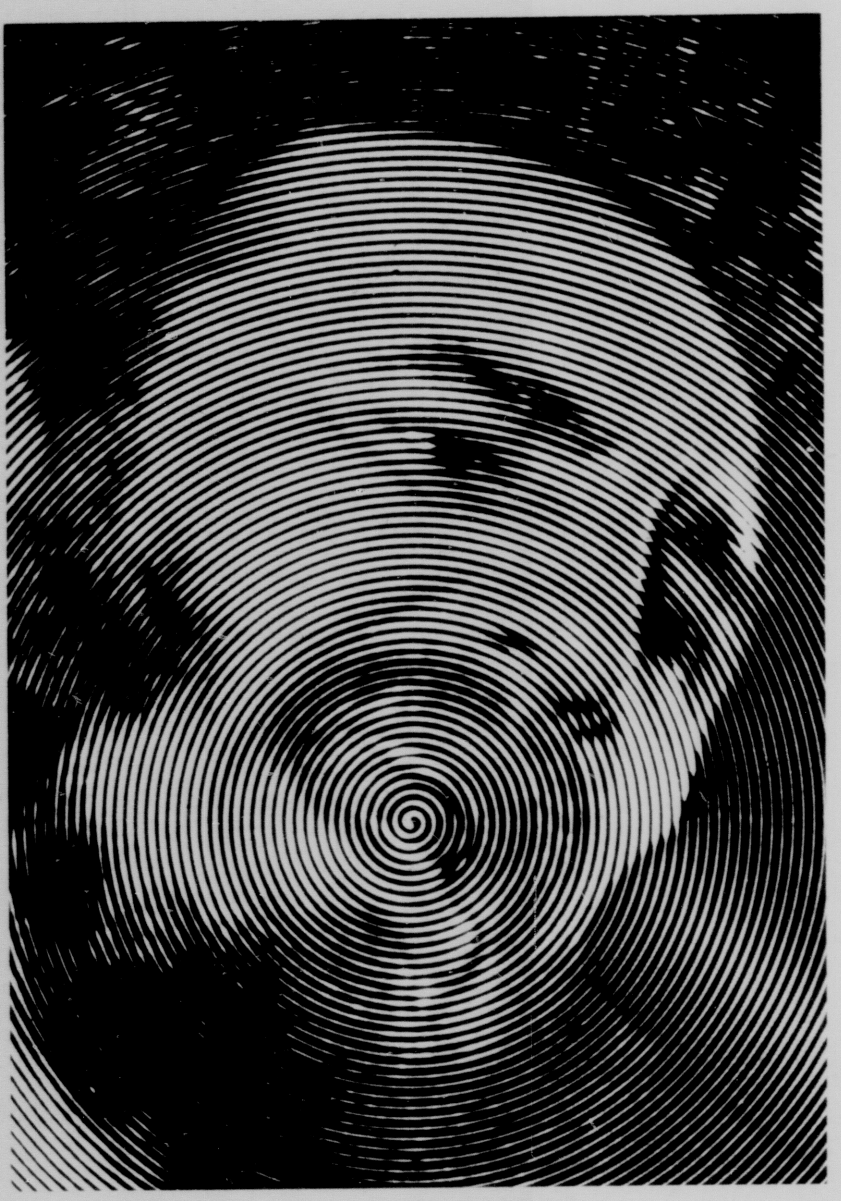
WHY CASTRO IS LIVING ON BORROWED TIME

By GEORGE FIELDING ELIOT



A noted military analyst cites evidence that Fidel is his own worst enemy—a man who has doomed his own dreams

FIDEL CASTRO RUZ, premier of Cuba, is living on borrowed time—and even borrowed time is running out on him.

What mistakes has Castro made that eventually will doom his regime? They are many—personal, political, and diplomatic.

Take Castro's personal mistakes. His monumental egotism has led him to demand unquestioning obedience. Even mild opposition to his will brings instant, savage reprisal and relentless hatred thereafter, no matter how close the ties of previous friendship. Hardly a single man of substance who supported Castro's 26th of July movement—the revolution which overthrew the Batista dictatorship and brought Castro to power—is still with him. In almost every case, the reason is the same—refusal to go along with Castro on communism.

In the eyes of many Cubans who were hoping Castro would not go all the way with the Reds, Fidel probably reached the point of no return in his brutal treatment of Maj. Hubert Matos. Matos was almost as famous a revolutionary hero as Castro himself, and had fought gallantly at his leader's side in many a battle. In 1959, however, he was arrested for treason.

After a seven-hour speech for the prosecution by Castro in person, Matos was sentenced to 20 years imprisonment. Yet there was not a shred of evidence against him to sustain the charge of treason: he simply could not stomach communism. It was after this that many other men of character gave up on Castro. If such a thing could happen to Matos, who was safe, who dared lift a voice against the Reds? The answer was nobody. So today Fidel is alone, save for hard-rock communists and a handful of sycophants—a combination that may not be able to hold the loyalty of Cubans.

In his increasingly violent attacks on the Roman Catholic Church, his persecution and exiling of its clergy, and the breaking up of religious demonstrations with gunfire, Fidel Castro has adopted a standard communist attitude which also may alienate the Cuban populace. The communist "truth" can permit no rival truth to be voiced. Yet the religious riots which broke out in Havana and several other cities in early September, however, had an atmosphere of desperation about them which suggests that bloodier disturbances may not be far away. Reports that some militiamen tore off their insignia and joined the rioters are said to have jarred some of Castro's advisers, if not Fidel himself.

Some observers claim that religion is not taken too seriously by most Cubans; but in a time of hunger and fear, men and women may well seek comfort in a Church to which, in better times, they paid less attention—and may resent bitterly being deprived of even this consolation.

In such a situation, a wise and diplomatic man might have sought the friendship of other Latin American states, ever sensitive to any U. S. interference in the internal affairs of Latin America. Yet Fidel Castro, by word and deed, has persistently assailed the very neighbors he counts on to restrain us from attacking him.

DURING 1959, his first year of power, he aided or supported armed invasions of Panama, Nicaragua, the Dominican Republic, and Haiti. During 1960, he turned his attention to provoking revolutionary disorders in many republics, and he is still tirelessly engaged in these activities. The duly elected presidents of Argentina, Chile, Mexico, Colombia, and Venezuela, among others, have been personally denounced, insulted, and vilified by Castro or by his controlled radio. As a result, seven American states no longer have diplomatic relations with Cuba, and others have demanded the recall of Cuban diplomats for flagrant intervention in domestic affairs.

Perhaps Castro's crowning imprudence, however, is that he has provided Latin America as a whole with a close-up view of a communist totalitarian state in action in a Latin American setting—starvation and misery instead of the promised plenty; brutal repression instead of cast-off chains; organized subversion of education, religion, and all the treasured and traditional aspects of the Latin social order; prison or the firing squad for any who lift a voice in protest—these practical demonstrations of the real meaning of the communist paradise are be-

Slip Fun By Alice Bussey

Fill a container with slips of paper, half of which are blank and half with written instructions of things for players to do, such as dance, sing, make a speech, etc. A player pulls a slip out of the container and conceals it in his hand while another player guesses whether it is blank or not.

If something is written on it and the guesser says "blank," the guessing player has to do whatever is written on the slip. If the guesser is correct, the one holding the slip has to perform whatever is written on it. Each player should have a chance to guess and to pull a slip from the container.

Mother heard a cry from the baby's room and ran to see what was wrong. She found the baby pulling his four-year-old brother's hair. Freeing the boy, she explained: "Now, Junior, Baby was only playing. He doesn't know yet that pulling hair hurts."

The mother hurried back to her work, only to hear another scream—that of the baby. She ran into the nursery and confronted the four-year-old. "What did you do, Junior?"

"Nothing much," he replied, "only now Baby knows!"

A survey interviewer questioned a car owner. "How often do you drive?"

"Every day," the owner replied.

"And the estimated number of miles?"

"Know it exactly—⅝ of a mile."

The interviewer looked puzzled. "You don't drive much then?"

"Very little—just to the gas station and back."

"And how far is that?"

"Exactly ⅝ of a mile."

"With that little amount of driving, I presume you don't buy gasoline every trip."

"Oh, yes," the owner answered, "at least six or seven gallons."

"Six or seven gallons, and you drive only ⅝ of a mile each time?" The interviewer was stunned. "What on earth do you see in a car like that?"

"Mostly my wife and son," the owner replied. —J. W. Pelkie

ing brought home to Latin Americans daily, not as something that is happening in Russia or China, but to a kindred people right here in the Americas.

The consequences of these failures bode ill for Fidel because neither he as an individual, nor Cuba as a nation, possess within themselves the resources to stand alone.

For the Cuban people, the consequences of economic isolation, Castro-induced, are approaching the disaster level. Economically, at least 75 percent of Cuba's livelihood depended on her export trade, and the United States has been by far the biggest buyer of Cuban exports. By treating the U. S. as an enemy, Castro has wrecked the foundations of this economy. The communist bloc cannot take over as a new market—how, for instance, can Cuban cane sugar compete on any sound economic basis with domestic beet sugar in the markets of Eastern Europe?

MEANWHILE, the Cuban people already are feeling the pinch of hard times. Correspondents report that Cubans have been rationed to one pound of lard and one pound of oil a month; that in Havana butter is unobtainable and milk and eggs are luxuries. The government often must keep troops in the market place to prevent riots.

Another Havana dispatch reports increased shortages of almost everything except bread and rice. Cattle slaughter has been cut back 30 percent in an effort to increase cattle production; pork slaughter—recently reduced to half-grown and younger pigs—has been stopped altogether. Plans for agricultural development on the Soviet model (state farms) require a degree of organizational and technical skill far beyond Cuban capabilities. If present agricultural plans, announced flamboyantly by Castro, do not go according to schedule, even more acute food shortages may result.

Castro's industrial dreams also seem headed for nightmarish results. Only two of 40 state industrial enterprises met their goals for 1961. His diversification program for industry and agriculture is ambitious, but Puerto Rico's experience with diversification aided by ample U. S. subsidies suggests that success will not come quickly.

Not quickly enough, certainly, to appease those hungry stomachs.

Whether the consequences of his economic folly will overtake Castro earlier than the consequences of his political folly remains a question. Certainly one of Castro's greatest dangers is his big neighbor, the United States. Castro's regime and conduct in Cuba have already been branded by the State Department "a clear and present danger to the authentic and autonomous revolution of the Americas (which) . . . represents a fateful challenge to the American system."

And President Kennedy has said: "Let the record show that our restraint is not inexhaustible . . . Cuba must not be abandoned to the communists. And we do not intend to abandon it either."

These words, and many others, indicate the U. S. would not hesitate to act if Castro presented an immediate danger to our national security.

To sum up: Castro is a short-term opportunist who is being overtaken by hard facts. He leaps nimbly from expedient to expedient; he makes new promises to cover up his failure to keep old ones; he is utterly committed to the communists and hence a continuing threat to the United States and his Latin American neighbors; and he has not a chance of restoring the Cuban economy and feeding the people by any means now imaginable.

HE INSISTS that he rests secure in the love and trust of his people. Yet during the brief, ill-fated invasion of last April, the men of Castro's "people's militia," arms in hand, began defecting to the invaders not in dozens but in hundreds—until Castro's jet planes attacked the beachhead, and it became clear that the invasion did not have U. S. armed support. Then those who could defected back again. Castro was lucky that time.

But in the long run, he has no human source of help—least of all in Moscow—on whom he can rely. Moreover, he has established a hostile base at the very doorstep of the world's greatest power and misses no opportunity of threatening the U. S. naval station at Guantanamo.

Circumstances in which this situation would become intolerable could arise tomorrow morning. As Francis B. Stevens, an able career diplomat turned journalist, recently wrote: "In the final analysis, great powers will take whatever steps they consider necessary to guard their national security."

For this reason above all, Fidel Castro is living on borrowed time.

Even this much extra carbon can waste 1 gallon in 10

Carbon costs you money. A tiny bit extra on a vital engine part can waste a tenth of the gasoline you buy, cost you 50 cents or more every time you fill up. Why is this so?

Carbon hurts your engine. It increases roughness. Fouls spark plugs. Runs up repair bills.

Gulf gasolines control carbon. Gulf's super refining process refines out dirty-burning, deposit-forming elements.

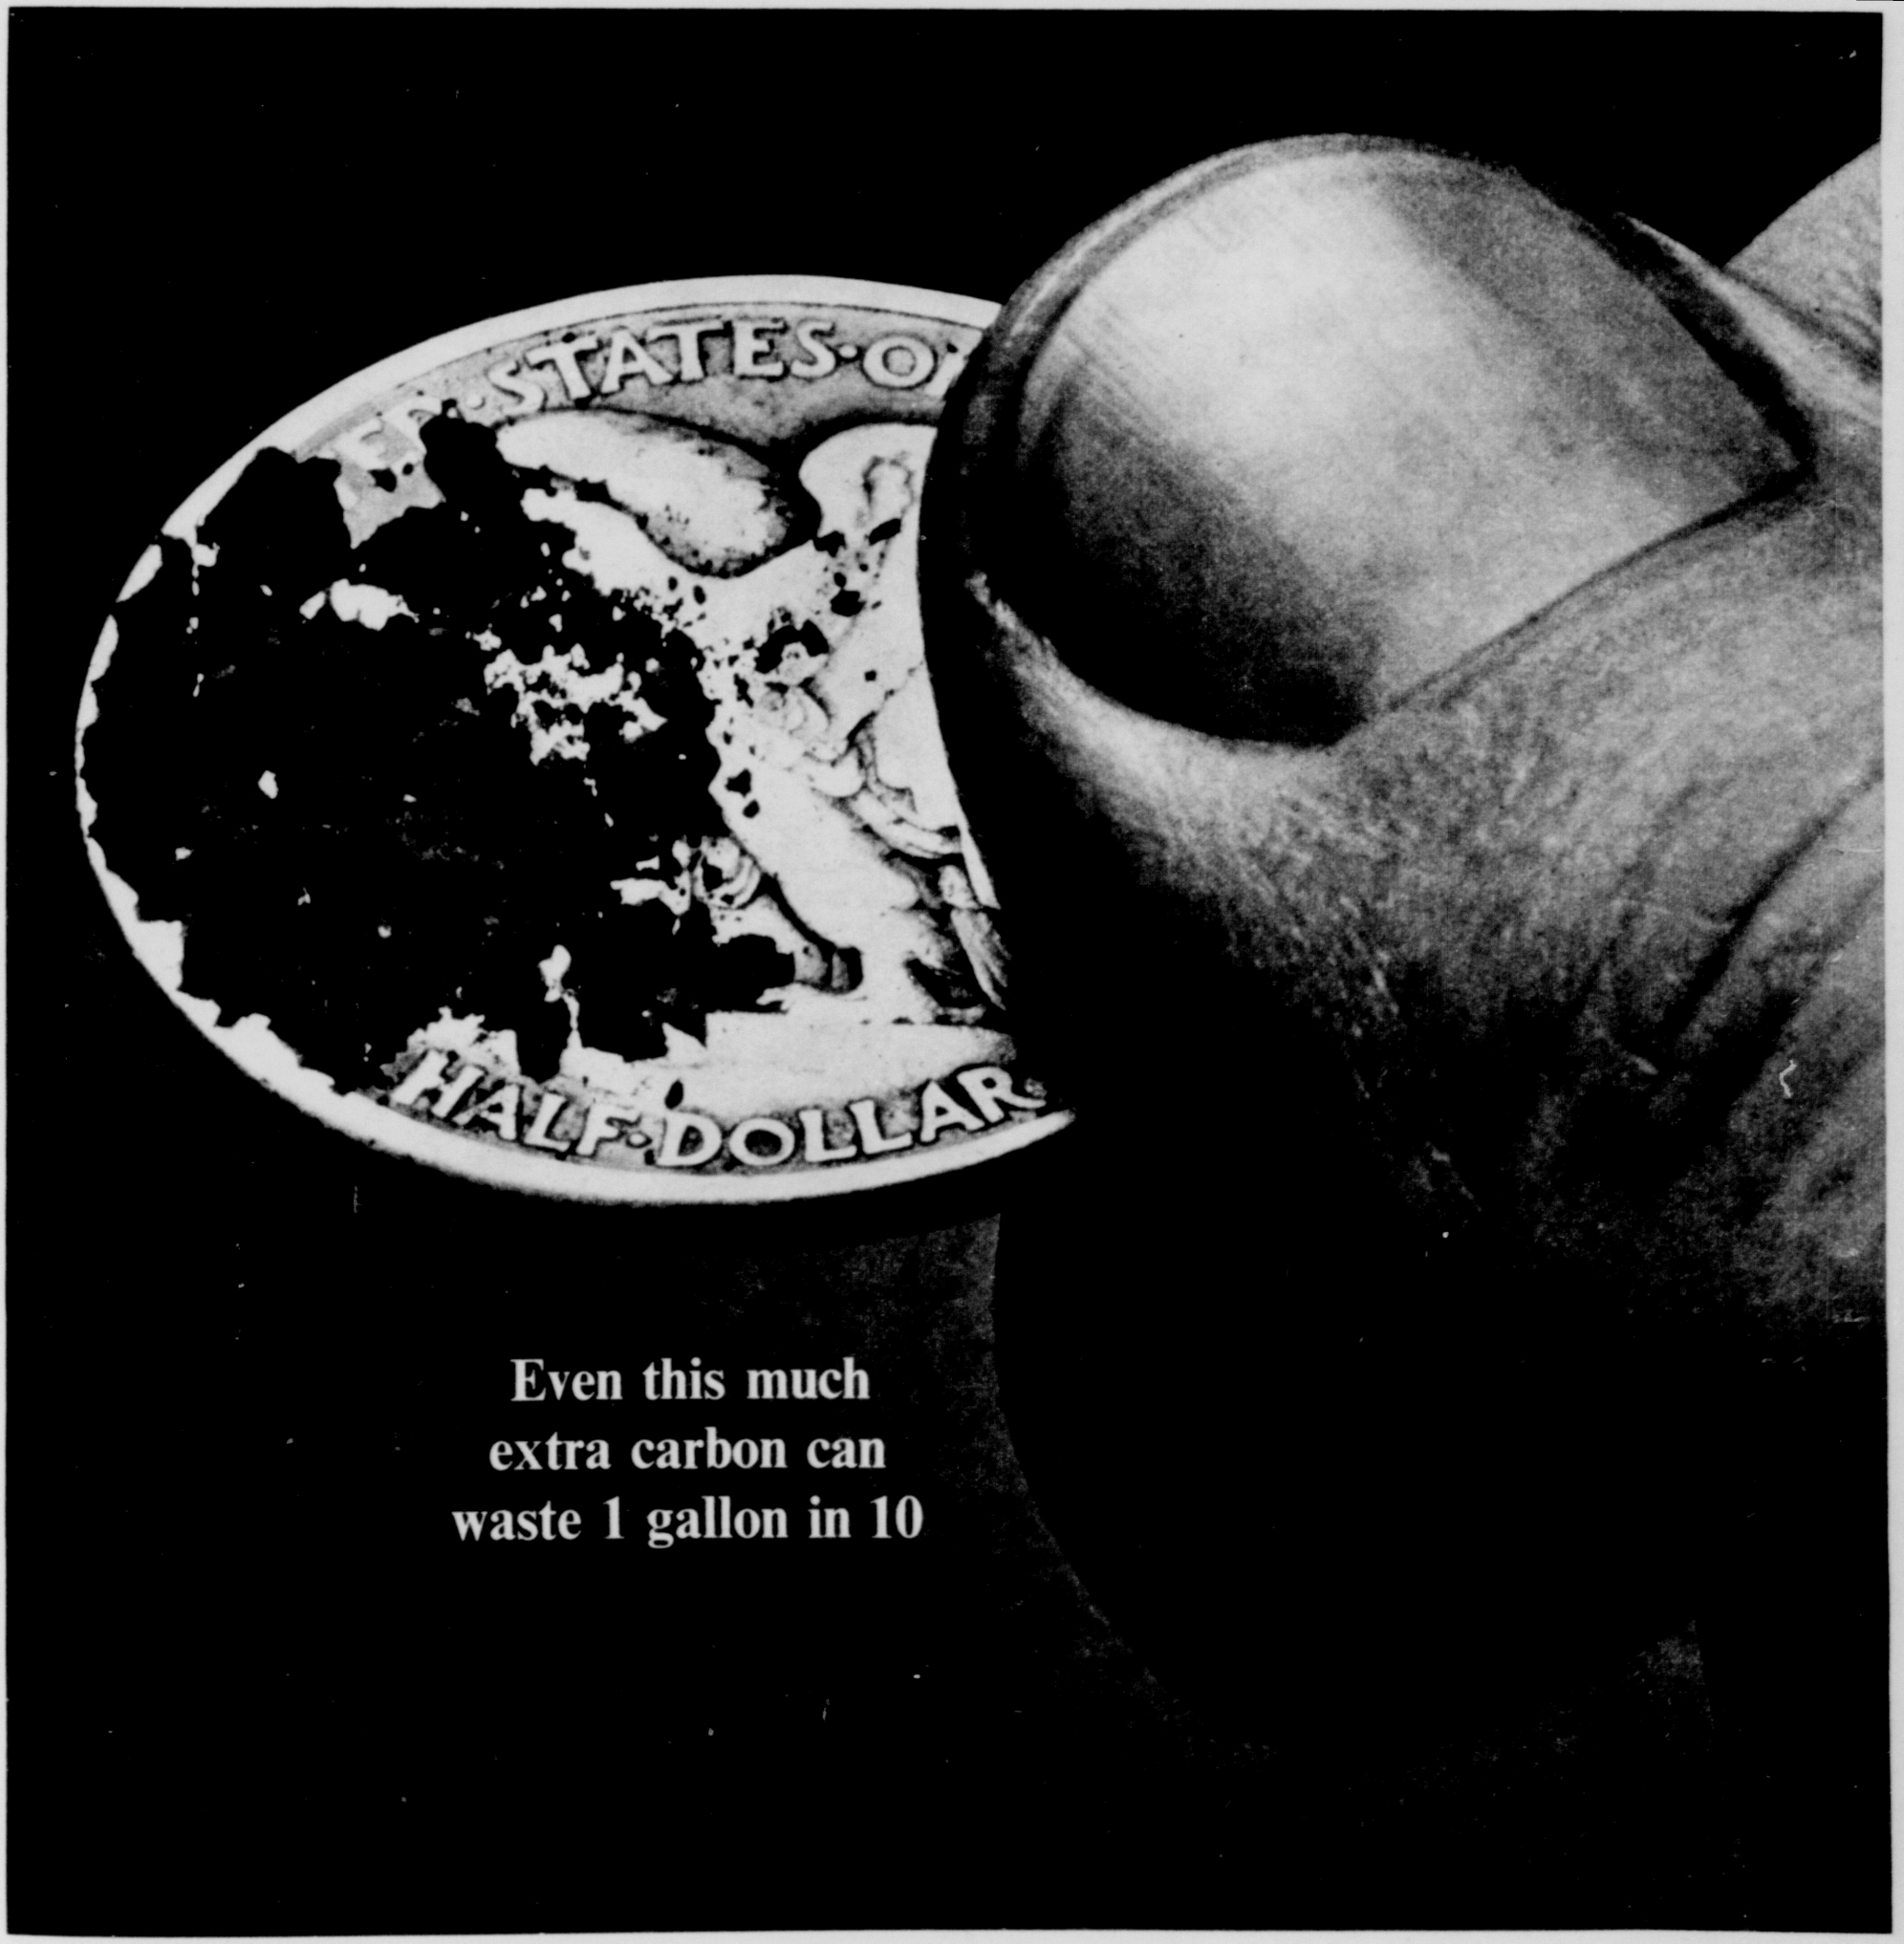
CONTROL CARBON WITH CLEAN-BURNING NEW GULF GASOLINES

GULF OIL CORPORATION



Even this much extra carbon can waste 1 gallon in 10

Carbon costs you money. A tiny bit extra on a vital engine part can waste a tenth of the gasoline you buy, cost you 50 cents or more every time you fill up. Why is this so?

Carbon hurts your engine. It increases roughness. Fouls spark plugs. Runs up repair bills.

Gulf gasolines control carbon. Gulf's super refining process refines out dirty-burning, deposit-forming elements.

Result: cleaner-burning performance, faster pick-up, fewer repairs. Just try Gulf. You'll like the driving. You'll like the saving, too.

When childhood constipation occurs

More mothers use Fletcher's Castoria than any other laxative

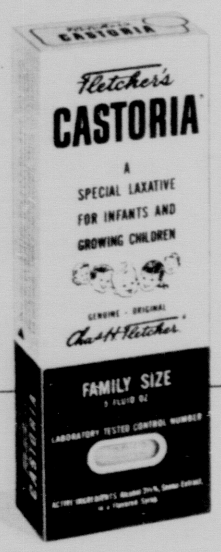
Because

Fletcher's Castoria gives the prompt, yet natural-like relief from temporary constipation that medical authorities agree is best for a child's young system. Its pure extract of Senna is considered one of nature's finest vegetable laxative products.

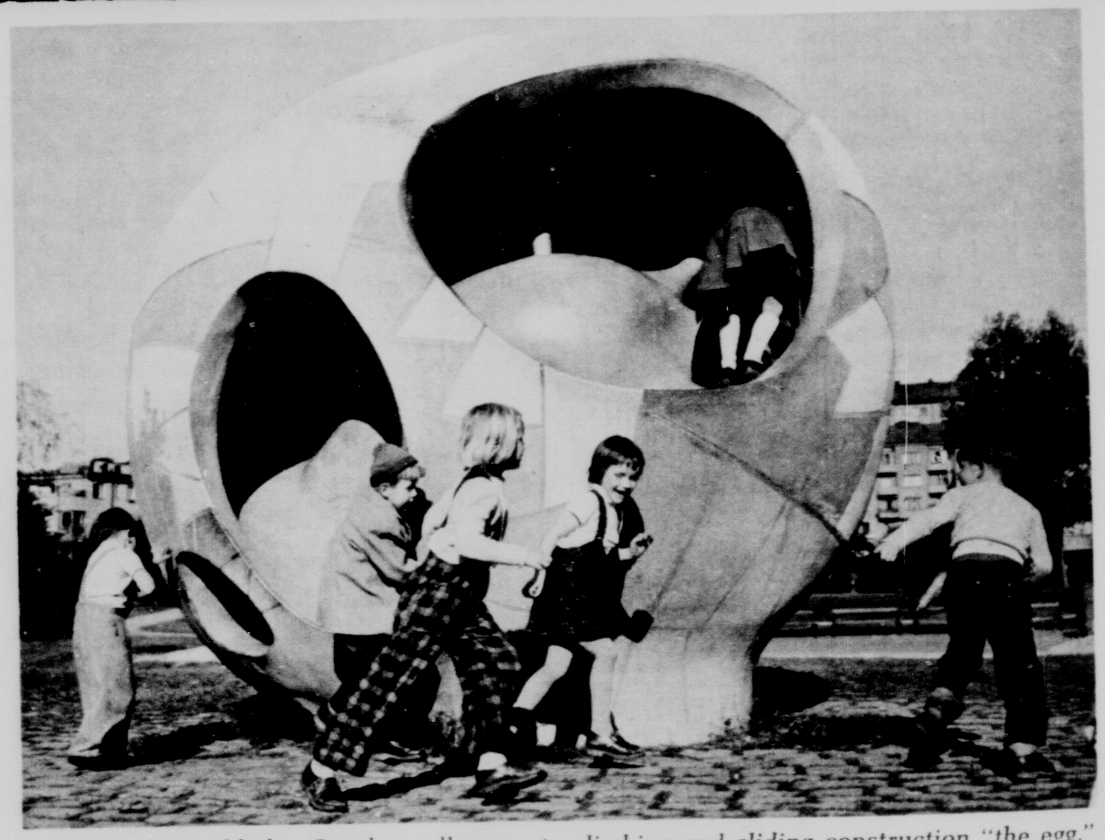
Fletcher's Castoria is gentle, the prime requisite for a child's laxative. It contains none of the harsh drugs which are so often found in adult laxatives, drugs that can upset your child's system.

Fletcher's Castoria is liquid, so exact dosage is sure: from drops to teaspoonfuls as needed. Very important, too, Castoria tastes good. So children take it willingly, even lick the spoon.

Fletcher's Castoria is the only nationally-recognized laxative made especially for children of all ages. So why take chances...the laxative that's "right" for you can well be "wrong" for your child. Get famous Fletcher's Castoria today.



It takes a child's laxative to fulfill a child's needs



Children in Stockholm, Sweden, call concrete climbing and sliding construction "the egg."

Art Comes to the Playground

Big outside wheel keeps going round in a circle in a German playground, but seats and children all stay right-side up.

New play equipment is inventive and fanciful — just like kids themselves

IN EUROPE and the United States, an increasing number of parks are beginning to look like graveyards for modern sculpture. In reality, though, the parks have a much more practical purpose—they are playgrounds equipped with concrete and metal devices notable for two essential characteristics: they're fun and virtually unbreakable. The designers are—you guessed it—contemporary sculptors, but this time their abstractions have a realistic basis: most of them studied children playing on their own, then designed equipment to parallel the kids' own inventive ideas.

A mountain range, secret caves and tunnels are suggested by these simple concrete forms first built in New York City.

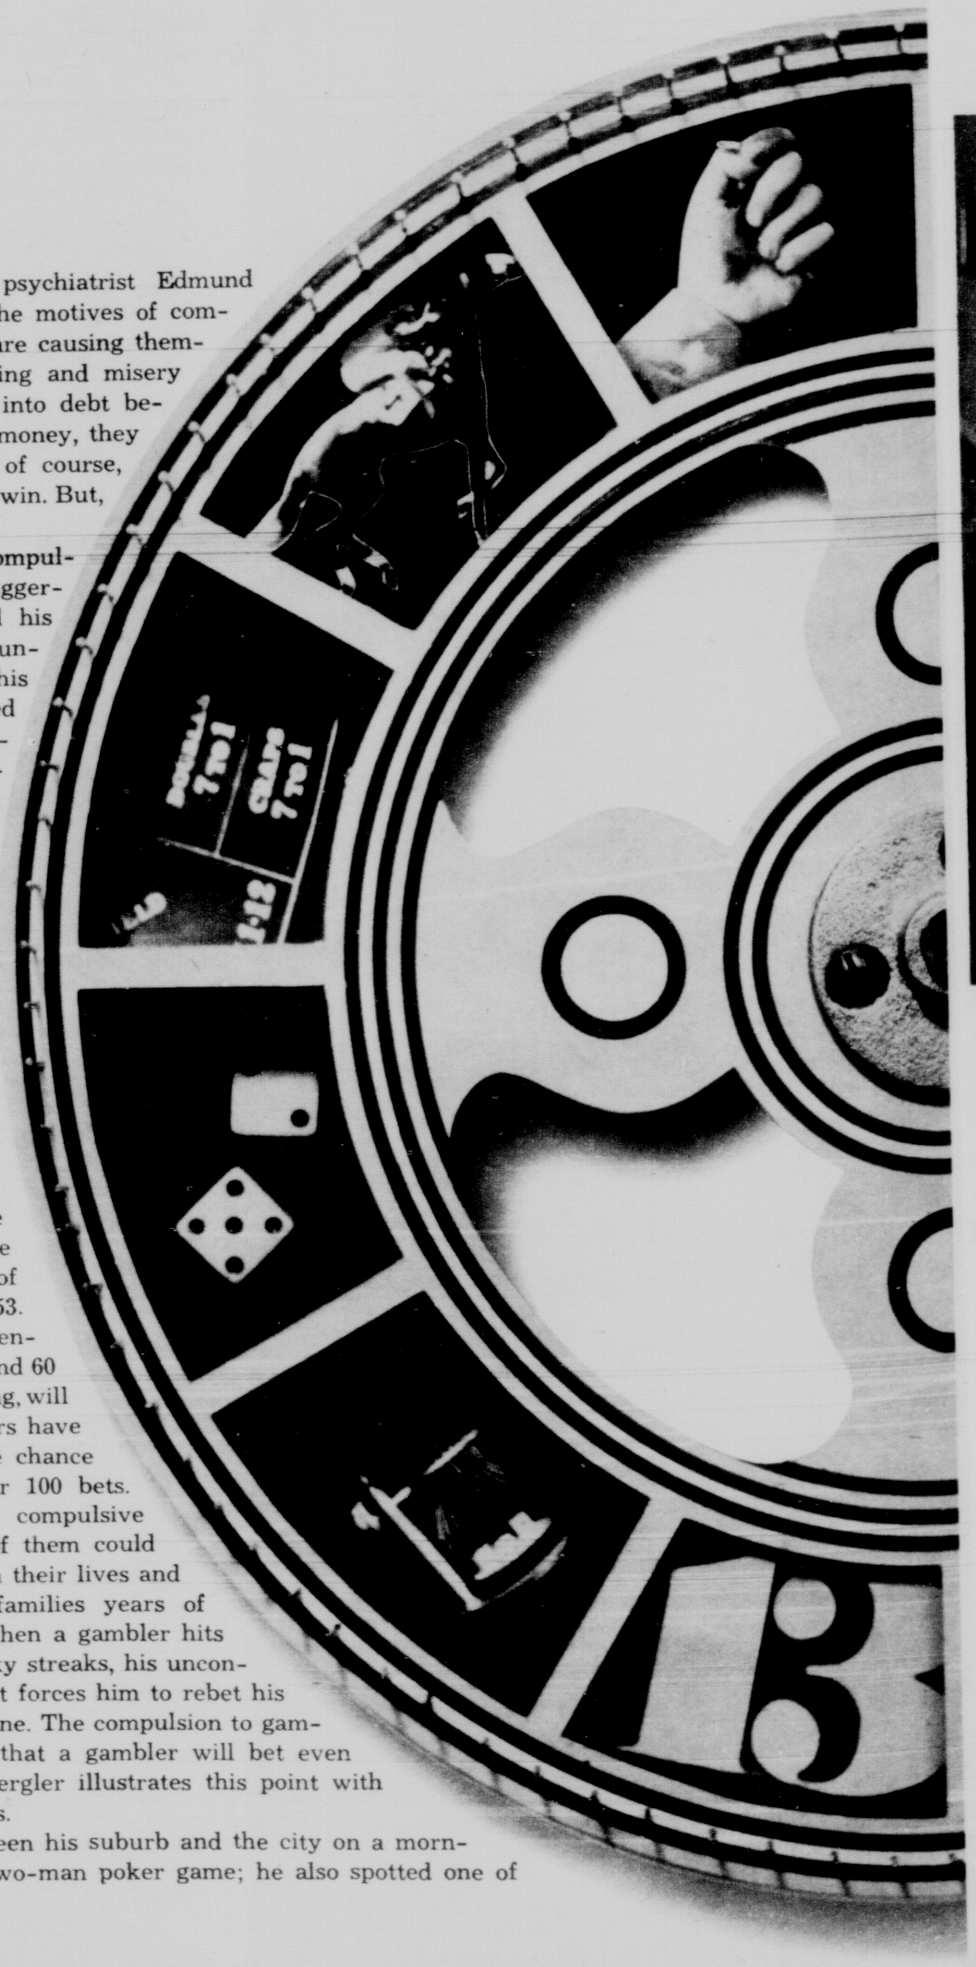
NEW HOPE FOR THE

The disease of gambling dooms more Americans than however, is helping victims avoid a destiny that



"I tried to rob a bank. I was tired of 15 years of lying, cheating, and worrying over the misery I was causing my family by gambling. Now I know that I really wanted to get shot."

"I took half the payroll, $1,100, and told my employees that the bank had made a mistake. I knew I was wrong, but I thought I could double the amount. I went downtown to shoot dice and lost the whole $1,100 in two hours."

"At night I stole my wife's jewelry, even her wedding ring. The next day I pawned the pieces for $75. I felt miserable, but I did it anyway; the horse I bet on came in fourth."

THE THREE MEN who spoke were not dejected, unshaved criminals standing before bright kleig lights at a police line-up. The bank robber was a respected, soft-spoken public accountant, the embezzler a neatly dressed, modest businessman, and the thief a steady worker in a machine shop. They were compulsive gamblers, victims of an addiction worse even than narcotics or drink, one which claims a million more people in the United States than its nearest competitor, alcoholism. They were speaking at a recent group meeting of Gamblers Anonymous, a young, nationwide fraternity of men and women who have banded together in self-defense against their strange compulsion.

"Our stories are typical," the bank robber said after the meeting. "If a compulsive gambler hasn't already embezzled, faked checks, stolen jewelry and money from his wife, or robbed a bank, he is thinking of it. We all owe thousands of loan sharks, finance companies, bookies, and banks. Most of us are rebuilding broken or shaky marriages, and we are constantly battling the urge to gamble. But we admit we are sick. We're the lucky ones."

An estimated six million persons in the United States are gone-wild gamblers who cannot check their compulsion to plunge dollar after dollar at the race track, casino, or neighborhood crap game, even while the gas and electricity have been shut off at home and the refrigerator stands empty.

Uncontrolled gambling is blamed for wrecking thousands of families, and medical and police authorities point to it as the cause for many suicides and sudden disappearances with money. It is responsible for an estimated 75 percent of the billion dollars annually embezzled from business.

Yet the compulsive gambler is not a criminal; he is a victim of a psychological malady almost too strange to be believed, one which is only now coming to the attention of the general public.

"The amazing truth," says psychiatrist Edmund Bergler, pioneer researcher in the motives of compulsive gamblers, "is that they are causing themselves and their families suffering and misery and getting deeper and deeper into debt because they don't gamble to win money, they gamble to lose it. Consciously, of course, the gambler believes he wants to win. But, in fact, he gambles to lose."

According to Dr. Bergler, a compulsive gambler is venting an exaggerated childhood hostility toward his parents, and then paying for this unconscious aggression by losing his money. A gambler is convinced he will eventually make his fortune without lifting a finger, believing all the while that this proves his parents were mean and "stupid" to have made him leave his infantile all-play-and-no-work world. But his unconscious guilt in trying to show up his parents drives him to debt, more gambling, and heavier losing.

"The way the odds are against the gambler," Dr. Bergler adds, "the technique for losing is simple enough: the gambler just keeps on gambling!" Rules of chance dictate that in 41 spins of the roulette wheel, about an hour's worth of playing, the gambler will lose $53. The crap table is even more expensive—45 passes of the dice, around 60 minutes of high-tension gambling, will cost him $111. But horse players have the worst odds of all, only one chance in 25 of making a profit after 100 bets.

It is a tragic fact that if compulsive gamblers were normal, most of them could have quit ahead at one point in their lives and saved themselves and their families years of heartaches and distress. But when a gambler hits one of those unpredictable lucky streaks, his unconscious need for self-punishment forces him to rebet his winnings until they, too, are gone. The compulsion to gamble, and to lose, is so strong that a gambler will bet even when doom is obvious. Dr. Bergler illustrates this point with the story of one of his patients.

taurants. Yet he spent thousands of dollars on a housewarming party he gave at Sutton Place last year.

More than 3,000 guests attended—including several hundred gate crashers. They were given all they could hold of the finest caviar, lobster, giant strawberries, vintage champagne, and cognac. The dancing and other festivities went on until long after dawn.

As for his own eating habits, they are as American as his heritage—which stems from Irish and Scots forebears who settled in America during colonial days and for one of whom, James Getty, the city of Gettysburg, Pa., was named. He'll take plain steaks, chops, and roasts in preference to more exotic dishes any day—his favorites being roast duck or grilled fresh-water trout. His preference in desserts is ice cream drowned in black walnut syrup—something he has loved ever since he was a child.

The World's Richest Man does not smoke, and he drinks sparingly. A staunch physical-culture enthusiast, he lifts weights regularly, goes for long walks, and swims a great deal. Virile and vigorous, he has an almost full head of hair; he looks and acts years younger than his age—and he can outwork and outplay the average man half his age.

A little-known facet of the billionaire's personality is his love for animals. In his boyhood, his first pet and constant companion was a dog, "Jip." In the diary he kept—and which he has preserved—young Paul often recorded the adventures he and Jip shared.

Getty still loves dogs. He has five big Alsatians and a tiny Norwich terrier at Sutton Place. He feeds and exercises the dogs personally, and they are devoted to him.

MUCH HAS been said—or rather, rumored—about Paul Getty's frugality. Some gossips have gone so far as to charge that he is a pinch-penny.

I'll agree that Getty is frugal—when it comes to spending money on himself. But there his frugality ends. He gave the Los Angeles County Museum a million dollars' worth of art all at once, and he donated Malibu Beach property worth several millions to the State of California for use as a public park. He derived no tax advantage from these gifts.

Getty's fabulous Ranch House in Santa Monica—filled with art treasures worth a dozen fortunes—has been turned into a museum that is open to the public. He contributes generously to many other charities. His share of the proceeds from the many articles I have written with him are turned over to the Salvation Army, which has received several thousand dollars in this way.

Paul Getty helps support many old friends and acquaintances who are unable to work because of age, illness, or disability. When someone he knows dies leaving dependents and no insurance, he quickly sees to it that the survivors do not remain in want.

Expatriate American millionaire Melville "Jack" Forrester, who lives in Paris and is one of Getty's closest friends, is the billionaire's most frequent instrument for distributing financial help to those Paul Getty feels may need it.

"Lord only knows how much money Paul has given me to pass out over the years," Forrester says. "It has been plenty, though. He's a funny guy—he doesn't want people to know the money is coming from him."

The billionaire has four sons by various wives—a fifth and youngest son, Timmy, died in 1958. All four boys went into the "family" business, starting at the bottom as attendants in Getty-owned filling stations—and all four worked themselves up to executive positions in their father's firms.

Two years ago, the youngest of the four, Gordon—then 28—announced that he wanted to strike out on his own as a composer of serious music. Paul Getty raised no objections. In fact, he was quite proud of his son.

"It's good to know that my sons have the courage of their convictions. I want them to do what they think has the most real and lasting value in life," he says. And, again, he means what he says.

J. PAUL GETTY'S sons all call him "Father," and it's evident that they have deep affection as well as respect for him. Something of this feeling can also be found among Getty's associates and employees. Many have been with him since the 1920s. They are devoted to Getty, to whom they usually refer by his initials, "J. P. G."

Getty is a tough employer who demands the utmost from those who work with him, but they know that no matter how hard they work, J. P. G. always works harder and longer hours. His drilling crews know that he is likely to turn up any time at one of the oil fields, wearing work clothes, to pitch in on the drilling rig.

"He's still one of the best supers in the business," one veteran driller told me. "I guess he knows as much about drilling as anyone."

Paul Getty is also a fair and considerate employer. He seldom fails to say "please" or "thank you," and when he's wrong, he'll admit it. Like all bosses, he occasionally gets grumpy or unreasonable—but he always apologizes afterwards, and his apologies are sincere.

There isn't much employee turnover in the Getty companies, and they have been singularly free of labor strife.

Although he has a fantastic memory for business details, occasionally the billionaire will get his appointments mixed up. It's not unknown for three or four people to arrive at Sutton Place for, say, 3 o'clock appointments. Naturally, some are forced to wait an hour or two before they can see him.

On the other hand, Getty is a stickler for punctuality in others. "When I say come at 2 p. m., I mean just that—not five minutes to 2 or five minutes after 2," he has growled at me more than once!

This, then, is the J. Paul Getty I have known for many years. He's certainly far from the image that has been painted of him by some.

As far as I'm concerned, Getty could have 10 dollars—or 10 billion dollars—and it wouldn't change my opinion of him a whit. For my money, he's one of the most intelligent, most fascinating—and certainly one of the nicest—human beings I've ever met.

More than 3,000 guests attended—including several hundred gate crashers. They were given all they could hold of the finest caviar, lobster, giant strawberries, vintage champagne, and cognac. The dancing and other festivities went on until long after dawn.

As for his own eating habits, they are as American as his heritage—which stems from Irish and Scots forebears who settled in America during colonial days and for one of whom, James Getty, the city of Gettysburg, Pa., was named. He'll take plain steaks, chops, and roasts in preference to more exotic dishes any day—his favorites being roast duck or grilled fresh-water trout. His preference in desserts is ice cream drowned in black walnut syrup—something he has loved ever since he was a child.

The World's Richest Man does not smoke, and he drinks sparingly. A staunch physical-culture enthusiast, he lifts weights regularly, goes for long walks, and swims a great deal. the men cheating. The cheater saw Mr. X watching and invited him to sit in. "I knew I had to lose with this man, but I couldn't resist gambling," Mr. X said later. He was right about losing, to the tune of $50, all the money he was carrying.

While an alcoholic will become an unshaven, red-nosed stumblebum weaving through the streets in dirty clothes, a gambler will keep himself neat right to the day he is arrested for forging checks or embezzling funds. His certain conviction that someday he must win, actually the part of the neurosis which camouflages his real motives, makes him the most destructive of all addicts. Where an alcoholic spends $10 or $15 a day on drink, a gambler can plunge $1,000 or $2,000 in an afternoon and a life's savings in a day—and no one will be the wiser except his desperate wife and hungry children.

For this reason, most men come to Gamblers Anonymous meetings after they have hit bottom and are willing to try anything to get out.

"My low came with a jail sentence," says one GA member, graduate of an Ivy League university. "I embezzled money from my job to gamble, and I told myself that I would pay it back after my big win. I got caught in a surprise audit, but that's not when I went to jail. The judge set up a restitution committee, and I paid it a certain sum each week. But I still couldn't control my gambling.

"I wrote the committee a check for $300 but used the money I should have deposited for gambling—and lost. When the judge found out I had given his committee a phony check, he sent me to Sing Sing. While in jail, I finally realized that I must be sick if I couldn't control the gambling urge."

"My low came," recalls another GA member, owner of a small toy factory, "when, at a time that I owed thousands to bookies, loan sharks, finance companies, and banks, the Government put in a huge claim for back taxes and social-security funds I lost on the horses. I broke down in front of my family. I let everything loose and told them about all my debts. My brother wanted to hit me, but my kid sister yelled, 'Can't you see he's sick?' That was the first time I realized I was sick. After that I sought help from our local GA."

One of its first steps is to help the gambler get back on his feet financially. "Gamblers Anonymous helped me talk to the loan sharks, finance companies, and banks," one gambler recounted. "When they saw I wasn't running from them any more and that I really wanted to pay back what I owed, they all came to easier terms, even the corner bookie. That was my first help. The moral one was even greater. When you see guys worse off than you are, you realize that no situation is so bad that another bet won't make it worse."

After encouraging a new member to make a list of creditors and allotting time payments to each one, often just $1 or $2 a week, GA suggests that the gambler start a bank account. "After three months of saving, I have $21 in my account," said a GA member. "Not much, I know, but I'm as proud of that $21 as I would be of a million."

GA stoutly maintains that the only cured compulsive gambler is a dead one. For this reason, gamblers keep coming to meetings long after they have stopped betting. "I haven't gambled in two years," one East Coast member says, "but I still need to come to meetings. I get more determination than ever to keep clean when I see all the misery a new member is in. I know that it wouldn't take much for me to become him again. In turn, I talk to each of them, and they get hope from seeing that I've been off gambling for so long."

Gamblers Anonymous members sometimes have setbacks, but they are usually lighter than their old flings. "Take the case of a member last week," said a West Coast chapter leader. "He bet his monthly payment on his home with the bookies and lost $65. But if he didn't belong to GA, that would have been just the beginning. Soon there would have been a loan on the house as he tried to win back his losses, and then complete disaster. Thanks to the moral support of other GA members, however, he stopped. Two years ago he would have ended on skid row. I know—I'm the man."

GA is trying to show that the compulsive gambler is not just a legal problem but a medical one, too—a problem worsening yearly as people find more leisure time and more money.

GA is working hard, and succeeding in proving that as bad as this problem is—it can be cured.

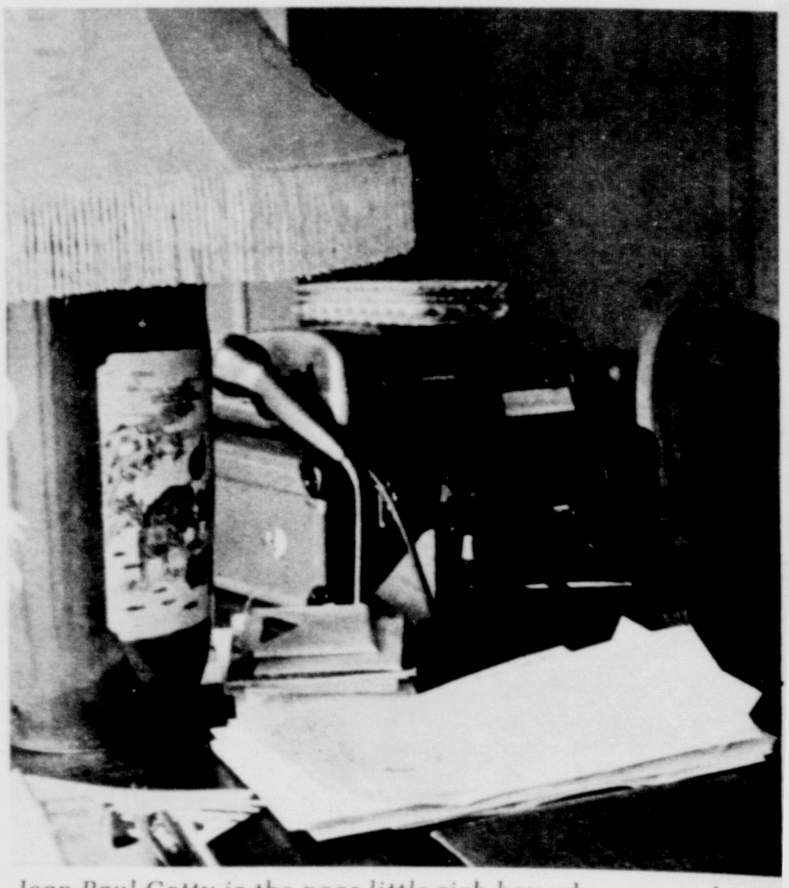
Meet the World's Richest Man



Jean Paul Getty is the poor little rich boy who grew to be

Eccentric, irascible, miserly—J. Paul Getty has been described as all of these; here's what he's really like

By BELA VON BLOCK

UNTIL 1957, J. (for Jean) Paul Getty was virtually unknown to the American public. Then a national magazine published an article which revealed that the Minneapolis-born oil man was a full-fledged billionaire, the richest of all Americans—and quite probably the richest man in the world.

Since then, the 69-year-old tycoon has become the subject—and the target—of countless myths, legends, and rumors. For no good reason, some people have characterized him as cold, unapproachable, self-centered, devoid of emotion, and a martinet to associates and employees.

Now I have known J. Paul Getty for several years. I have collaborated with him on a book and nearly a score of articles. And I have gotten to know a number of his friends, business associates, employees, and members of his family.

What, then, is he really like—this oil magnate—whose personal holdings are estimated to be worth as much as 10 billion dollars?

First of all, he is honest, frank, and straightforward—and he expects those around him to be the same.

Unlike many successful businessmen who like to pretend they are infallible, Getty unhesitatingly admits he has made several blunders which cost him millions.

He's no less willing to admit that he has made mistakes in his private life. The tall, husky billionaire—he stands 5'11" and weighs 180—has been married five times. All five unions ended in divorce—and he assumes the blame for these matrimonial failures.

The World's Richest Man has never forgotten his wildcatting days, and he talks of them—and his childhood and youth—quite often.

His father, George Franklin Getty, was a self-made man who became a successful attorney in Minneapolis, then went on to become a millionaire in the oil business.

When 22-year-old Paul finished at Oxford in 1914, his father gave him a $100-a-month allowance and a year to make good on his own. Paul began wildcatting, struck oil, and by the end of 1916 had made the first of his innumerable millions.

By 1930, young Getty was worth several millions. He began buying stocks, and to the consternation of all in the oil business, launched a campaign for control of the Tidewater Associated Oil Company—one of the industry's giants.

Today he owns or controls not only Tidewater, the Getty Oil Company, and Skelly Oil Company, but also a host of other companies on five continents. His holdings include vast oil fields, refineries, a huge fleet of supertankers, pipelines, factories, hotels, and myriad other enterprises.

ALTHOUGH he has always been dedicated to his first love, business, Getty is nonetheless a man of great sensitivity. His collections of paintings, sculpture, tapestries, antique furniture, carpets, antique silver, and rare books are worth countless millions. His "Ranch House" in Santa Monica, Calif., and Sutton Place—the English manor he purchased in 1959 from the Duke of Sutherland and where he now spends much of his time—are considered by architects and decorators to be among the most beautiful private residences in the world.

The red-haired, energetic billionaire attends operas, concerts, and plays regularly. He reads everything: newspapers, magazines, technical manuals and books, works on art and history, contemporary fiction and nonfiction, and the classics. He is fluent in five languages.

Although he has been a multimillionaire for more than 40 years, J. Paul Getty has retained many simple—even homely—tastes. He balks at employing exclusive tailors to make his clothes, dressing well but inexpensively; he'll shop carefully before buying half-a-dozen shirts or a dozen pairs of socks. (Like Harry S. Truman, he prefers to wash his own socks and often does, laundering them in his magnificent green-and-yellow onyx bathroom before he goes to bed!)

When he dines out alone, he goes to medium-priced res-
